THOUSANDS PRAYING FOR STOUGH TODAY

STOUGH PROGRAM To-day No afternoon meeting at tabernacle. To-night, 7:30, sermon and trail-hitting service at tabernacle. To-morrow Prayer meetings all over city, 9 to 9:30 o'clock. 10 o'clock, meeting for high school girls at Fourth Street Church of God by Miss Saxman. Noon meeting at the New Idea hosiery factory. 2:30 o'clock, meeting for the at-home young women at Fourth Street Church of God by Miss Saxman. Noon, shop meetings at Enola car shops, Steelton bridge shop, Packing and Storage Company plant. 1 o'clock, meeting by Miss Eggleston at the Fifth Street M. E. Church for children of the Cameron, Calder, Rely, Hamilton and Verbeke school buildings.

were assembled and preached a short, earnest sermon to them on the certainty of each seeker knowing the truth if he only would be willing to do God's will. "Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out," he quoted in proof of his argument. He stood with his overcoat thrown about his shoulders, as he said he was wet through after the strenuous preaching of the evening. He shook hands with every trailhitter and asked personal experiences from each one.

Husbands and Wives Half a dozen husbands and wives hit the trail together; a number of men declared they were done with booze forever; one gray haired man said he was returning to the faith after fifteen years of drifting from the church; a man 58 years old said he felt better than he ever did in his life before, and was "going to cut out the liquor" which he had used since he was a boy. Dr. Stough's sermon was on the "Prodigal Son," and he gave a picture of the realization of its strength by the sinner before he can return and be forgiven. The sermon was an illustration of the evangelist's power in drawing a contrast between humor and pathos.

When a Boy's a Tadpole He first made the audience laugh and applaud by his description of a young man becoming tired of parental restriction and sick of his home. "It is a story repeated in every generation since the world started and is going on in hundreds of homes in every community at the present day," he began. "The time comes in the boy's life when he is neither boy nor man, when he is neither a pollywog nor a bullfrogs—he's a tadpole—when the plasters down his hair with hair grease, (that's the way I lost mine) and turns from paper collars to linen and buys dollar "cravats," instead of 10-cent neckties; when he gets tired of milking the hogs and cows at home and wants to go forth into the wide world."

The description of the farm boy's trials and barnyard troubles and his impatience with the folks at home made everyone laugh. Then he grew serious and told of the breaking of the home ties and the mother's tears.

PIMPLES ON NECK AND FOREHEAD

Would Burn Something Fierce, Came to Head, Red and Inflamed, Clothing Irritated, Very Disfiguring, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, Pimples Gone.

2608 N. 28th St., Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was suffering with pimples on my neck and forehead and whenever I got warm it would burn something fierce. They also affected my chest. The pimples came to a head, then they would rub off and come again. They were red and inflamed and I think my clothing irritated them because whenever I was in a warm room they would itch something terrible. They were very disfiguring on my face. "I used without success and the trouble had lasted about three months when I read of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I washed my face, neck and chest with the Cuticura Soap and warm water, dried it and put the Cuticura Ointment on and in about a month my face was as soft and nice as ever. The pimples were gone." (Signed) William S. Blair, Jr., Jan. 31, 1914.

as the boy started on his trip to the city.

Men in the Gutter He gave reminiscences of things he had seen in Chicago and other cities, of men down and out, rolling in the gutter, soaked "with rotten whisky" and with the last vestige of self respect gone, men who had been well bred and college trained. "Speaking of college men," he said, "I think we ought to send up a prayer for many of the boys and girls who are in the average American college to-day."

"The more I see of some men, the more respect I have for hogs," he declared. "I have seen some trained hogs at the Chicago fair who were more like gentlemen. They could eat pie at a table—and not with their knives, either."

When Only the Hogs Are Friends "After the down-and-outer has no friends but the hogs left, he begins to think and has the revelation that is the key to the situation. He realizes that back of all was his father's work which had meant shelter, food, money, love, and that God I could only get you people to think as the prodigal thought. If you only thought seriously for five minutes you would take the course that would mean a reconstruction of character. "Let me impress on you that the Father in Heaven loves you and if you, sinner, go and confess that you have been a fool he will see you afar off and be moved with compassion to forgive. The world says you are getting what you deserve, but if you want to know how much the Father loves you, look at the Christ perhaps those."

Music a Big Factor Many of them are slow to listen to the argument but gradually are softened and come forward on the arm of the persuader. The music by the choir is a big factor in bringing the trailhitters, and Professor Spooner gets in his strongest work after the close of the sermon. The singing of short hymns and verses, allowing interruptions for Dr. Stough to make further calls and take up the reluctant ones in the audience. As each one comes forward many of the chorus members clap and Dr. Stough reaches down from his platform and grasps the trailhitters' hand.

Laments the Average Christian's Lack of Biblical Knowledge

Miss Palmer lived up to her reputation of being one of the foremost women preachers in the country yesterday afternoon when she gave the first sermon since the opening of the campaign to a mixed audience. In concise, forcible language she preached on "Faith."

She spoke of the great ignorance of the Bible that is so common among the Christians, so few of whom are able to do an adverse argument by saying "It is written" and "Thus saith the Word," and proceeding with a quotation in proof.

High School Night Will Attract Hundreds Friday

Horn blowing, high school yells and a general hip-hip-hooray time will be carried on at the tabernacle Friday night, when hundreds of thousands of students of the Central and Technical high schools will attend services in a body. The fifteen minutes before the opening of the meeting will be given over to a free-for-all burst of enthusiasm of youthful spirits, after which the young men and women will settle down in their seats and listen to a sermon by Dr. Stough bearing especially on the interests and needs of young people.
