PA. STEEL BESSEMER RESUMES OPERATIONS

General Improvement in the Steel Trade Predicted; Big Order is Booked Locally

The first local indication of improvement in the iron and steel trade which has taken a turn for the better, was felt to-day when the Bessemer mill of the Pennsylvania Steel plant resumed operations.

This mill was out since September 1. Beginning this morning it will turn out twelve heats of steel by the duplex system.

That the improvement on the steel trade will be felt generally within the next few months, is predicted by the Iron Age, a leading trade journal this morning.

In part it says: "Pig iron buying has increased; as to that there is no doubt. In finished steel markets the expectation of better demand just ahead is stronger, for inquiry has grown, and in some lines the decline in orders has stopped. Many manufacturing consumers seem to be waiting for the reductions in labor cost which it is widely believed will become effective January 1. Whether prices meantime will discount them is the question close buyers are trying to answer."

"The export movement is still much below the average of the first six months of the year. The French contracts for 3 1/2-in. shrapnel rounds went at low prices, about 18,000 tons being divided between two Pittsburgh companies."

"The inquiry of the New York Central for 25,000 tons of rails is likely to result in winter rollings for one mill, at least. Otherwise the rail makers have little to relieve the prospect of a very lean winter. The Pennsylvania Steel Company has booked a 3,500-ton order and the Ensley mill has a week's double-turn operation ahead. Rails were part of the cargo of the first steamer of the new Mobile-San Francisco line which sailed from Mobile last week."

NEW LIGHTING PLANS UP TO COMMITTEE

Meeting Will Be Held Soon to Consider Changes; Councilman Frank Stees Returns

With the return this morning of Councilman Frank Stees, a member of the town property committee, who has been out of town since the last council meeting, it is likely that action on the proposed changes in the borough street lighting system will be hastened.

A joint meeting of the town property and finance committees and Robert W. Hoy, of the Harrisburg Light and Power Company, will be called to arrange the final plans for the proposed changes. This meeting has been scheduled for some time, but the absence of councilmen has made it necessary to postpone the conference.

It is proposed to do away with the present style of lights in a number of places and to install in their places 100-candlepower incandescents on long metal arms. It is also proposed to change the location of many lights to better distribution. Many additional lights will also be installed in the foreign districts. It is hoped that this will lessen the disorder now prevailing in these sections.

VOLCANO IN NICARAGUA IS REPORTED TO BE IN ACTION

By Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 19.—Volcano ash from the belching crater of Cerro Negro in Nicaragua is said to have fallen an inch deep in and about the city of Leon, and has been blown 25 miles to the decks of ships in Corinto harbor, Commander Zielemeter of the cruiser Denver reported to-day to the Navy Department. During the early part of the month, the report stated, two columns of smoke arose from the crater and at night the burning lava mingling with the smoke resulted in a "fountain-like appearance."

WELFARE CONFERENCE WILL CLOSE TODAY

discussed and Dr. Dixon gave his address.

Dr. Dixon's address, which attracted much attention, was headed by these epigrams:

"Often the air in a hotel is purer than that in pretentious mansions."
"More people die from the improper use of steam heat than freeze to death."
"Wealth has no monopoly on cleanliness."
"Houses must not only be well built, they must be well used."

In the course of his talk the commissioner said:

"The term 'housing conditions' must have a broad definition. If our laborers are to be thorough we must follow the man, woman and child through the twenty-four hours of the day, where they sleep, where they eat, where they play, in the schoolroom, in the church, in the workroom and in the hospital."

"I have found little wooden shacks loosely constructed with plenty of knot holes and furnished with large shacks that have been more sanitary than some of the large houses. Our people in all circles of life want to be educated in health measures, as they are too often heated with direct steam or hot water plants. The old shacks when kept clean were often more healthful. Some of the foreigners who come to this country for a short time with the idea of saving all they make so that they may return home with their little fortunes will have to be deprived of the miserable tenement accommodations, as they are breeders of disease. In some of these places the mattresses never get cold, as one shift follows close on the heels of the other. Such housing will have to be broken up and better homes built."

"In facing this broad problem one of our greatest aids is education. People must be taught to use the homes which they have to the best possible advantage and they must in turn become missionaries to teach others."

"This is a great work and the efforts of the state must not be too paternal. It will not do to say that the people must build a certain type of house. We can, however, say that certain things must be avoided which would injure the health of the individual in the community. Individuals, municipalities and nations must be their own keepers. It is a mistake to discourage initiative. Permit everyone to build with only the limitation of that which will directly or indirectly reflect upon someone else."

"Our tuberculosis nurses working in every community in the state have become familiar with the housing problems and needs of the poor people. The work of our health officers in the rural districts and boroughs lead them to those places where there is a need for improvement. Our school inspectors have under their supervision the structures in which our children spend so large a portion of their time."

"The work of the housing bureau has dovetailed in with the other work being done by the state. Under the supervision of the state, under the work of workers throughout the state. Under this growing system it offers an economical and effective method of duplicating the work with practically the same overhead charges and saves duplications of machinery and the overlapping of responsibilities."

The Governor's Remarks

One of the big features was the presentation of a certificate of honorary membership in the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania to Governor John K. Tener. The Governor in his response stated the State had gone forward in all departments in four years. He praised the manner in which the new Department of Labor and Industry had secured results, the work of the Health Department, the military, highway, legal, insurance and other departments, all of which had won credit for doing some "real practical things that counted for the betterment of our citizenship, the conservation of life, health and property."

The Governor said that he regretted that a workmen's compensation act had not been passed. "I regret that it had not been passed. I regret that it had not been passed."

"The Governor said that he regretted that a workmen's compensation act had not been passed. I regret that it had not been passed."

"SHORT LINES" ARE BEING DISCUSSED

Public Service Commission Hearing Argument Whether They Are Entitled to Allowances

Argument in the industrial railroad cases in which a dozen or more "short lines," owned by manufacturing and other corporations, are petitioning the Public Service Commission for restoration of allowances by trunk lines was begun before the commission to-day, hearings having been held in the last three months. George Stuart Patterson, of Philadelphia, presented the case of the Pennsylvania system and C. S. Beelerling, of New York, for the "short lines" controlled by the United States Steel Corporation.

A score of attorneys, among whom are George Wilson, of Philadelphia, and C. E. McVeagh, of Philadelphia, will speak. The whole commission is sitting in the case in which a decision will probably be given before the end of the year. The proposition to be determined is which of the lines are really railroads and entitled to allowances.

Few New Cases.—A few new cases of foot and mouth disease were reported to-day from central counties after thirty-six hours in which no new cases were returned. The cases are in districts where the infection was previously noted. State Veterinarian Marshall stated that the quarantine regulations were being handled satisfactorily and that cattle were being moved under State permits.

Judge Files Account.—Judge George Kunkel, of Harrisburg, candidate for Supreme Court, filed his personal expense account to-day showing that he had expended $1,500, of which was given to the committee which managed his campaign. He received no contributions.

More Protests.—The Public Service Commission received to-day additional protests against the proposed increase in passenger fares from the following:
