EXPENSE OF A HUNTING TRIP IN THE TROPICS

Allowing for some inexperience, and no Spanish spoken, two men hunting and fishing, camping out most of the time, should travel in splendid shape for five dollars a day each. To the expense of the island journey add the steamship fare to and from the point of entry, make the usual allowances for tips and incidentals, and you will find that the total cost for a two months' trip to the wilds of Honduras will be about $450, or say about seven or eight dollars a day each from New York to New York. A three months' trip made some years ago to Central America, using public conveyances, steamers from port to port, etc., cost, from New York to New York, just a trifle over eight dollars a day. This allowance for a hunting trip should, therefore, be ample, hiring the packing outfit in the country by the day.

Don't lease on a hunting trip before the beginning of September or after the middle of February. Then take a vessel direct to the port of entry.

SNAKES TO RAISE UP THEIR HEADS AT TECH

Noted Ophiologist Will Lecture Upon Crawling Creatures and Their Habits at Tech

M. B. FOSTER

A writhing, squirming, wriggling menagerie of snakes arrived in Harrisburg this afternoon and were delivered at once to the Technical High school.

They were not the kind that mockingly lift their heads from a jug of the nasty stuff which dethrones the reason and whose traffic is confidently expected to be driven out of Harrisburg by the Stough campaign, but real, live denizens of the woods and fields, collected from all parts of the United States by M. B. Foster, the noted ophiologist, who will give a lecture upon "Snakes and Their Habits" under the auspices of the Harrisburg Natural History Society to-night at 8 o'clock in the Tech auditorium. Colored lantern slides and living specimens in the hands of the lecturer will be used by way of illustration. This is the society's monthly, free lecture for November.

EXPEDITION MEMBERS WELL. New York, Nov. 20.—All the members of the Crocker Land Expedition, headed by Dr. Donald B. MacMillan, were well on August 29, according to a letter written on that date by Elmer Ekblaw, geologist of the party. Part of Ekblaw's letter was made public today by Edmund Otis Hovey, chairman of the committee in charge of the expedition. The letter was written aboard K. Rasmussen's motorboat in a raging sea just south of Cape Alexander.

rectly at the young people and he will exhort them to lead lives of righteousness and to hit the trail in public confession of their decision to follow the cross of the Christ.

Girls and boys from the two schools have been active in the campaign from its inception and many of these will help in the personal work this evening.

"Hell Uncovered" Sunday night Dr. Stough will preach on "Booze and Hoisters; Or, Hell Uncovered." This is the sermon which culminated in the "Elmira outrage" a couple of years ago and which resulted in four $50,000 slander suits being brought against Dr. Stough by Lutheran country boys.

"We're going to throw down the gauntlet to the gang that's been running Harrisburg to hell," Dr. Stough said when he announced the sermon. "I think maybe some of you had better wear your esbestos suits. And you reporters," turning to the press table, "had better have a pail of water handy to dip your pencils in. I expect, too, though I'm not quite sure, that you chief of police a little more information than he has now."

Railroaders Hit Trail With many more humorous interruptions and side thrusts than he has used recently, Dr. Stough preached another strong evangelistic sermon last night with an appeal for confession that had especially attracted the hundreds of railroad men who occupied reserved seats in the tabernacle.

Many of these men were among the near a hundred trailblitters who answered the call for lost souls. Engineers, firemen and trainmen, clerks, shopmen and yard laborers were included in the number of heroes of the rail who made themselves still more heroic on the night of their public confession of their final obedience to the danger signals of life displayed by the evangelist.

A delegation of more than 500 men from the Rutherford and Harrisburg shops and yards of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad marched from the Reading station in a body headed by two men with a large locomotive bell which they rang as they entered the tabernacle. As they bore the bell to the platform the entire body sang in chorus a song prepared by the organist. Dr. Stough is the man, is the man, the Reading needs him, the Reading loves him; that's why we're here to-night."

Railroaders Bring Wives Another delegation of several hundred Pennsylvania railroad Enola men with their wives occupied seats at the opposite side of the tabernacle; and the wives of the men of the Pine Street Presbyterian Church and the Bethany chapel were in a third group of reserved seats.

An immense basket of white lilies and red roses were sent to the Reading men as they sang their chorus. Dr. Stough was perceptibly moved and in his speech of thanks he thanked the women who deeply he appreciated the gift.

"Gentlemen," he said, "these flowers that you send to me are an unconscious tribute to the Saviour whom I adore. The flowers are only different between me and a sinner; is that I am only a sinner saved by the grace of Christ. There are two great classes of everyday heroes, in my opinion—the firemen who protect our homes and property in the cities, and the railroad men who make it safe for us to travel all over the country and who risk their lives daily, never knowing when it may happen to them at any time to plunge them into eternity."

Pays Tribute to Mothers He also paid a tribute to the Bethany and Pine street mothers and referred to his own wife. "The standby and helpmate in the work of my life, who stay at home while I am traveling and cares for the six birds of our nest." He said there is no higher or nobler cause than to be a mother and that nothing this side of heaven compares with it.

Dr. Stough's sermon was on the "New Birth," from the text, "Marvel not that I said unto you, ye must be born again." And he defined it as a regeneration of heart coming only through a faith in Jesus Christ and not through any religious ceremony or profession of creed.

In beginning, he said, "you can not walk very far along your Market street with the world and with your city. You must agree with me that men are somewhat out of relation with each other and with God. The old book says that the world has gone wrong and it is very evident that she is still going wrong to-day. Men are dead in their trespasses and sins.

"Churchianity" "Man cannot be made over again by church membership and pretended Christianity. Churchianity is the worst enemy that Christianity has, some of you are going to hell with the church label on you.

"Man cannot be born again by confirmation alone. I do not deny the ceremony, but I say it is not enough. The new birth does not come through environment, nor is it prevented by any form of environment. Some of you men say that you cannot be Christians on the railroad or in the shop or in places where rough men congregate, but this has nothing to do with it—it is a matter of the heart. All matters of circumstances are merely secondary to this vital matter.

Eve Went Wrong "I wish that all men had only eight hours work every day—if only they knew how to spend the other sixteen properly. I would like to see every man with a good home, with baths and every convenience, including a good mother-in-law, also better wages —If only he knew how to spend his money. These environments are good but they are not enough. Adam and Eve had the best of environments but they went crooked; Eve did not need to attend any cooking school, all she had to do was to pick pies off the trees, and she didn't have any dishes to wash either, but still she went "wrong." At this point Dr. Stough came down to modern times and local conditions and said, "Who are the crookedest people in this town? Why, among them are some of the people who live along the river, the old boys who have more money than they have religion, those who can write a $1,000 check without noticing it. Money is the quickest thing to damn a man when he has no religion.

The Baptism Some Need In regard to the rite of baptism, he said, he did not want to criticize or knock this ceremony, but that "you cannot put a little water on the forehead and clean up the heart. Some people need to be baptized with the table mop and then scrubbed with a curry comb. We don't need any old commentaries on this, because some of the commentators were 'bug-house.'" "You can not be born again by education. Colleges don't make for faith. President Elliot, of Marvard once spilled such a theory that more education was all that is required to make better men. But why then is it true that whenever the Harvard football teams go to New York a special squadron of police is needed to look after the college boys who get lost in the saloons, gambling dens and brothels of the city? "If you just put brains into a man who is bad at heart, you only make him more cunning. The worst crooks in the country are the college and university bred lawyers who practice in the large cities and show men and corporations how to evade the laws; they are refined crooks."

Preachers Jump His Neck He spoke of the harsh criticisms made about him and said he hoped that what some people are saying about him will not get into his biography. "I recently told some of the preachers they needed cleaning up and they nearly jumped a-straddle my neck." He apologized to the Bethany mothers and asked if their pastor ever preached to them in such a manner. He then cracked a joke at an elderly man and changes the vilest sinners into the holiest saints. The conclusion of his sermon leading up to the call for confession was a picture of the Saviour on the cross of Calvary and an appeal to the sinners to look and live.

Joins Church on a Wager Among the experiences given by trailblitters was one by a young man who said he had joined a church two years ago on a wager but he said he was sincere last night and meant business. When Dr. Stough asked him about smoking the boy pulled out a pack of cigarettes and promised never to use them again.

The evangelist said he usually noticed that when a man gave up drinking he persisted in the use of tobacco, he usually slid back into his old ways. Tobacco, he explained, is an irritant to the throat and weakens a man's resistance power to booze and tempts him back into the habit of drinking.

"Tobacco, booze and fast women are nearly always associated together. I never heard of a sporting woman but that she used cigarettes."

Among the Trailblitters Among other trailblitters was a young man who lost his job two weeks ago on account of drinking. Another man stayed away from his work last night to come to hit the trail at the request of his mother. A third said he had been induced to come forward by the preaching of his pastor in Elizabethtown, and he advised the local preachers to preach sermons that would get men to thinking. The sermon that had particularly moved him, he said was on the ten commandments. A Bethany mother said she had hit the trail to help her son and husband to follow.

The Hammerer Dr. Stough's afternoon sermon was on "The Power of the Word of God." He said in part, "As I told your ministers the other day, all the knocking and criticism of my work and methods and the opposition thrown at me is undoubtedly the first indication of the working of the spirit of the consciences of the community. But do not be worried, the preaching that touches all the ministers, church members and Sunday School officials is the hammer that crushes the rocks of indifference."

"Do you know why I prod the ministers? I am one myself and I know what they need,—a little knocking and prodding once in awhile. There is too much ice water in preaching instead of the warm milk of the word of God."

STOUGH PROGRAM To-day—Booster chorus meets for rehearsal under Professor Spooner at tabernacle at 4 o'clock. To-night at tabernacle, 7:30 o'clock, sermon to high school students by Dr. Stough. To-morrow, mass meeting for women only at 2 o'clock, address by Dr. Stough, "Is Marriage a Failure?" Noon meeting at the car barn of the Harrisburg Railway Company. Tabernacle service by Dr. Stough, 7:30.

STOUGH CAMPAIGN NOTES The Rev. A. W. Spooner, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Mount Carmel, offered the opening prayer at the tabernacle services last evening. The Rev. Mr. Spooner is the father of Professor Spooner, chorister of the big campaign chorus.

The Rev. William P. Nicholson, of the Nicholson-Hemming campaign, who has closed a successful campaign at Columbia, was in the meeting Wednesday night.

Interesting and well-attended shop meetings were held yesterday noon. At the bridge shop 200 men were present. H. K. W. Patterson spoke. At Enola car shops "Billy" Shannon and "Big Dick" Branston conducted a great meeting with 225 men present and much enthusiasm prevailed. At the packing and storage company Fred Cartwright and wife held a meeting with 100 men.

High school night, frog and switch department of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, Steelton, and a delegation from Duncannon will be at the tabernacle to-night.

preach on "The Fight in the Atr." W. W. Wallower and Ed. M. Neldinger carried the large engine bell last night which was sounded during the march of the Reading Railway men. C. E. Chamberlin and E. B. Luigard were also prominent men at the head of the procession.

Professor J. Raymond Hemminger, chorister, and Professor Gordon Johnson, pianist, of the Nicholson-Hemming campaign party, were on the platform last night.

H. H. Balish, chairman of the executive committee of the Altoona Stough evangelistic campaign, was on the ministers' platform last night.

The offering on Wednesday amounted to $204.28. There were 2,983 pennies and 2,120 nickels in the collection.

Among the visiting ministers on the platform last night were the Rev. I. N. Seidomridge, United Brethren, Elizabethtown; the Rev. I. P. Borstesser, Evangelical Association, Lebanon; the Rev. C. D. Dreher, Evangelical Association, presiding elder Reading district, Allentown; the Rev. William R. Ridington, Methodist Episcopal, Middletown; the Rev. I. K. Stratton, D. D., United Brethren, Hagerstown, Md.; the Rev. A. W. Spooner, Presbyterian, Mount Carmel; and the Rev. S. P. Remer, Hanover.

LIVE WIRE WORKERS Professor Charles F. Clippinger, chairman of the music committee, is one of the live wires of the campaign. He has been hustling the big chorus together with a membership of 1,750 voices.

John C. Frain, of the Fifth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, a member of the popular Sunday school orchestra, knows how to bring out music on his cornet in the campaign orchestra. He has been playing in many shop meetings at the noon and midnight hours.

A. W. Bushman, of the State Street United Brethren Church, is a live wire in church circles. He is one of the general stewards of his church.

Mrs. George W. Hamer, of the Ridge Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, is a prominent Sunday school teacher of the junior department. She is secretary of the ladies' sewing school and a soprano singer of the campaign chorus.

Mrs. Theo. B. Stouffer, of the Fourth Street Church of God, is a live wire in Sunday school work. She is the pianist of the Sunday school and a soprano singer in the campaign chorus.

Ladies: A Perfect Complexion is Your Birthright Shiny Skin a Thing of the Past Any woman who desires a beautiful, clear complexion that will attract eyes; that will compel the admiration of everyone, should go to any live druggist or department store to-day, and ask for a bottle of Cream Veo.

Cream Veo is not expensive and is simply delightful. It is made of pure, rich, heavy, olive oil as a base and besides giving to the skin that clear, healthy color it causes all irritation to disappear; removes all blackheads and presents and removes wrinkles.

It's fine for sunburn, too, and for crows' feet, enlarged pores, scales, shiny skin and red spots. It's a heavy liquid cream, easy to work and being a flesh builder it fills out the hollow places and unlike many other creams will not produce hair growths. Golden Seal Drug Store can supply you.—Advertisement.

A big women's meeting will be held in the Bridge Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday afternoon. Miss Palmer will speak on the subject "The Decision of a Court."

On Sunday morning Dr. Stough will
