

Choosing Your Xmas Piano Or Player Here Is Like Turning to Old Friends For True Guidance

For here you will find pianos and player-pianos whose names you have known all of your life-time; those that have been tested by long years of service, and whose quality is sure.

No need to take much time in the selection of such pianos, but early inspection is advised because of a wider range of styles and finish, so we suggest that you

Come In To-morrow

It's better--you know, to make comparisons and easier to make decisions while stocks are full. And

To-morrow Is Not Too Early to Bespeak Your Xmas Victrola or Edison Diamond Disc

Edison Diamond Disc, $250

The demand for these instruments increases almost daily, and the supply diminishes until certain styles are completely exhausted, sometimes weeks before Christmas.

Take no further chances; and take no person's say-so concerning which of these two instruments is BEST. Hear them both side-by-side; let each tell its own story. You may do so here, but not elsewhere for this is the only store in the city displaying all models of these two different instruments.

Prices on Victrolas range from $15 to $200; Edison Diamond Discs $60 to $450. Very convenient and confidential terms of payment will be extended on any instrument, to those who do not desire to pay all cash.

PERSONAL LESCURE-KNISELY MARYLAND WEDDING

Young Folks Go to Hagerstown to Avoid the Usual Wedding Festivities

Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Kniseley, 232 South Fourteenth street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Martha R. Kniseley, to Edward J. Lescuré, of 414 South Thirteenth street, at Hagerstown, Md., Tuesday, November 17, 1914.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. William Ott, pastor of the Lutheran Church.

The bride wore a tailored traveling suit of dark blue serge, fur-trimmed, and a large black velvet hat with pink ostrich tips. There were no attendants.

Miss Kniseley was employed by the Harrisburg Collar and Cuff Company as a stenographer for the past year. Mr. Lescuré, who is well known by the younger set, is connected with the Pennsylvania Steel Company as draftsman. Following a short wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Lescuré will be "at home" to their friends after December 1 at 232 South Fourteenth street.

CHILDREN'S PARTY

Merry Little Folks Guests of Miriam and Dorothea Beisser

One of the prettiest of children's parties was held from 6 to 8.30 o'clock yesterday at the Beisser home, 2110 Penn street, when the Misses Miriam and Dorothea Beisser entertained some of their little friends. Chrysanthemums and autumn foliage and blossoms formed a decorative garden scheme, and there were games, music and refreshments to delight the hearts of the guests.

THURSDAY CLUB GUESTS AT MRS. MINNICK'S HOME

The following ladies were served with dinner: Mrs. Kreamer, Mrs. Charles Geisking, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Crist, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Frazer, Mrs. Faust, Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Klaer, Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Heiner.

GUESTS OF MISS STEWART

Miss Charlotte Stewart, of 2651 Penn street, informally entertained members of a card club at her home Thursday evening. In attendance were Miss Agnes Schell, Miss Agnes McGuire, Miss Lillian Schafmeister, Miss Anne Pittie, Miss Kit Keane, Miss Margaret Morrow, Miss Estelle Smith and Miss Charlotte Stewart.

THANKSGIVING DANCE

Miss Margaret Gilger and Miss Helen Tetterer will give a Thanksgiving dance to-night at Hanshaw's Hall, attended by about sixty guests. F. Marion Sourbeer will play for a twenty-number program.

EPIGRAMS OF THE STAGE

An actor has to be a saving man. For not every role that comes his way has coffee with it.

If you don't believe that the movies are running this country, ask some dramatist whose play died on Broadway.

When an actress accepts her first "character" part, she no longer flubs about her age.

A dramatic critic is a man who watches you acting through reversed opera-glasses.

An actor and a ball player are much alike. They each give for "hits" and long runs, and both are happiest under "flies."

The burlesque field offers a woman large chances for advancement.

Marry in haste, repent on the stage.

Most actors' carriages are easy and graceful—although one or two have to ride in side-door Pullmans.

If there is anybody on earth who doesn't believe that war is awful, let him view some of the hurriedly made film dramas on that subject.

Good actors don't blame their poor work on the direction.

There are so many beautiful women on the stage to-day that the audience loses lots of the best lines—watching other lines.

An actor is a man who is always playing benefits for somebody, but who himself is often refused even the benefit of a doubt.

—Edward Abbott in Green Book Magazine.

THE KAISER'S PUNCTUALITY

Madame de Hegemann-Lindercron, author of "The Sunny Side of Diplomatic Life," tells how at the marriage of the German Crown Prince their carriage was late, and, knowing the Kaiser's punctuality, she tried to hurry up the long stairs. There were several turns in the staircase. "I grasped the tail of my ball-dress in one hand, she says, and my heavy court train in the other, and prepared to mount. On each turn I looked behind and could just see the eagle on the top of the Emperor's silver helmet. We hurried as I never hurried in my life, for if his Majesty had not been ahead of us on any of these turns where the two flights meet and part we would have been shut out from the chapel. As it was, one door was already closed. They opened it for us, and we were the last to enter before the princes. We crossed the chapel to reach the estrade on which stood the Corps Diplomatique. In my hurry I forgot to let down my dress, and I don't dare to think how much stoeking I must have exhibited. When finally I did reach my place I was out of breath it took me a long time before I was in it again."

WELFARE PEOPLE URGED TO HUSTLE

Closing Words of the Conference Are That Folks Should Practice What Is Preached

Pennsylvania's second annual conference on welfare and efficiency closed last evening after spending three days in discussion of ways and means to bring about betterments in the industrial system of the State and with a farewell message from John Price Jackson, Commissioner of Labor and Industry, to go home and practice what had been preached and to come back next year with results.

The final session was devoted to discussion of workmen's compensation which everyone favored, although differing on some details and a plea from bakers for elimination of underground shops.

The appearance of the bakers was at the very close of the session and James H. Maurer, president of the State Federation of Labor, who was presiding asked the audience to remain so that men who had come to set forth their contention could be heard. Christ Kerker, one of the international union officials, pleaded that there were too many bakeries in cellars and that Pennsylvania should follow the lead of Illinois, New Jersey and other States and bring about a change. "Cellars are not made for human beings but for rats," was the way he put it and he said that in Pittsburgh he had seen a shop six feet high in which a man five feet eight inches tall had to work. B. Atelson and Philip Knopf, Pittsburgh bakers, backed up his plea, the latter saying that there were too many underground bakeries in Pittsburgh and that while the State Industrial Board was proceeding to clear them out by establishing standards he felt that the Legislature could be brought to see the necessity of better laws on the subject if the lawmakers would hold a couple of sessions in some shops he had in mind in Pittsburgh.

In opening the discussion on compensation Mr. Maurer said the State should pass such an act, although people differed on the kind. He presented Mrs. Samuel Semple, of Titusville, a member of the State Board who told what that body had been doing. Francis H. Bohlen, of Philadelphia, secretary of the Industrial Accidents Commission, then outlined the compensation act proposed. He said that what was needed was a law that would give speedy relief, not burden industry, eliminate litigation and work as an incentive to accident prevention. He said the compensation should reach the employe when the doctor's bill came in, be simple in operation and readily accessible. He outlined the various forms of insurance and said that the law would have to be elective until a constitutional amendment could be passed. The State insurance fund should be under the control of the State for two years at least, while stock and mutual companies should be regulated. He gave experience in other States and said he was not advocating any kind of insurance feature, but a just compensation act.

Francis Feehan, of Pittsburgh, a member of the commission, spoke for a fair act and said the people were prepared for it. F. H. Walker, of Beaver Falls, strongly urged a compulsory insurance feature, which aroused the ire of Carl M. Hansen, of a New York compensation rate bureau who said that he disapproved of Mr. Walker's favor of the German plan which would "substitute bureaucracy for democracy."

HAS KEPT THE PACE

Harrisburg has made rapid advances in every way during the past ten years. The Telegraph Printing Company has kept the pace and to-day there is no better equipped commercial printing plant in Central Pennsylvania. The large contract is handled just as easily as the small order for Business Cards.

GIRLS! GIRLS! YOU MUST TRY THIS!

DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

For 25 cents you can make your hair lustrous, fluffy, and abundant

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hairs—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.—Advertisement.
