Their Married Life

Raymonds. She simply could not do it.

"Good-by, dear," went on Mrs. Raymond as they stopped just inside the door. "I'll call you up in the morning, and we can make arrangements for a dinner date. It's been so nice to have you down!"

Mr. Raymond stood on the curb waiting to see her in, and a second later Helen was on her way uptown. She watched the taximeter go up, up, up, and mentally calculated her bill all the way home. Of course, it was possible for her to get out and go home the rest of the way by subway, but it was late, and she hated to change the direction. Helen was the kind of a woman who would put up with anything rather than make a fuss, and she determined to get home just as fast as she could, even if her bill amounted to five dollars.

Broadway was already ablaze with light, the street was allive with traffic and the taxi was obliged to stop and wait at almost every crossing, but as they got further uptown they made time and almost before she knew it the man had stopped at her own aparriment and she was getting out.

"Two dollars and sixty-five cents, madam," said the driver not waiting for her to ask the amount, and Helen paid tre bill without a nurmur. After an uncomfortable afternoon things were at last coming her way. She and Warren had noroused to differ that Mr. Curits had not come home yet, Helen drew a sigh of realief.

when she rang the bell and Nora lether in with a smining face and told her that Mr. Curits had not come home yet, Helen drew a sigh of relief.

After an uncomfortable afternoon things were at last coming her way. She and Warren had promised to dine with Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, and as the dinner was a formal one, that Mrs. Stevens was giving for her younger sister, there was, of course, the necessity of dressing.

Helen hurried into her own room and took off her hat and coat. The little clock on the dressing table pointed to five minutes to six. Warren was late, but for once she was heartly glad of it. She hurried to the cedar chest in the corner and hastily guiled out the large box that contained Warren's dress suit. The suit had been sent up from the tallor's a couple of days ago and Helen had not bothered to open it then so she hastily undid the strings and lifted it out.

Warren was always so cross if she had not bothered to open it then so she hastily undid the strings and titted it out.

Warren was always so cross if she did, not have everything ready for him. It took her nearly ten minutes to get the cuff links properly fixed many things there were to do, and then she began to dress herself. She was in a light kimono bending over at her as the at Mind of the explanation.

Why, dear, I don't know; I just took them out of the box a few moments ago. I don't know any more about it than you do."

"Well, look at them, my trousers on't look like that; never did. Those idiots have sent me up the wrong suit."

Warren was adjusting his tie and did not answer at once, but as it ting like the will a large to state the trouble with you wound have discovered the mistake two days ago. That's final properly in the properly i

of Money For the Belgians Today

The Telegraph this afternoon wired o Philadelphia over $300 contributed by Harrisburg people for the purchase of food to send to the starving Belgians. The Thanksgiving ship will drop down the Delaware river to-morrow morning and it was necessary for the committee to have immediate use row morning and it was necessary for the committee to have immediate use of the money.

Th econtributions made through the Telegraph have gone over the $2,200 mark. There is still need for money for the Belgians, especially to keep the children alive.

The employes of the Elliott-Fisher Typewriter Company gave the largest single contribution made to the fund in Harrisburg, raising $114.70. The Rev. Mgr. M. M. Hassett sent $43 which was given by the congregation of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The employes of the Telegraph Printing Company gave $22.50 and the freight clerks of the Pennsylvania Railroad $10.75.

Mrs. H. B. Orr sent the price of a barrel of flour contributed by the Harrisburg Walking Club. Cash contributions continue to come in, some of them large and some small, but all attesting the interest in the relief.

City to Pay Paving Assessment Where Park Land Is Deeded Over

City Solicitor D. S. Seitz's suggestion of acquiring park land on the western side of Front street between Kelker and Maclay, was adopted by City Council this afternoon. The plan is that the city accept deeds and in return absolve the abutting property owner from payment of the paying assessment for the western half of the street.

assessment for the western half of the street.
Council accepted the Municipal League's invitation to attend a meeting to be held Friday evening when many problems including the city forester ordinance, will be threshed out.
After the regular session there was an executive meeting during which Mr. Seitz discussed with the council men the question of the damages awarded the South Front street claimants for park land. It is generally understood that no appeal on the subject will be taken by the city.

City School Contributions Will Be Lifted Throughout Tomorrow Members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Harrisburg Hospital were kept busy all day sorting donations that are being sent in to the hospital. At noon to-day many of the nearby towns had sent in wagonloads of food supplies of all kinds. A large contribution of felly has been received and many cans of fruit were sent in. Tomorrow donations from the city schools will be collected.

Just how much will be received is not known, but it is expected that the contributions will about equal those of former years.

FIRE AT NEWPORT

Special to The Telegraph n the vicinity of Center Square was astir early yesterday morning because of an alarm of fire. The two-story frame building owned by Mrs. J. War-ren Buckwalter, of Logania, and occupied by Thaddeus S. Stephens as a meat market and Jacob Weintraub clothing and shoes, was discovered to e in flames. The fire department responded and soon had several streams playing on the fire and taking care of surrounding property. The fire for the most part was confined to the clothing and shoe store and ate its way through the second story and the roof. The family of Mr. Weintraub occupied the second floor as living quarters and were removed with difficulty by means of a ladder. The heaviest loss falls on Mr. Weintraub, whose stock of goods is a total loss. The loss to Mr. Stephens will be about $100, caused by water and smoke. All loss is covered by insurance.

COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo .- "I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live. Some one advised me to take Lyc Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefitted by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."Mrs. Martha Seavey, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
