FOOTBALL CURTAIN WILL DROP SATURDAY

on Thanksgiving Day; Army and Navy Close Season

Special to The Telegraph
New York, Nov. 24.—This week winds up football. Sensational games are promised for Thanksgiving Day. The final game will be the Army-Navy battle at Philadelphia Saturday. Games scheduled include the Pennsylvania-Cornell game at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh-Penn-State contest on Thanksgiving Day and the Army-Navy game on the same field two days later. Compared with the Yale-Princeton, Princeton-Harvard and Yale-Harvard series these annual games are of comparatively modern origin. The interest, however, is keen, and each season the elevens play be-fore crowds that tax the capacity of the stands.

the stands.

The Cornell-Pennsylvania series began in the autumn of 1893 and has continued without interruption for 21 years. During this period Pennsylvania has won 18 games; Cornell two and one resulted in a no-score tie. In total points Pennsylvania leads with 392 to Cornell's 118 and the victories have been accumulated in strings. From 1893 to 1900 Pennsylvania won continuously. After being defeated in 1991 the Quakers were triumphant until 1906, when the no-score tie occurred. From 1907 to 1912 Pennsylvania won regularly, Cornell's second victory coming last season when the Ithaca team won 21 to 0.

The Army-Navy game began three years earlier than the Cornell-Pennsylvania series but owing to breaks in the service matches but eighteen contests the Navy has won nine; the Army eight and one resulted in a tie. Although the Navy has a one-game lead, the Cadets have scored the greatest number of points, their eight victories totaling 182 points to the greatest number of points, their eight victories totaling 182 points to the Middles 133. It is a peculiar feature of the series that in a large majority of the contests both elevens have six times defeated their West Point opponents without being scored upon.
