LEBANON VALLEY IS SEASON'S SENSATION

Coach Guyer's Aggregation Defeats Strongest Small School Elevens in the State

Special to The Telegraph
 Annville, Pa., Nov. 25.—With a record for the season, unequalled by any college eleven, Lebanon Valley is a strong bidder for games with bigger teams next season.

Coach Guyer, in the opinion of many football experts, has produced wonderful results, and with a majority of this season's stars certain to be in the game next season, and many promising players on the reserve list Lebanon Valley promises to be a still bigger factor in 1915.

Winning from Gettysburg the first time in twenty years, and the first victory over the Muhlenberg eleven, is part of the wonderful record made by Lebanon Valley's football eleven. Never before has the Annville institution had such a team, and the credit does not only belong to the players, but to the coach, R. J. Guyer.

Guyer had a wealth of material to select from for his team, most of the men having played on former high school elevens or preparatory teams, needing little of the rudiments of the game to be taught them.

Captain Snavely was an able director and the best punter on the Blue and White eleven. Snavely punted on an average of 30 yards in the games of the last season. Wheelock was the bright star of the team, his running and tackling being pretty to witness. Jaeger and Donahue were strong backfield men, the latter being the star of the Muhlenberg game. Larow showed good generalship at the quarterback position and his open field running was noteworthy. Attacks, formerly of Steelton High, and Keating former an invincible pair of ends always sure to get their man. Von Berghy, Eastern interscholastic weight record holder, a former Tech High star of Harrisburg, was the best man at backing up the line. Mackert and Bechtel were strong men on both offense and defense. Bechtel was last year's captain of Allentown Preparatory School. Hollinger and DeHuff played good games at the guard positions and could be depended upon to hold down their jobs. Wenrich, Swart, Loomis and Rupp were their letter and were strong substitutes.

CLARK IN LINE-UP AGAINST PITT TEAM

Harrisburg Star Will Be Needed by Penn-State in Tomorrow's Big Battle

Special to The Telegraph
 Pittsburgh, Nov. 25.—The college football season in Pittsburgh closes on Thanksgiving Day with a game between the University of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania State College at Forbes Field. The kick-off will be at 2:30 sharp. Both teams will have their full strength in the line-up, all the cripples having rounded into shape.

Williamson, the Pitt quarterback, who was injured in the Annapolis game, will be able to direct the plays, and Captain Smith, who was hurt in the W. and J. game, will also be at his old position. This is Smith's last game of college football, as he graduates next June.

State will have Captain Tobin back in the line-up. He was seriously burned during a celebration after the State-Harvard game and for a while it was feared that he would be out for the season.

Pitt's line-up will include Peck at center, Reese or Soppitt and Captain Smith at guards, Hockensmith and Thornhill at tackles, Herron and Carlson at ends, Williamson at quarterback, Hastings and Miller at halves, and Fry at fullback.

State will use Higgins and Morris at ends, Krut and Lamb at tackles, Miller and McDowell at guards, Wood at center, Tobin at quarterback, Yeger and Clark at halfbacks and Dippe at fullback. Lamb, the star State tackle, will be opposed to Hockensmith, the Pitt star.

EXENDINE FOR COACH AT CARLISLE SCHOOL

Indian Students Are Much Pleased With News From Washington of Warner's Successor

Special to The Telegraph
 Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 25.—Announcement from Washington, D. C., last night, that A. A. Exendine, coach of the Georgetown University team, and a former Carlisle football star, would succeed Glenn W. Warner as coach, brought much favorable comment in this place.

Members of the Indian team heard stories of Exendine's coming when they played at Georgetown, but not until today was any assurance received that the report was true. There are still some details to be considered before the contract is signed.

Exendine is a former Carlisle star and served his first year at Georgetown this season. His work there was so meritorious and attracted so much attention that he was the first man looked to when Warner announced that he would leave the Indian School. Exendine partially confirmed the report of his departure from Georgetown.

Authorities at Georgetown were the first to tell of Exendine's intention to go to Carlisle. They tried to retain him at the capital institution for another season, offering a big increase, but according to their report he preferred to take up the work at the Carlisle school.

CRUCIAL TESTS COME WITH FINAL BATTLES

Season's Finish Tomorrow Promises Unusual Interest; Last Game on Saturday

Many finals on this season's football schedule will be played to-morrow. The closing battles will be the Army-Navy game Saturday at Philadelphia.

Harvard has won the season's championship, and the games to-morrow will be annual battles for individual college and school championships.

Pennsylvania meets their worst rivals, Cornell, on Franklin Field. In view of the fact that Penn has not been doing anything extraordinary this season, Cornell has been picked as a winner. Penn-State will wind up the season with Pittsburgh. The western schedule has been a wonder this year and Coach Hollenbach's eleven will have to travel some to win, in the opinion of many dopesters.

Albright will meet Muhlenberg at Allentown, and the Myerstown aggregate will have to win, to show any class near that of its rival, Lebanon Valley. Carlisle goes to Providence for the annual game with Brown. Other games include Washington-Jefferson vs. Bucknell at Washington; Lafayette vs. Dickinson at Easton; Fordham vs. Villanova at New York; and Syracuse vs. Notre Dame at Syracuse.
