taken into the firm membership. About half of the first and second floors were at that time required for the business.

Immediately negotiations were begun for the reconstruction of the building, and every step was taken to give to the people of this vicinity one of the most attractive stores of its kind in the State.

During the next two years the business grew to a point where additional floor space was necessary, and at the end of that time possession of the entire building from Market street to Strawberry street in the rear was acquired.

In 1911 the entire store was remodeled, inside and out, including a handsome front. Scarcely had this work been completed when, on Christmas eve of the same year, the entire building was gutted by fire.

LIVE WIRE WORKERS

Charles S. Meck, one of the assistant chief ushers, is a member of the firm of Roberts & Meck. Mr. Meck is an elder in the Fourth Street Church of God and has served more than twelve years; he is also president of the Christian Endeavor Society and teacher of a large class of ladies in the Sunday school. When the Harrisburg Church of God Endeavor Union was organized some months ago he was chosen as its first president. Mr. Meck has attended many meetings during the campaign and at the preliminary meetings held in the various churches of this city and vicinity he was always at his post of duty.

W. L. High, of the Harris Street United Evangelical Church, is well known in musical and church circles. He has been a trustee of the official board in his church a number of years and is a teacher of one of the ladies' Bible classes. He has been chorister of the Sunday school for many years and formerly chorister of the church choir. He has also served in prominent musical organizations, such as the Harrisburg Christian Endeavor Choral Society and the Harrisburg Choral Society.

NEPTUNE NOT SUBBUED.

The year now drawing to a close was full of promise of many things which have been laid aside or hidden beneath the black cloud of war. Among them all none was more attractive than the plan to cross the Atlantic Ocean in an airship. On both sides of the Atlantic large sums of money were spent, and many trained minds were working on the problem. That the crossing will be made some day, there is little doubt that ultimately the journey will be accomplished with the same precision as by our present ocean liners is also probable. However, the prediction made in these pages early in the year that 1914 would not be the historical year of ocean mastery has come true and there are some who will view the first crossing with less enthusiasm and satisfaction now than six months ago. The air is so much vast er than the ocean and correspondingly harder to patrol, that our feeling of security will in no measure be increased when a fleet of airships can leave the other side and hover over both sides of the Atlantic two sunsets.—H. H. Windsor, in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Sigler Moving Big Success in the West

C. M. Sigler, president of the Sigler Piano Player Company, in a letter to the Telegraph tells of his visits to many of the cities of the West. He is doing business for his company with many of the piano firms in Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and other places. He states that the new factory in this city will soon be finished and in use.

His letter in full is as follows: Port Wayne, Ind., Nov. 28, 1914. Harrisburg Telegraph: Dear Sirs—I am on an extensive trip in the interest of our factory and have visited many cities, including Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, etc., and notwithstanding the lull in trade in general have connected up with the very best and most influential houses in the trade.

We are pushing our new factory building and it will not be long until it will be occupied and fully equipped with the latest machinery, etc. The future for our product certainly looks most favorable and this trip will mark a very thorough foundation in and throughout a very fertile and wide territory. Yours truly, C. M. SIGLER.

FRUSTRATES HIGHWAYMAN

Mrs. Frank Fuller Kicks Him Into Gutter When He Seizes Purse Special to The Telegraph. Uniontown, Pa., Dec. 1.—Returning from a meeting of a prominent social club, Mrs. Frank L. Fuller, widow of a former Secretary of the Commonwealth, frustrated an attempt of a highwayman to steal her purse, containing $80.

He seized the purse, which dangled from her left hand. Mrs. Fuller held it firmly, and planted a severe blow with her right hand on the man's shoulder. He spun into the gutter, striking his head on the curbstone. He sprang up bleeding and started to run down the street. Mrs. Fuller ran after him crying, "If I had a gun I'd shoot you." He disappeared from view as a train passed the East Fayette street crossing.

DEATH OF MRS. SARAH BOWER

New Germantown, Pa., Dec. 1.—Mrs. Sarah Bower, of New Bloomfield, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Mary B. Kern, of this place, of pneumonia on Friday evening and was buried yesterday at New Bloomfield beside the body of her husband, David Bower, a prominent hotel man, who died about fifteen years ago. There were no children, but she is survived by four brothers, George W. and Solomon Gutshall, of Blain; Wilson, of Harrisburg, and Abraham of California and three sisters, Mrs. Jane Tressler, Mrs. Mary B. Kern and Mrs. Dianna E. Morrison, of this place. She was a member of the Lutheran church since childhood.
