Overcoats that look well "In Action"

THERE are plenty of clothes that look well when a man stands still and "poses"—but they're rather grotesque when a man's "in action."

This is not the case with GLOBE CLOTHES— they look as stylish when they're going four miles an hour as when they're standing still.

"The Willard," (as illustrated) is a striking example of the character of GLOBE CLOTHES— it's a snappy, form-fitting, double-breasted coat that stands for all-around rightness and nicety of detail in fit and finish. Blue and Brown Shetland Cloths and Gray Vicunas have the call. Unusual values at.

$20 and $25

MAKING HORSE ILLUMINATE HOUSE WITH ELECTRICITY.

An Ohio inventor has devised an apparatus intended to transform a horse's energy into electricity with which to light a house, or charge storage batteries for the motor car which has replaced it for family driving purposes. The arrangement consists of a circular sweep which operates a dynamo, the animal causing power to be generated as it walks slowly around the 14-ft. track. An electric bell and whip attachment keeps the horse going steadily ahead.

observations, by consultations with the executive committee and the ministers as well as through the daily conferences with members of the party who circulate in all classes of people and in all parts of town and are well able to feel the attitude of the people. I have still some more sermons on my list and will not have to repeat anything. I could keep right on preaching for six months and not run out of surprises."

Distribute Flowers to Shut-ins
The spectacular feature of last night was the mass of flowers and potted plants displayed at the front of the tabernacle, and which were distributed in automobiles this morning by the women's work and the social committees to shut-ins in all parts of the city. People of any denomination or of no religion at all whose names and addresses were given were recipients of the messengers of gladness.

Flowers were taken from people as they entered the tabernacle and placed on a specially constructed shelves at the front of the platform. More than 300 separate donations were received.

A special gift of twelve American Beauty roses was presented to Dr. Stough by the party of "Hazleton Trippers" who made their memorable journey six months ago to hear Stough preach the very sermon he used last night.

Portrays "The Procession"
Stough preached an intense sermon to sinners based on Barabbas, the robber and murderer who was released by Pilate at the demand of the mob and whose place on the cross Christ took. He showed sinners how they, like the man Barabbas, make Christ die on the cross as the substitute for their punishment.

Stough played another of his strong acting scenes in presenting the suffering of Christ on the way to Calvary in bearing the weight of the cross and enduring the taunts and the kicks of the mob of blood-thirsty Jews. He groveled in painful reality on the floor of the platform and made a sad picture of terror and misery that deeply affected the audience.

Speaking of sinners and of temptations, he said that many persons are virtuous not because they are above impurity but because they never have been subjected to temptations, as many more unfortunate ones have been.

"I don't believe that hell will have the same degrees of punishment for all sinners any more than I believe heaven has the same degree of rewards for everybody."

Eighty Hit Trail
Stough brought his sermon to a close by singing "At the Cross," in which the audience joined. Before he had been singing forty seconds a trailhitter came running to the front and grasped the evangelist's hand. More followed shortly of their own accord and when the personal workers got into the audience, the confessions came fast. Eighty was the number for the night.

Among the number was a class of twelve boys between 12 and 15 years old who were gathered by the Rev. E. E. Curtis from the neighborhood of the Westminster Presbyterian Church. There were nine married couples on the benches. One man who was cordially received by Stough said he had been the driver of a brewery wagon for many years. Several other inveterate boozers were in the crowd of trailhitters.

BILLIARD TABLES THAT REST ON SOLID ROCK.

Billiard tables supported on solid rock are among the novel features of a 36-room concrete residence located on one of the islands of the San Juan Archipelago in Puget Sound. Each table rests on a massive concrete base which extends through an opening in the floor and has its footing on bedrock, and is therefore as solid and as free from vibration as if it were a part of the island itself.—From the December Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Raps Suggestive Art, Bad Literature and Careless Newspapers

Declaring that purifying the home is one of the greatest needs of the present day, and laying down some practical points of advice in connection with the regulation of families, Stough preached yesterday afternoon to an audience of church people from the text, "What Hast Thou in Thy House?"

He advised search of each home and the removal of any things that will not stand the test of Jesus Christ, laying particular stress on suggestive pictures and works of art, evil books, magazines and careless newspapers. With regard to the daily paper he said:

"I can't do without a newspaper in my home, but I strive to get the very best and I advise my children that it is not to be a text book for them. Did you ever stop to think that if you don't get the right kind of a newspaper in your home your children will get an improper impression of society, of art and of morals in general?"

Raps Suggestive Art
"I believe every parent should direct the children's reading, and watch closely because you don't know what they may get hold of in the libraries. Parents should also be in close touch with the teachers in the schools and act in conjunction with them."

"The pictures on your walls at home are silent but powerful teachers. Many of the women who go wrong and land in the red light districts, and the boys who make criminals get their first wrong impulses from some unclean picture or suggestive work of so-called art."

"I am not so sure that the groups of nude statuary at the front entrance of your Capitol building are such instructive and valuable works of art as some claim them to be; I am not so sure that the boys and girls of your city are being benefited by seeing them every day as they pass to and from school."

Urges Family Altar
He advised the habit of the family altar and gave some good suggestions for interesting the children in prayers, Bible study and respect for the Sabbath day, spoke of the reasonable methods he uses in his own home that keep his children's attention to such things without being in the least dictatorial or harsh.

He advised the motto, "Christ is the head of this house, the silent listener of every conversation," to be the actual and not ornamental card to be placed on the wall of every home.
