BENEVOLENT ASS'N ISSUE A REPORT

One of the Oldest City Charities Tells of Much Good Done

In a report for the year ending October 31, just issued, the Harrisburg Benevolent Association, with the following officers and directors, George W. Reilly, president; Mrs. Lydia A. Forney, vice-president; Donald McCormick, secretary; Charles A. Kunkel, treasurer; John S. Spicer, James M. Lamberton, Harry B. McCormick, Miss Rachel Pollock, Warren A. Zollinger, Henry C. Demming, Mrs. William E. Bailey and Mrs. M. W. Jacobs, says:

The Harrisburg Benevolent Association was incorporated in 1879 "To relieve the worthy poor of Harrisburg."

For six years in succession it has distributed its funds through the Associated Charities, which has no emergency fund, and in this manner saves administration expense and reaches the needy in the most direct way.

The association organized at the meeting of the contributors called on November 5, 1914, by electing the officers and directors listed above.

MISS ELLA L. HART MARRIES DR. STEWART

Local Woman Is Bride of President of Auburn Theological Seminary

Harrisburgers are interested in a wedding taking place at noon to-day in New York city, because both bride and bridegroom have been prominently identified with the life and welfare of this city.

Miss Ella LaRue Hart, daughter of the late Captain William B. Hart, a former State treasurer, and the Rev. Dr. George Black Stewart, president of the Auburn Theological Seminary, were quietly married at noon to-day in the Brick Presbyterian Church of Fifth Avenue, by the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill, in the presence of the immediate families.

Palms, ferns and chrysanthemums decorated the altar and the wedding music, the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin and the brilliant Mendelssohn "Wedding March" were played by the church organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, James D. Hart, of Duncannon, wore a modish costume of chiffon velvet in a dahlia shade with garnitures of rose point lace, and hat of harmonia. She carried a shower bouquet of orchids and violets.

Following the service a wedding breakfast was served at the Blitmore, Dr. and Mrs. Stewart leaving this afternoon for Washington, D. C., and southern pleasure resorts, expecting to return to Auburn for the Christmas holidays.

What the Shops Are Showing Bellefonte baskets represent one of the few arts which come within the reach of the humblest pocketbook, and the owner of a rustic cottage, or the owner of the most elaborate mansion will find these baskets equally appropriate in either home. The Studebaker Grocery Store, State and Second streets, shows a wonderfully lovely assortment of these baskets, at prices from 50c up, and each is a real work of art. The intricate beauty of the weaving rivals the charm of soft, skillfully blended colorings in these baskets and their uses are so varied that men, women and children will find them most acceptable gifts. They are hand made, and one may have a basket made to order to match any color scheme not shown in the comprehensive assortment at Studebaker's.

GOOD PICTURES IN THE HOME Good pictures not only make beautiful homes, but they are an inspiration toward right living, and the Central Book Store, 329 Market street, is showing the sort of pictures that make just the right kind of Christmas gifts. The prices are very moderate and the pictures are beautifully framed, while the range of subjects is so great that it is very easy to make a suitable selection. Religious subjects are offered in wide variety, and very lovely and satisfying, are these beautiful pictures. Charming landscapes and home-like pictures, as well as famous pictures of well-known subjects, are shown in this attractive holiday display.

FROM HEAD TO FOOT Last season the fashionably long skirts made footwear the least conspicuous part of the well-dressed woman's costume, but the advent of short skirts has reversed the situation and now nothing is more important than the appearance of the feet both with street clothes and evening dresses. The Walk Over Boot Shop, 226 Market street, shows a very complete line of the smart boot tops and gaiters, in black, white and the very popular fawn and gray tones, at prices from 50c a pair up, and these make very clever Christmas gifts. For evening wear they are showing the latest designs in slipper nips, and the smart heel ornaments of brilliants.

FASCINATING VANITIES "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity," bewailed the philosopher, yet when one sees the exquisite vanity cases and party boxes offered at the Rinkenbach Jewelry Shop, 1215 North Third street, one cannot help but feel that such vanity is excusable. Charming indeed are these cases in silver and gold finish, and the prices are noteworthy. For instance, a flat silver card and vanity case, simple with the simplicity that characterizes the most exclusive designs, beautifully fitted inside, and fastened with an amethyst clasp, is offered at this shop for just $2.00. This most attractive case is perfect in all the little details that make such things attractive, and is typical of the values offered at this shop.

WALKING STICKS Every well-dressed man carries a smart walking stick, and both the slender, flexible sticks and the heavy sticks are very fashionable this year. McFall's smart shop for men, corner Third and Market streets, offers very complete assortment of walking sticks and umbrellas, at very moderate prices, and these make splendid Christmas gifts. The folding sticks and umbrellas are excellent for the traveler, and the walking sticks of snakewood, malacca and other beautiful woods, either plain or with handsome silver and gold mountings, are extremely good-looking.

STORK NEWS Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hoster, 136 South Twenty-eighth street, Penbrook, announce the birth of a daughter, Thelma Irene, December 1, 1914.

Color forms a very important part in every scheme of decoration. Dark rooms require light papers, sunny rooms need restful papers, cold rooms need warm papers, but just what is the right paper for a particular room, what will be serviceable as well as suitable and beautiful, are questions which are often hard to decide. Every one realizes that color can either make or mar a room, but only an expert knows just why, and for this reason it is very important to buy paper from those who are often hard to decide. WILLIAM C. REDFIELD

New York, Dec. 7.—It is expected that Congress will take action on the report presented by Secretary of Commerce Redfield to the Maritime Exchange on the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Lighthouse Service, Steamboat Inspection and Bureau of Navigation, conducted by the federal department of which he is the head. Describing the equipment of the coast survey as antiquated and the other branches as undermanned, Redfield predicted a succession of marine disasters as a result of conditions in the department. He charged that Congress is responsible for the broken-down system, since it refuses to appropriate money enough to maintain the service at the proper standard.
