RODIN PRESENTS SCULPTURE TO ENGLAND

One of the most illuminative examples of the bond of friendship now existing between England and France has been demonstrated by the gift of a number of pieces of sculpture to England by Augustin Rodin, the famous French sculptor. Last July, Rodin, who is universally conceded to be the greatest living sculptor, lent several of his best pieces of marble and bronze to the exhibition of modern French art arranged at Grosvenor House. He has now presented these work to the British nation in a brief note which reads: "The English and French are brothers; your soldiers are fighting side by side with ours. As a little token of my admiration for your heroes, I decided to present the collection to England. That is all."

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

One of the most significant books which the great European conflict has called forth is perhaps Percy MacKaye's Present Hour, which may be described as a vital expression of America in themes of war and peace. The first section (War) contains the gripping narrative poem Fight: The Tale of a Gunner, and is followed by a series of powerful poems dealing with the gigantic struggle abroad. Among these are noted American Neutrality, Peace, Wilson, Louvain, Belms, The Filled Drums, Magna Charta, France and A Prayer of the Peoples. The second section (Peace) includes Goethals, Panama Hinn, School, The Prologue and the Epilogue to a Bird Masque, The Player and other representative work.

"Posterity alone can correctly estimate and appportion the right and wrong of the great war in Europe," says Mr. MacKaye in the preface, which he has provided for the volume. "At the present hour, we who look on from neutral America can but judge the war's issues by the facts and arguments laid before us by the press and spokesmen of all parties in the conflict. This is an interesting time for the publication of a book on 'Bruces' by Mary Stratton (Scribners). It gives the history of the city, describes the public buildings, markets, streets, houses, and churches of the ancient city which is now the center of the war cyclone. The book is profusely illustrated from drawings by Charles Wade."

TWO MEN KILLED IN WRECK ON READING

Several Others Were Badly Injured and Tracks at Royersford Were Blocked

By Associated Press
Reading, Pa., Dec. 9.—A serious wreck occurred on the Reading railway at Royersford at 5:40 a. m. to-day, when the Buffalo Express, leaving here at 4:55 a. m. for Philadelphia, clashed into the side of coal engine No. 1-599 resulting in the death of two men and severe injuries to others and blocking of all tracks.

Joseph Springer, of Tamaqua, engineer of the Buffalo Express, was badly injured about the body and scalded. He died at the Phoenixville Hospital at 9:10 a. m. C. L. Fisher, engineer of engine 1-599 residing in this city, expired shortly after he was removed from the wreck. He had been in the employ of the company seven years and an engineer the past three years. John W. Stahlert, fireman of the express train was badly injured but will recover. He resides at Tamaqua. He is at the Phoenixville Hospital. Paul Leiby, of Pottsville, fireman of engine 1599 had one of his legs so badly injured that it had to be amputated. He was taken to the Phoenixville Hospital. Switch Was Turned It appears that some one turned the switch and signaled to Engineer Fisher to start his train from the low to the high speed track. The fireman who turned the switch evidently forgetting that the express had not yet passed. There was but a brief interval when the express came thundering along and dashed into the side of the big coal locomotive. Both engines were upset. The express due in Reading from Philadelphia at 10 a. m. was run via the Pennsylvania.

KING OF SAXONY IN BRUSSELS

London, Dec. 9, 12:44 P. M.—The Central News has published a dispatch from its Amsterdam correspondent who says that the King of Saxony has arrived in Brussels. This information reaches Amsterdam in a dispatch from the Belgian capital.

What the Shops Are Showing

For rough weather, the Walk-Over Boot Shop, 226 Market street, is showing a very distinctive line of heavy tan walking boots, and one model of elk skin, out in English style, with rather short vamp and conservative heel is an especially good style for all-around wear. It may be had in either button or laced model for $5.00. A most attractive new model in a tan boot, has the winged tip, long vamp and regulation heel, and comes in both laced and buttoned styles for $4.00. The wing tip is a very smart new feature which makes this foot especially desirable. The Norwegian model also offers by the shop, is decidedly sturdy in appearance, is as near-water proof as shoes can be made, and is sold for $5.00.

MEMORIES A year ago to-day—what do you recall? The joys of years gone by are lived again in those who keep a diary, and so attractive are the diaries and engagement books shown at the Central Book Store, 329 Market street, most treasured memories and most intimate thoughts. Handsome leather bindings in various colorings and a wide variety of sizes are shown at prices as low as $1.00. These books are particularly appropriate for gifts are the specially designed holiday books in soft, suede bindings, beautifully finished, and the range of subjects of forces in these gift books is comprehensive enough to suit any taste. GIFTS FOR MEN Stormy weather makes mufflers very welcome for their warmth, and those shown at the McFall Shop for Men, Third and Market, are so attractive that any man would welcome them for his own use. The appearance shown they come in a variety of colors, as well as the always appropriate white, are of finely knitted silk or wool, and are offered in attractive gift boxes at prices from 50c up. The McFall Shop offers a delightful variety of gifts at very moderate prices. Their line of pure linen holiday handkerchiefs is especially complete, and these books, one never, quite make handsome gifts. Neckwear at 50c is offered in so many styles that the selection of neckwear for gifts is a very simple matter at this smart shop.

GOODIES FROM EVERYWHERE

Did you ever stop to think from how many different parts of the earth come the good things that make our Christmas happy? Every corner of the world contributes a share, and at the Studebaker Grocery Store alone one may find something from everywhere to add to Christmas enjoyments. Rare and excellent spices from East Indies and delicious pineapple from Hawaii, wicker lamps from Japan, peaches and pears from California, cereals from Michigan, olive oil from Italy, and at least a lovely basket made right in our own State, in old Bellefonte. Everything that comes from Studebaker's, State and Second streets, is sure to be the very best that can be bought at the price.

AN HARMONIOUS LIVING ROOM

Is your living room really livable? Does the wall paper make a suitable and pleasing background for your furnishings? A most delightful living room decoration is shown at the A. E. Tack Wall Paper Shop, 1216 North Third street. The paper is in woodland tones of browns, tans, reds and greens, blended into an unobtrusive color harmony, and as the predominant shade is brown, hangings of a rich deep brown are particularly lovely with this paper. The soft tones of this paper, and its freedom from conventional design or set patterns, make it a very harmonious background for almost any kind of living room furniture, but with oak woodwork and leather furnishings it is especially satisfying.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

"I am looking for something different," said the puzzled shopper, as "being different" is just the attraction of the lovely assortment of novelties in leather and suede offered at the Woman's Exchange, Third street, at Herr. So many and varied they are. A leather folder enclosing several large envelopes in which to put favorite clippings, a pocket case containing a leather mitten with soft wool brush attached for daintily wiping the dust from one's shoes without soiling the hands, serve to suggest the unusual novelties shown, while such things as blotters, memorandum books, alphabetical address books, table covers and mats in all sizes, and leather cushions are offered in so many new and delightful styles that they make most acceptable Christmas gifts.

THE CHARM OF QUALITY

"As soon as she arranged the fittings of her dressing table, I knew that I was going to like her," said the school girl in speaking of her room mate. "For everything she had stood for quality." That is just what one might say of the toilet articles shown at the Rinkbach Jewelry Shop, 1215 North Third street, for they are more than beautiful—they are distinctive and out-of-the-ordinary. For instance, a new dressing table set of exquisite French ivory has instead of the usual rounded edges, a square edge finish, which makes it particularly attractive, and so on throughout their entire line of ivory. The quality of French ivory has instead of the usual rounded edges, a square edge finish, which makes it particularly attractive, and so on throughout their entire line of ivory. The quality of French ivory has instead of the usual rounded edges, a square edge finish, which makes it particularly attractive, and so on throughout their entire line of ivory.

A CHRISTMAS WISH

"A joyful Christmas" is the simple message on a quaint little square card shown at the Gorgas Drug Store, 16 North Third street, and above the words, a cunning little child in a red plaid, smiles her greeting. The price, with envelope to match, is just 5c. Other charming cards are offered two for 5c and the prices range up to 15c. Dainty little calendars are also shown for 10c and 15c and the designs are especially well selected and the greetings expressed are simple but hearty. Holiday boxes of special design with fine white linen finish stationery are offered for 35c, and they make delightful gifts. The holiday display at the Gorgas Store is characterized by unusually low prices for the quality of goods sold.
