MY DOCTOR TOLD ME TO TAKE FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

The Reason Why So Many People Take Father John's Medicine For Colds and Body Building.

When Mrs. C. H. Dunkel, of 33 Linden street, Reading, Pa., was asked why she took Father John's Medicine for her cough, she replied, "it was recommended by my doctor." The same question was asked and similar answer returned by the following:—Mrs. A. E. Hixon, 39 Larkin street, Bangor, Me.; Henry F. Villet, 25 Crown street, Meriden, Conn.; Frank Poff, Hallam, Pa.; Miss Catherine Boyle, 45 Blackburn street, Fairhaven, Mass.; Charles L. Brown, Irving, Ill., as well as a great many others.

Physicians, hospitals and other institutions all over the world endorse the merits of Father John's Medicine because they know of its history and value.

It is best for colds, coughs and throat and lung troubles and it makes flesh and strength for those who are weak and run down. A doctor's prescription, free from alcohol and poisonous drugs in any form.

WATCH OUT HOLIDAY THIEVES, WARNS CHIEF

Col. Hutchison Gives Tips on Protecting Property at Home and While Shopping

Warnings to residents of Harrisburg to be cautious during the holiday preparations came from Colonel Joseph B. Hutchison to-day.

"This is the one time of the year when thieves get busy," said the Colonel. "Strong barriers for doors, windows and cellar doors will not go amiss."

After citing numerous ways the thieves work during the holiday season, Colonel Hutchison suggested that it would be a good thing for residents to report robberies promptly, and to note carefully the descriptions of any strangers found lurking about the yards. As a protection for the people Colonel Hutchison made the following suggestions:

On leaving your home see that rear doors and windows as well as the front entrances are properly secured. When you retire for the night repeat this duty.

Don't place a card on your door or window announcing the time of your return; thieves may not have time to wait for you.

Don't carry your handbag by the chain or strap, but loop the chain or strap around your wrist and keep your hand over the clasp which opens the bag.

Don't place your handbag or purse on a store counter; it might not be there when you look for it. Keep it in your hand or under your arm while in stores.

Don't enter crowds in the street or in stores; pickpockets like crowds.

Don't wear valuable jewelry when shopping.

Don't carry more money than you believe you will need and don't make a display of the money you have.

Don't purchase jewelry in the street, no matter how much of a bargain it appears to be.

Don't fall to count the change given you and don't fall to be on the lookout for counterfeit money when receiving change.

Don't leave your automobile or carriage in the street without a caretaker who is known to you, and don't leave any article of value in the vehicle while you are absent.

Don't pay for C. O. D. parcels until you have examined the contents and found that the goods have been ordered by you.

Don't leave a messenger alone in a room where he has delivered goods while you go to another part of the house; let him wait in the vestibule.

Don't deliver goods which have been received by you to any person who calls and claims that a mistake was made in the delivery, unless you first telephone the store and have the story verified.

Don't have goods purchased by you delivered in care of others; order them delivered to you in your home.

Don't pay any attention to persons who claim they found your pocketbook, unless you are sure you lost it, and don't give them a chance to steal your pocketbook when you open your bag to look for it.

Don't permit your messengers to deliver packages in the street to persons who claim the goods are for them, and don't permit them to deliver any packages at houses which are apparently vacant.

Don't make change for any one until you secure possession of the note or coin to be changed.

Don't deliver goods to express agents or messengers until you make positive that they are the persons they represent themselves to be.

Don't permit your delivery wagon to remain unguarded in the street.

If you are a man, don't carry your pocketbook or wallet in your hip pocket; carry it in the inside pocket of your vest.

Don't allow any one to place a newspaper close to your face in a public conveyance or elsewhere; such a person is after your watch and chain or scarf ring. Look out for persons who jostle you on platforms of street or railway cars; they are after your money.

COLONIAL Every afternoon and evening—Vaudeville and Pictures.

"BILLY, THE KID"

Of all the various localities chosen by the writer for playing the past six years, those who have chosen the western portion of our own country have pleased the theatergoers much better than those who have selected foreign countries. And so it is that the locale of "Billy, the Kid," which comes to the Majestic, Friday, matinee and night, is placed out in New Mexico, extremely good atmospheric picture of that part of the country, its people and its manner of living. There is a strong story told in the play, one that is full of adventure, yet with an intense love interest and there is plenty of comedy. Berkeley Haaswell takes the part of the hero and they say the role suits him perfectly.—Advertisement.

ORPHEUM A bewildering dancing performance that has caused audiences of the world to yield completely to its attractiveness, is the offering of the "Fantine" Danseuse, who is assisted in her dances by Mons. Alexis, in serving up the cleverest dancing attraction seen at the Orpheum this season. Nana is a lithe, shapely little miss, possessing a pleasing personality and her pretty face is crowned by an abundance of blonde tresses. Her appearance is fetching, but it is her wild whirling, tornado like rapidity and dazzling agility of the dance that is the real merit of her performance. Nana and her partner dance with mathematical precision, and Nana, in her reckless abandon, exhibits a strength that can scarcely be credited to so small and supple a body. "Pekin Mysteries," the week's splendid headliner, is without a doubt a wonderful attraction. Mysticism of the highest order is its keynote, with just enough other clever feats by these Orientals to make the act thoroughly enjoyable and a rattling novelty. Bond and Casson, a nifty pair in neat songs and dances, are delighting audiences immensely, and in fact every turn of the bill seems to blend into a regulation variety bill.—Advertisement.

PHOTOPLAY TODAY—A TWO-REEL LUBIN DRAMA, "WAS HIS DECISION RIGHT?"

A wealthy relative dying leaves a will stipulating that if Nance will remain unmarried and will care for a paralyzed girl, a large fortune will be hers. David Sloum has charge of a sister's boy who is going wild. Jason motors to a country inn and there saves the crippled child from death. He receives the gratitude of Nance and the association soon develops to love. The old clergyman welcomes a change in the boy's disposition and discovering that it has been evolved by a woman visits her only to be horrified to see that it is Nance. Jason proposes and Nance, stifling her love, refuses him. Lily, the cripple, hears of the refusal and believes that Nance's refusal is caused by the stipulation of the will. There he learns that Lily, worshipping her caretaker, has killed herself. That love may have full sway. Can he do less for love than that poor child has done?—Advertisement.

PALACE TODAY—"LOLA"

"There is a Divinity that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we may." The truth of this saying is exemplified in the unfolding of the thrilling story of "Lola." The story of "Lola" is one of the most remarkable that has ever been put on the screen and there is no doubt that on its release it will become a subject of widespread discussion and divergence of opinion. Was Lola really dead? Was her father justified in his scientific experiments? Was Lola to blame for the inexplicable change in her character or was she but the victim of some inscrutable fate? These are some of the questions that will be asked. Whatever the answers may be, it will be universally conceded that in the adaptation of Owen Davis' play, pictured by James Young, the favorite picture star, Clara Kimball Young has found a vehicle which enables her to give full vent to her unique gift of emotional characterizations and at the same time portray a story of extraordinary interest.—Advertisement.
