SINGLE WHITE LEGHORN

A Record Unprecedented in Barred Rocks

At the following shows—Hanover, Allentown, York, Hagerstown, Williamsport and Biglerville. In competition with all the eastern breeders. I won every first prize on Cocks. Every first, but one, on Cockerels. As many first on Hens and Pullets as all the others combined, and every first on pens at Williamsport where the club held their state meeting. I won champion Cocker, hen, Cockerel and pullet. State champion Cockerel against birds from three other states. Also nine silver cups. I am now booking egg orders from as fine pens as ever mated. Order early as eggs will be limited, as I mate only top matchers and sell eggs from every pen that I mate and use no second grade hens as fillers. Catalog ready January 1. My win at Harrisburg was a clean sweep—every first prize competed for.

WASTE ENOUGH TO STAY ANOTHER WEEK

night. Action on the invitation has not yet been taken.

Plans for the second "High School Night" at the tabernacle this evening promise an occasion of greater attendance, more enthusiasm and bigger results than the memorable night four weeks ago, when between sixty and seventy high school students hit the trail. Large crowds from both the Central and the Technical schools of this city and the high schools of Steelton and other towns of the neighborhood have arranged to attend the service. They will march in separate bodies and will be prepared with all the latest yells, original songs and newest sensations for demonstrating school rivalry.

Dr. Stough has been the subject of conversation and argument in all the schools for a month, and the service to-night has been looked forward to by many who have been undecided as to his merits.

Nearly All Want Him to Stay
When Dr. Stough abruptly asked the audience last night, "How many of you want another week of the campaign?" practically all stood up and applauded. He then explained: "Neither I nor my party nor the executive committee want the responsibility for keeping up the campaign for one extra day. It is not so much a matter for official procedure and decision as it is for the rank and file of the people who are interested. This is why I am asking for this public expression to indicate the common desire for another week so the executive committee will be relieved of the burden of the city and can then act accordingly. It is they who must plan for the provisions necessary to the extension of the campaign."

He said it will be a distinct sacrifice for the party to stay longer than the intended six weeks, as they will have only two or three days at home for their Christmas before the opening of the Altoona campaign, December 27.

Puts It Up to Executives
"But we are all heartily willing for your sakes and the interest of the city to try to make a greater success for the campaign. Unless the executive committee feels that it is unwise or that there are insurmountable barriers in the way, then it is almost certain we shall have another week of the campaign in Harrisburg. But I must impose the responsibility on you: First, you must all promise to attend the meetings; you must pray every day, and you must work to induce others to attend the meetings and to hit the trail."

Dr. Stough preached under the handicap of a cold and a sore throat last night and had to halt several times in his sermon to take a pinch of salt to relieve the strain. He said the bad weather and the continued exertion of his voice in such a big auditorium was telling on his throat.

Offering For Salvation Army
The feature of last night was the collection for Patrick Myers Neilsen, captain of the Salvation Army. Dr. Stough explained that such a name was too long for any man and especially for such a busy man and he said he would call him Pat for short.

If everyone in the city had stood by the campaign as "Pat" and his army have done, there would be more doing right now than there is. They have given up all services and collections, and their meal barrel is getting empty and the coal is running low in their bin. Just the same, you still see a broad, bright smile on the captain's face, and the lassies of the army can still sing as sweetly as ever. They have learned the lesson of never complaining, which some more ought to learn.

Here Dr. Stough called Captain Neilsen to the platform to show himself, and he put a tin pail into his hand, and then began to rake in the contributions, first making the rounds of the members of the Stough party. He got $20 from them as a nest-egg for the bucket. Other contributions of $23 from the ministers, $11.50 from the executive committee and individual amounts totaled $115, while Pat stood blushing and awkward, with his wife at his side. Several sums were sent up for her benefit. The pan collections through the audience were then made and amounted to $332.72.

He said it was more money than he had ever before seen in Harrisburg.

Special Delegations
A large body of the Grand Army of the Republic, under the leadership of Post 58, with their flags, were in reserved seats, and many were in uniform. The ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Sons of Veterans were also represented. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company also came in a body. At the opening of the service several patriotic songs were sung to the accompaniment of flag waving by the choir and persons in the audience.

Dr. Stough paid a graceful tribute to the Grand Army men and told of his father and grandfather both serving in the war. "My grandfather was a colonel of one of the Ohio regiments during the war and was brevetted a major-general at the close. My father served as a musician during the entire war. He served six months in a Confederate military prison and knew what it was to have maggots in the beans and to eat corn bread of meal ground with the cob, just as many of you old men have known during your experiences, "Enlist!"

Two Veterans "Enlist!"
He said he would like to see some of the veterans—if there were any among them who had not already done so—make one more enlistment before the dropping of the curtain of "We on their services, and to secure their enrollment in the great army of eternity. When he called for trail-hitters he was rewarded by two of the veterans coming forward, one of them 86 years old and the very first to kneel at the bench.

The response of seventy-five trail-hitters from a rather slim audience was an indication of growing enthusiasm in the work which promises a good week for the end of the campaign.

The personal power of the evangelist was shown in several instances last night. Just at the close of the call for confession a man asked Dr. Stough to go with him to the bathroom and he talked to a brother who was just on the point of surrendering. Stough worked for about five minutes and brought the hesitating one forward at the bench.

"Arrested Without a Warrant"
The man afterward declared that he had been "arrested without a warrant and was mighty glad of it." The brother also testified and said that although he had been a professing Christian, he reconsecrated his life to Christ.

By special request of one of the men of the Metropolitan Life party, Dr. Stough then talked to several of his companions and after some argument led them forward amid the hearty applause of everybody in the tabernacle. Another special appeal resulted in the evangelist inducing a man and his wife to hit the trail at the last moment. All these personal talks kept the meeting unusually late, but Dr. Stough said he felt well rewarded for the extra time and he was willing to remain all night if it could induce any more to hit the trail.

Beside the two veterans in uniform, the trailhitters included ten married couples, twelve husbands alone, eleven wives unaccompanied, many single men and women of all ages. The number of gray-headed men was especially noticeable.

Too Many Wandering Wits
The sermon was on the willingness of the individual in accepting Christ from the text, "I stand at the door of the heart and knock, and if any man open to me I will come in and sup with him and he with me." He said that if any one would spend fifteen minutes a day in earnest study with a desire for the truth, he could easily be a Christian. He declared there are too many minds out wool-gathering which they should be intently listening to the preaching of the Word, and too many wandering wits that should be studying the Scriptures.

STOUGH CAMPAIGN NOTES

Seventy-two persons hit the trail at the tabernacle last night. The total number of conversions to date, including fifty-six scattering conversions at outside meetings, is 4,352.

The Rev. John E. Fleming, of Easton, Presbyterian, and the Rev. C. H. Mengel, of Easton, United Evangelical, were at the last address to men. They were in this city to look over the campaign work and are anticipating inviting the Stough evangelistic campaign to Easton in the near future.

The big mass meeting for men in the tabernacle on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Dr. Stough will speak on the subject, "Chaining the Giant." This will be the last address to men. Professor Spooner, the Hooster chorus and male quartet will sing.

The Rutherford Y. M. C. A. glee club sang two selections, "The Homeland," and "Cling to the Bible."

The Dauphin delegation, 100 strong, composed of men and women, attended the services last evening.

Among the visiting ministers on the platform last evening were the Rev. S. C. Enck, D. D., United Brethren, Philadelphia; the Rev. H. F. Hoover, Church of God, Middletown; the Rev. C. H. Mengel, United Evangelical, Easton; the Rev. E. E. McKelvey, Methodist Episcopal, Huntingdon; the Rev. John E. Fleming, Presbyterian, Easton; the Rev. J. Willis Hoover, United Evangelical, Harrisburg; the Rev. H. B. Barshinger, United Evangelical, York; the Rev. J. Theodore Pettit, United Evangelical, York.

The Riverside Methodist Episcopal Church had a delegation of fifty persons present last evening.

George A. Shipp, representative in the floor of the House of Representatives of Chicago, was on the platform last evening.

The Rev. J. T. Spangler, pastor First United Brethren Church, offered prayer at the opening of services last evening.

The Rev. H. B. King, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Paxtang, was on the platform last evening.

Dr. Stough will speak on "How I May Know I Am Converted" at the services to-morrow night in the tabernacle.

LIVEWIRE WORKERS

Alfred W. Lewis is a prominent member of the music committee of the campaign from the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, where he is an elder. He is teacher of a young men's class.

Mr. Lewis is secretary of the bass section in the tabernacle chorus.

Miss Katherine Germer, of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, is doing excellent work on the personal service committee of the campaign. She occupies a seat in the soprano section of the big chorus.

J. W. Finton, a businessman of West Harrisburg, is a member of the Fifth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, which is co-operating with the campaign. He is the faithful leader of the church choir and a member of the Stough music committee.

LODGE ELECTS OFFICERS

Special to The Telegraph
Mechanicsburg, Pa., Dec. 11.—At its regular meeting last evening Eureka Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, No. 302, elected the following officers: Levi M. Myers, worshipful master; Harry L. Snyder, junior warden; James A. Snyder, senior warden; Samuel E. Bashore, treasurer; Harry C. Harper, secretary; Calvin Clendenin, William E. Strock and John C. Reeser, trustees; James Eisenhower, representative to Grand Lodge.

TWO CHRISTMAS TREES

Special to The Telegraph
Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 11.—The community Christmas tree idea, which was inaugurated in Lebanon last year with the establishment of a big tree at the post office, will be elaborated upon this year, and two trees will be erected—one on the south side of the city and the other on the north side. A general committee, formed of representatives of the several fraternal organizations of Lebanon, is in charge of the arrangements.

LEOLINE.

How vainly grope my restless thoughts
Among the mazes of today!
No armor bright, no mail in white,
No tall knight bearing her away.
The strides of Science and the swing
Of planets toward the Perfect Hour
Less wondrous seem, less grandly ring
The days when knighthood was in flower.

Away from bustle, pomp and pride
My vagrant fancy ever strays
To castles dim and chieftains grim,
Who loved in long-forgotten Mays.
Again I see the sunset gleam
On mount and bridge and ivy vine,
As when Sir Warbeck dared to dream
And won the love of Leoline.

Call it the dead past, if you will;
Boast of our progress as you may:
Yesterday's knighthood brings a thrill
That mocks the scheming of Today.

THE "GET-QUICK" FOREIGN LANGUAGE.

They had but recently arrived in Washington, and in order to fit themselves to shine in diplomatic circles were taking special pains to acquire a certain fluency and understanding of foreign languages.

Little Willie had heard so much about the "get-quick foreign language" habit that when he and his little neighbor were called upon to give an exhibition of their progress in modern languages, they were quite ready to do so. Doting fathers, uncles and aunts sat about, and when the lesson had been completed, and proper praise had been bestowed, little Willie looked confidently at his audience, and with a shake of his little curls, said, "Reservoir!"

There was a general disposition to laugh, which culminated in a universal guffaw when little Katrina, equal to the emergency, piped out, "Thanks! Thanks!" Affairs at Washington, Joe Mitchell, Chaplain, in National Magazine for December.

THE ENGLISH BOY SCOUTS AT WORK.

These orders and bulletins tell how the Boy Scouts were called upon to serve their country. The following extracts from reports which have been received at the English headquarters office indicate something of the wonderful varied character of the activities that the English Scouts are engaging in:

The 13th Hampstead Troop are encamped by an electric station at Neasden, which they are day and night.

Two thousand Kent Scouts have been watching the telegraph wires to prevent them from being tapped.

A South London Troop has been invited into the country to help a farmer with his harvesting.

Scouts are engaged at the Aircraft Factory, Hendon, and patrol the building day and night. Wolverhampton Scouts are carrying out a novel idea, suggested by Sir Richard Paget, District Commissioner for Wolverhampton. Each Scout is undertaking to rear six chickens to help the food supply. Other country Scouts have planted all the waste land in their neighborhood with turnips.
