MILLS AT STANDSTILL OVER HOLIDAY SEASON

Several Departments Are Already Closed; Brighter Prospects After January 1

Preparations for the Christmas recess about the big plant of the Pennsylvania Steel Company are nearly completed. On account of the depressed conditions in the steel industry the greater part of the local plant will be closed for from four to ten days.

A number of departments including the rail mill are already closed. By Thursday evening everything will be at a standstill except the departments that must be kept running at all times.

After January 1 the prospects seem to be just a little bit brighter than at present. The rail mill department is expected to resume operations as in No. 1 blooming mill. It has also been planned that two other hearths will be put into service. Officials at the offices, however, are loath to predict even these slight improvements.

SUSPICIOUS DEATH OF NEW BORN CHILD

Colored Girl-mother and Her Sister Charged With Mysterious Disappearance of Baby

A story bordering on the barbarous was told in the office of Squire Gardner this morning when two colored girls were arrested by High Constable A. P. Bomgardner following the investigation of a mysterious fire at 131 Ridge street, "on or about November 15."

The girls are Blanche Williams, 18 years old, a daughter of George Williams, 131 Ridge street, and her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Banks, 25 years old, wife of William Banks, also of 131 Ridge street. The former is charged with having "concealed the death of a child" and her sister is charged with being an accessory to the crime. Both arrests were made on the oath of Constable Bomgardner.

According to the story the officer told Squire Gardner, he says the Williams girl is alleged to have given birth to a child on or about November 15. The child, it is further alleged, according to the Squire, was placed in a trunk. The trunk was then set afire and burned to a crisp. The burning trunk ignited the walls of the room, which are badly charred, according to the officer.

Following an investigation this morning by a State fire marshal and Constable Bomgardner, the arrests were made. The girls were brought before Squire Gardner, who committed them to jail in default of $1,000 bail each for a hearing. The date for this hearing has not been set.
