

77 SUBWAY VICTIMS REMAIN IN HOSPITALS

None Expected to Die and All Will Be Discharged Within Few Days

DEATH LIST STOPS AT ONE

Traffic on All Underground Lines, Halted For Hours, Resumed Last Night

By Associated Press New York, Jan. 7.—Seventy-seven victims of yesterday's subway accident were still in hospitals to-day recovering from their injuries.

The death list of what was first believed to be a great disaster remained at one. How many persons were carried unconscious from the smoke-filled tube to the streets probably will never be definitely established.

Traffic in all subway lines, halted for hours after the accident and resumed to some extent last night, was again normal at the morning rush hour to-day.

In the aftermath of the accident the usual machinery of investigation was set in motion. Eight separate investigations, conducted by state, city and traction officials, were under way to-day.

SHERIFF'S POSSE CAPTURES MURDERER

Wife of Farmer Is Found Dead in Potato Box With Throat Cut

HUSBAND DISCOVERED CRIME

Accused Man Was Paroled Prisoner Released From Huntingdon Reformatory

Huntingdon, Pa., Jan. 7.—After a posse of farmers headed by half a dozen reformatory guards, the sheriff and several constables, had scoured the hills and valleys of upper Huntingdon county all night in search of Adam Snyder, 20 years old, who is alleged to have murdered Mrs. Rebecca Port, of near Neff's Mills, yesterday afternoon, he was captured this morning in the public schoolhouse at Barre, this county, by John Heck.

The crime of which Snyder is accused is one of the most heinous in the history of this county. Yesterday afternoon Plummer Port, a prominent farmer of the Shavers Creek valley, left his home and drove to Neff's Mills, one and a half miles away. He left his wife alone with Adam Snyder, who, since paroled from the Huntingdon Reformatory in July, had been working on the Port farm.

When Port returned to his home, the bloody meat-saw, knife and monkey-wrench, a pool of blood and a trail of blood leading to the cellar led to the discovery. News of the crime spread rapidly through the valley and last night searching parties with lanterns scoured the hills surrounding the scene of the crime.

When captured this morning, Snyder was completely exhausted and offered little resistance. He had traveled over the mountains for seven miles, eluded his pursuers and sought shelter from the storm by forcing an entrance to the schoolhouse at Barre.

Snyder, whose mother resides near Johnstown, had been committed to the reformatory from Cambria county on a charge of larceny in 1913. He was ordered to work on the Port farm in July.

BRITISH DRAFT REPLY TO AMERICAN PROTEST

Cabinet Will Consider Two Notes Designed to Solve Shipping Dispute

London, Jan. 7.—The British response to the United States note of protest against England's manner of detaining American ships bound for neutral ports has been drafted. It will be considered before the Cabinet to-day and forwarded to Washington, probably before the end of the week.

There will, in reality, be two notes of reply. The first will deal with the general situation, answering American representations in generalities and broadly outlining the British position, as well as expressing England's friendly feelings and her appreciation for the friendly spirit of the United States' note.

This will be followed by a further note, which is also in the course of preparation, taking up the shipping problem in greater detail, and the probability making suggestions looking toward a solution.

The reply to the American note, it is said, is well informed quarters, is wholly conciliatory and shows a disposition on the part of England to do everything within reason to avert delay to American shipping at a time when freight rates are high and consequently loss of time is reverted to the owner.

England wishes to do everything in its power consistent with the proper safeguarding of the interests of the allies to facilitate world trade and stimulate commerce, paralyzed as it is by war conditions. Consequently, it is declared, there is no disposition on the part of England to protest against the purchase of German vessels by Americans where the sales are genuine and the ships are not used so as to avoid what might reasonably be called the consequences of belligerency.

The use of transferred German ships in the cotton trade will, Germany probably would call forth objections from the allies, although cotton is not contraband, because the use as a result of such means of escaping the effects of the war.

Oregon's Woman Senator Is Not Afraid of Men

Salmon, Ore., Jan. 7.—Miss Marion B. Towne, of Jackson county, is the only woman member of the 1915 Oregon State Legislature, and almost the only Democrat. Nevertheless she does not view her political future with alarm.

"Oh, I never fear the men," she said. "It's the women for whom I look out. During my campaign for election I didn't make a speech because speeches do nothing but please the supporters you have. They never, or almost never, make votes. I spent my time in a house-to-house canvass, meeting the women, and sometimes the men, and trying to get their points of view and opinions. It was profitable and will be more so later."

BRITISH AGAIN FEAR ATTACKS BY ZEPPELINS

England's Reply to Washington's Protest Will Be Altogether Conciliatory, According to London Dispatches; All Danger of Friction of Two Nations Has Disappeared; Turks Make No Comment on Reported Russian Victory; Reported Arrest of Cardinal Stirs Vatican

Vatican Has No Official Report of Arrest of Cardinal in Brussels

Rome, Jan. 7.—The Vatican up to a late hour last night had received no official confirmation of the reported arrest at Brussels of Cardinal Mercier because of a pastoral letter issued by him in which he is said to have advised Belgians not to give allegiance to the German administration.

The unofficial rumor of the arrest of a member of the Sacred College, however, caused a profound impression and the hope is expressed that the report is untrue.

In Vatican circles it is stated that should the report be officially confirmed it is likely that the Pope will protest, even though, by so doing, he should run the risk of somewhat endangering his position of absolute outside and above the conflict in order that his offer of mediation at an opportune moment, might be likely to succeed.

INFORMATION IS SOUGHT

London, Jan. 7, 9:15 A. M.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphs that he learns that the Vatican has requested information from Germany regarding the reported arrest of Cardinal Mercier in Belgium. The correspondent adds that he believes the Pope will make a demand on Emperor William for the cardinal's immediate release.
