ARMENIAN AT COLLEGE
 Special to The Telegraph
 Anville, Pa., Jan. 15.—Herrant N. Athanasian, a native of Armenia, who escaped that country, where he was being held by the Turks, gave an interesting talk before the congregation of the Lutheran Church at this place. He made a strong plea for his people, who are being persecuted by the Turks. He explained that whole villages are being wiped out by the sword on account of the Turkish government attempting to force Mohammedanism upon the country. Athanasian has enrolled at Lebanon Valley College as a student.
