PEOPLE RUSH OUT OF LEBANON THEATER

Supports of Balcony Crack and Men and Women Climb Over Seats

Lebanon, Pa., Jan. 18.—On Saturday evening the supports of the gallery and balcony of the Academy of Music were heard to crackle while both upper and lower floors were filled to capacity and men and women crawled over seats in a wild rush to obtain a passage to the exits. Fortunately no one was hurt, as the house policeman and Officer John Reed, of the local police force, marshaled the crowd out in order. The Billy Arden Company had been playing to crowded houses last week and Saturday evening every seat in the house was sold. The break occurred a few minutes before the curtain was scheduled to rise for the first act. The gallery was closed for the night and many had their money returned who had purchased balcony seats.

Pastoral Can Be Read in Belgian Churches

Amsterdam, via London, Jan. 18.—The Echo Belge says that General von Bissing, governor-general of the Belgian territory occupied by the Germans, has issued the following proclamation at Brussels:
"The governor-general declares officially that the assertion concerning the arrest of Cardinal Mercier is totally unfounded. The German authorities never dreamed of interfering with the liberty of a prince of the church in the exercise of his ecclesiastical functions. His pastoral, however, contained passages which were injurious to Germany and which consequently could not be overlooked by the German authorities.
"Nevertheless, out of respect to the sacredness of his place and in order not to offend the sentiments of the faithful we have not prohibited the reading of the pastoral in the churches. The governor-general limited himself to taking police measures demanded by the situation."

Genoa, via Paris, Jan. 18. 5 A. M.—"A false alarm of an Italian invasion was spread in Trentino by a mistake of a telephone girl," says a Venice dispatch to the newspaper Secolo XIX.
"She reported that Italian troops were marching toward Sappada, one of the easiest points for invading Trentino.
"The authorities never questioned the truth of the report. All night long roads were blown up and troops were rushed toward Sappada. In the morning all was ready for the invaders, but there was no sign of them."

AUDITORS EAGER TO WORK BUT PEEVISH

Get Pad of Paper, Pencils, Etc., but No Books; Dislike Publicity
County Auditors Francis W. Reigle and Fred W. Huston, in accordance with their previously announced plan, turned up at the county controller's office this morning to begin work on the 1914 audit. They were a trifle peevish because the poor board and other county boards they declared they had not. It is understood they were to get the books this afternoon although they evinced a desire to await the coming of President John W. Cassel before taking any steps. They each got a four by eight-inch pad of paper, several pencils and some erasers this morning, however.
Both auditors frankly seemed a bit put out as it were, about the newspaper publicity and declared brutally that if the reporters wrote anything about "em-to-day," they—the reporters, of course—would be forever barred from admission to the auditors' room while the 1914 audit was on.

All other cases listed for to-day were either settled or continued so after instructing the tales men that they need not return to-morrow, court adjourned Wednesday. Ten tax verdicts were agreed upon at total of $4,242.78.

Miller; the will of Peter Weaver was probated, no letters being issued; and letters on the estate of Caroline Kohler, Lykens, whose will was probated, were granted to Walter S. Young. MANNING REFUSED TO SIGN

In discussing his refusal to sign the voucher for the payment of the stone crusher at the county almshouse Thomas S. Manning, the Republican director of the poor, frankly declared to-day that he withheld his name because he was not in sympathy with the movement to buy the crusher for economic reasons. "When the measure was put through to buy this new crusher I opposed it," he said, "and I withheld my name to the voucher because I think the county could have taken over a second-hand equipment and therefore would not have been put to the expense of a new one."
