GOVERNOR BRUMBAUGH TAKING THE OATH OF OFFICE

Reception Tonight

To-night, from 8 to 10, Governor Brumbaugh will give a public reception at the State Capitol. The new Governor and some of his State officials and friends, together with legislators, will receive in the House caucus room. The public will be admitted at the main entrance to the Capitol and the south entrance will be for automobiles. The public should enter the park at Third and North streets and proceed to the main entrance.

Dr. Martin Grove Brumbaugh, of Philadelphia, became Governor of Pennsylvania shortly after noon today, taking the oath of office in the presence of a great concourse of men, women and children gathered about the entrance to Capitol Park at State and Third streets.

Both ceremonies were characterized by that simplicity which has become traditional with inaugurations of the executive officers of the Keystone State and as if to open the new administration auspiciously the skies cleared of rain clouds and enabled everything to be carried out as planned.

Thousands of people, Harrisburgers and visitors, nearby folks and marchers, looked at the weather the first thing this morning and rejoiced that the high winds had carried away the mists of early hours and that there was prospect of a fair day. All morning the city resounded with music and the incoming trains and trolley cars brought their thousands. Before noon the streets were teeming with people.

The Governor's Troop, in uniform with custom, centered to the Executive Mansion, where it took up the duties of escort to the Governor. With the soldiers in advance the carriages of the participants in the ceremony the two Governors side by side, and the inaugural committee, moved to the Capitol. Then they formed in the rotunda and just before the bells rang for noon went to the great stand at the entrance to the park.

Great Crowds Cheer The great crowds gathered in State and Third streets and massed in Capitol Park cheered when the gubernatorial party appeared. Just at noon Senator E. E. Beidleman, chairman of the inaugural committee, opened the exercises. He had come directly from home, where he had been ill, and was heartily greeted. Elder William J. Swigart, the new Governor's teacher in boyhood days and a member of his religious denomination, invoked the Holy Spirit and Chief Justice J. Hay Brown advanced to administer the oath. The people on the stand remained standing during this ceremony and after a few handshakes the new Governor moved to the railing and began his address, which will be found

High Point in Address of Governor Brumbaugh

GOVERNOR MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH, in his inaugural address to-day, emphasized every plank of his own personal platform upon which he made his campaign for election last Fall. The address was unusually brief, but forceful and epigrammatic. The temperance forces of the State, which had been awaiting with interest the new Governor's first utterance on the local option question since the election, learned that the new executive is "unequivocally for county local option." "I gave wider freedom to the people that I favored such a law," the Governor said. "Your Governor now asks you to join with him in its enactment. Every consideration of moment favors such a procedure. The other important points in the Governor's message are: Largely increased appropriations for highway construction and repair; the creation of a road supervisory and repair system under the direction of skilled roadbuilders; the removal of the State highways from politics; more money for State aided roads and the abolition of all toll roads. Urged adoption of efficient and practical civil service. Greatly enlarged permanent school fund and the development of vocational education in the public schools. Pleas for woman suffrage amendment before people at next Fall's elections. Careful supervision of State appropriations for charity. Passage of workmen's compensation and stringent child labor laws and adoption of sanitary housing system for State. Systematic administration of all agricultural agencies. Wider freedom in home government by cities of State. Conservation of natural resources and increase of State forest reserves.

ONLY SKIES GLUM AS PARADE PASSES

Thousands Line Streets and Cheer Pennsylvania's New Governor; Praise For Firemen

Gray skies with only an occasional patch of blue showing, air that was crisp and snappy despite the ever-present hint of rain—this was the best the weatherman could contribute today toward the gaiety of a great State. But, pshaw, it required more than a pessimistic weatherman to dampen the enthusiasm of thousands of Pennsylvanians who lined the streets of the Capital City to roar a welcome to the new Governor of the Keystone State, Martin G. Brumbaugh. From all over the State they came by train, and motor, and trolley, and carriage and a-foot in gala dress and they were all on hand in time to see Governor Brumbaugh and his staff roll through the streets in the automobile train just before the parade started. Incidentally, this was the first time a Pennsylvania Governor ever rode in an automobile at an inaugural. For awhile this morning the waiting thousands feared they were not

CONSUL SAYS BULGARS WILL STAY NEUTRAL

"Horses Are Kicking Each Other, but Donkeys Suffer," Quotes Representative

Emphatically denying the truth of dispatches telling of the massing of Bulgarian troops on the borders of Servia and Rumania, M. Stephen Panaretoff, Bulgarian minister to the United States, declared in an interview at Steelton to-day, that Bulgaria would take drastic measures to maintain her neutrality. M. Panaretoff came from Washington last night to address the members of the big Bulgarian colony in Steelton and to witness the ceremonies attending the observance of Epiphany to-day. In reply to a question as to how Bulgaria viewed the Rumanian mobilization, M. Panaretoff said: "I have seen dispatches declaring that Bulgaria has massed her troops on the Servian and Rumanian frontiers. You may say that is a lie; Bulgaria has not mobilized any troops." The minister further declared that he didn't believe dispatches asserting Rumania has mobilized 600,000 troops, saying, "Rumania cannot mo-

GLARE LIGHTS SKY FOR MILES

Ruins Smoulder and Fitfully Break Into Flames During the Day; Partial Insurance

Harrisburg's first big fire of the new year, last night gutted the Kaufman Undersewing department store building, 4-8 South Market Square, and the S. S. Pomeroy grocery store adjoining. The total loss is estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000. It is partially covered by insurance. For a time the entire block was threatened. Considerable damage was done to other properties by water. Injuries to a dozen firemen, caused by broken glass; failure of the fire alarm to work on the general alarm; bursted hose, and other mishaps combined to handicap the firefighters. It was 10 o'clock this morning before the fire was believed to be under control. After several companies had been ordered home, the flames broke out again. Firemen were on duty all day.

He says the flames were confined to a vault in the basement and the store was filled with smoke. An alarm was sent in from Second street and Market Square at 11:05. Five minutes later John C. Kinder, fire chief, sent in a general alarm. A

LIVING STILL BEING TAKEN FROM RUINS

Less Than 200 Persons Saved of Population of 2,000 in Paterno

Tarascio, via Rome, Jan. 19.—Not least acute the misery and suffering of the people of Avezzano is that of the inhabitants of the entire district to the south in Pescara, San Benedetto, Omita, and other towns. The loss of life and damage to property in these places is equally as great, but the needs of the sufferers have received far less attention. Soldiers have arrived at several of these places to aid in the work of rescue, but there is a lamentable scarcity of food for both troops and the people. The temporary shelters provided are also inadequate to protect the people from the increasingly cold weather.

Paterno, high up on the mountain-side, has suffered the heaviest more than any other town in the whole earthquake region. Less than 200 persons have been saved out of a population of 2,000 and not a single house remains standing. All are shapeless ruins. Along the main road from Paterno to Pescara traffic has ceased except for

Scott, convicted by a January quarter sessions jury last night of murder in the second degree for the shooting of Nathan Banks in Sibletown August 1, 1914, will not be called for sentence for at least ten days, probably not until the second week in February. District attorney Michael E. Stroup said to-day: "Ten days were allowed W. J. Carter and H. B. Sasaman, counsel for the defense, in which to file reasons for a new trial. The jury deliberated for five hours on the case and returned the verdict at 9:52 o'clock. It is said that two of the jury were for acquittal, five for first and five for second degree murder."

BRITISH MOVING FRESH TROOPS TO YPRES; RUSS CAPTURE MOUNTAIN PASS

Plight of Turkish Army Corps Is Described as Pitiable; 900 Soldiers Found Frozen to Death; Germans Begin Another Offensive Movement, According to Dispatches From Holland

The Germans have begun another offensive movement, according to unofficial advices to-day from Holland. It is said the German heavy artillery went into action yesterday and that a battle is in progress for possession of Ypres. The British are moving in fresh troops to defend this town, around which occurred some of the heaviest fighting of the war at the time the Austria Hungarians were attempting their way to the English channel. The assault on Ypres, following the victory of the Germans at Soissons and their attack at Albert, marks the third movement of the kind within a week. Petrograd dispatches say Russian forces are moving rapidly westward through Pennsylvania which forms the eastern portion of Hungary, adjoining Rumania. The Russians now have possession of a mountain pass which gives them easy access to Hungary, according to these advices, which state that the Austria Hungarians were not prepared for victories said to have been won recently by the Russians. The plight of the Turkish army corps which gave battle to Russians near Kara-Uzun, in the Caucasian region, is described in Petrograd reports as pitiable. Those who escaped alive from the battle are said to be fleeing toward Erzerum, but owing to capture by Russians of their food supplies are confronted with the alternative of starvation or surrender. It is stated that in one place 900 soldiers were found frozen to death, and doubt is expressed that any of the Turks will be able to reach Erzerum.
