TY COBB GIVES ADVICE

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—Ty Cobb is distributing the following timely advice to ball players:

"I think baseball players are beginning to realize that subterfuge has no part in the successful promotion of the national pastime. The game has been injured greatly therefrom the past season. And, though it is still honest and always will remain so, the vacillating attitude of the many mercenary players has doubtless raised vague suspicions in the public mind in some quarters. No one blames a player for selling his services to the very best advantage. But a contract, written or verball is a sacred thing. Evasion through technicality is no sound excuse for dishonor. Let the least corruption creepinto the manipulation of the game and the careful work of years will be destroyed. The baseball player has as much at stake in the present fight as any one. The outcome means no less than his future."

Game Requires an Extra Period; Tigers Are Up to Yale in the Race

Special to The Telegraph Princeton, N. J., Jan. 20.—Penn lost to Princeton last night. Score 24 to 22. It was a "fast and furious" basketball game. The Tigers had a brilliant spurt near the close of the contest. An extra period was played. Princeton and Yale are now tied up for first honors in the intercollegiate series, each having a credit of two victories. Princeton plays Penn at Philadelphia on Saturday and Yale tackles Cornell at Iathaca.

In last night's game Captain Seel-bach and Williamson were the indi-vidual stars for the visitors, while Haas and Paulson were the steadlest performer in the Tiger ranks. To the skill of the latter in caging fouls Princeton probably owes its vic-tory.

Princeton probably owes its victors.

The game commenced with a rush, but Princeton's teamwork seemed to dazzle the visitors, and the first half closed with the Tigers leading 12 to 6. With a furious return in the second half, Penn came into the running again, but the fortunes of war varied until the period ended with the sccore 20 to 20. A field goal by Penn just as the period closed was ruled out because of a Princeton foul. McNichol shot the basket and tied the score. In the extra period two fouls caged by Paulson were balanced by a field goal by Williamson. A moment later McTigue got a beauty from the middle of the floor and the game was over. Line-up:
