TAFT, IN ADDRESS, CRITICISES REFORMS

Former President Says Primary Law Has Not Made Better Candidates

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 21.—Declaring that the country was halting in business and progress and learning the unwise steps that had been taken and needed to be retraced, William H. Taft, former President, said here today that the people should go back to the line of justice, equity and moderation. Professor Taft was the guest of Indiana University and delivered the principal address at the founders' day exercises which celebrated the ninety-fifth anniversary of the university. "We need not go back to the conditions that led to the great reforms and we shall not do so," said Mr. Taft. "Corporations have been driven out of politics and while, of course, corruption is not ever absent, the danger of plutocracy has disappeared and the purification of politics has constituted a real reform for which all good citizens must be grateful." The former President defended the railroads by saying that the close and absolute supervision over the management and the restriction upon the rates, together with the increase or maintenance of wages through the power of unions, have grown the railroads between the upper and lower millstones and prevented a fair return upon their capital. The solvency of some of them is threatened, and all this to the detriment of the business of the country and especially to the comfort and happiness of wage earners, dependent upon normal business and normal demand for labor. Rate increases for the railroads, when the conditions require it, was urged by Mr. Taft. Professor Taft criticized many of the new reforms in governmental affairs and declared that the selection of candidates at a general primary has not tended to the elimination of corruption or political machine rule and the selection of better representatives of a party.

MIKE GIBBONS FOR JIMMY CLABBY

Middleweight Battle Takes Place at Milwaukee Tonight; Championship at Stake

Chicago, Jan. 21.—For the honor of filling the shoes, vacant since the death of Stanley Ketchel, two of the fastest, cleverest and best middleweights in the world will battle tonight at Milwaukee to-night in Tom Andrews' spacious arena. Mike Gibbons and Jimmy Clabby are the contesting parties and a unanimous decision for either boxer will mean the title. There will be several old-timers at the ringside who will bemoan the loss of the Ketchels and Papkes of other days, and there will be hundreds of professional pessimists running rampant after the mill telling what a fizzle it was when compared to the famous Ketchel-Papke battle, but this is expected, even though the boys in question are the very best middleweights in the game to-day, and one of them—Mike Gibbons—is considered to be one of the greatest battlers of all time.

FIRST INNING IN FEDERAL INJUNCTION

Score at End of Yesterday's Play Shows Honors Even; Majors Are Hopeful

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Nasty things were said by the Feds yesterday in their testimony against organized baseball. It was the opening inning in the world's series to determine who is who. The game is being played in United States court. The powers that control organized baseball, or at least are said to control it, were described as oppressors of minor leagues and ball players by Keene Addington, chief of counsel for the Federal League, in his opening address in the antitrust suit. Addington cited features of the National Agreement, decisions of the National Commission and general practices of baseball authorities to show that the game is governed by a group having almost absolute power, with authority to make laws, judge of infractions of the laws and impose penalties for infractions. "We have nothing to fear from what was brought up yesterday," said President Tener, of the National League, and others were of similar opinion. Score, first inning, 0 to 0.

Foreign Trade Meeting in St. Louis Today

St. Louis, Jan. 21.—Several hundred delegates representing the leading commercial organizations of the United States attended the opening session of the second National Foreign Trade convention which met here to-day. An address was delivered by Secretary of Commerce Redfield. Permanent organization then was effected and the convention began the consideration of problems of international law as they affect American commerce during the present European war. The principal address on this topic was made by Professor John Bassett Moore, former counselor of the State Department. After a discussion of the points raised in Mr. Moore's address the convention heard an address by John J. Arnold, of Chicago, on "Foreign Banking, Loans and Credits." Mr. Moore in his address on "Problems of War and Commerce" asserted that the pending negotiations between the United States and Great Britain in regard to the right to visit and search and British interference with American ships and cargoes could result in nothing better than a makeshift; that the points at issue could be settled only by the abolition of "conditional contraband," and the co-operation of neutrals and belligerents in the certification of cargoes. Amendment to the federal banking laws whereby American banking institutions could unite with Americans, interested in overseas commerce in capitalization of foreign banks, was urged by John J. Arnold, vice-president of the First National Bank of Chicago.
