Shall Husbands Support Wage Earning Wives

By Donothy Dix

We discussed yesterday the problem of the woman who has followed a gainful occupation before marriage, of the marries a poor man. This in turn brings up another question.

Shall the wage-earning wife support herself, or has she the right to expect her husband to provide for her as he would if she did not earn many correspondents, and I get numerous letters from wives who are working outside of their homes, and yet who feel ill-used because their husbands of ont support them.

It seems to me that it is only a very greedy and grasping woman who feel ill-used because their husbands on to her own pockets husband? A. A just and fairminded woman would see that she shouldn't expect to hold on to the old order of things, and yet reap all of the rewards of the new.

Lovers of Shakespeare will welcome with pleasure the coming visit to the Majestic, on next Wednesday evening, of the celebrated English actress, Miss Ellen Terry. Miss Terry is now in America, and has consented to appear in scenes from Shakespeare in a limited number of the principal cities of this country. Only four cities in Pennsylvania will be visited by Miss Terry, of which Harrisburg is included. Miss Terry is reviving "Desdemona," "Cordella," "Juliet" and "Ophella," with comment of her own on those famous roles. The critics of the Los Angeles, Boston and Detroit papers have highly praised Miss Terry in her new role. The sale of seats will open Monday, at 9 a. m.—Advertisement.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

BIRDS FLY FROM BATTLE
One of the war correspondents has noted the complete absence of birds from the battleffelds of Northern France and the consequent profusion of spiders and other cognate crawling things. Birds alway desert scenes of heavy gunfire; and, what is more, they often do not return for many years. All birds left the theater of war in South Africa, and it is only now—14 years later—that they are returning. Meanwhile South Africa has suffered from a vexatious plague of ground infrom a vexatious plague of ground in-sects—"tecks" as they call them over there. It is not supposed that the African birds left the country, but that they merely retired to some remote and peaceful part of the veldt. 8526 Two-Piece Tunic Skirt,

Undoubtedly the long, full tunic over the narrow foundation makes a favorite skirt of the Winter. Here is one that can be treated in two such different ways as really to mean two different ways as really to mean two different patterns. With the closed front and the straight lower edge it gives one effect; with the open fronts and the pointed lower edge it is practically transformed, yet the difference in cut is so slight that the one pattern provides for both. In the largest illustration the skirt is of white silk faced with black velvet and the tunic is of net trimmed with ribbon, but if crêpe de chine or silk, or any other material that is not transparent is used for the tunic, the skirt can be made of a lining material, faced either with material that matches the tunic or with a contrasting material. The skirt itself is in two pieces; the tunic is straight and gathered, consequently, the skirt while an exceedingly smart one is very simple and easy to make. It can be finished at either the high or at the natural waist line.

For the medium size the skirt will require 3 yds. of material 27, 25% yds. 36 or 44 in. wide, and the tunic 5 yds. of material 27, 334 yds. 36 or 2½ yds. 44 in. wide. To face the skirt and trim the tunic will be needed 91/2 yds. of velvet

The pattern 8526 is cut in sizes from 24 to 30 inches waist measure. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

A good story is told on a trading agent in Nyassaland. He was obsessed with a particularly real horror of lone, one of these brutes began to cat up the natives of the nearby village, doing terrible havoc. The agent barricaded himself in his room and slept with six native watchmen on duty in case the lion should try to break into his house. One night he thought he heard the lion prowling around, and promptly fired out of the window, knocking a hole in the Government boat. The following morning he was astonished to see what had happened. That night he again heard sounds which seemed to foretell the oresence of the lion. He seized lis rifie and fired, and this time succeeded in bagging the district off-tain well-known sportsman, who accurate well-known sportsman, who accurate heard the story. He wrote to the agent and congratulated him on shooting his first lion. The agent rose to the occasion, and now silences all sceptics by producing the letter. He has since acquired quite a reputation as a lion-hunter on the strength of this testimonial.—Captain W. Robert Foran, in The American Boy.
