BEST METHOD OF COMBINING UTILITY QUALITIES WITH FANCY

COPYRIGHT 1915 LIGHT BRAHMA By Louis Paul Graham

"The King of All Poultry," the Light Brahma, is the first product of the America from India, about 1846 and...

Females generally produce large numbers of brown eggs and most of these in winter. These fowls are hardy and do exceptionally well, either in confinement or on free range.

Mistaken Theory That They Cannot Be Bred Into One Bird. The old theory that utility and fancy qualities must be bred separately is rapidly disappearing.

Make Your Hens Lay When Eggs Are High

Anyone can get plenty of eggs when eggs are cheap—that's what makes them cheap. The people who make money from poultry get eggs when the others cannot.

You can make your hens lay and get your biggest profits when your neighbors' hens aren't earning their feed bills. It's all a matter of knowing how.

Poultry raising isn't a matter of guesswork any more. The breeder who makes $2.00 a year net profit from every fowl has got to know how to raise, feed and care for his flocks.

Get the special training that you need to make poultry-keeping profitable. The International Correspondence Schools will give you complete instruction in every essential of poultry culture.

Formerly I had what I called bad luck with my poultry; after reading I. C. S. instruction papers, I found that it was mismanagement that ailed my poultry.

For the last eight years I have been trying to find out how to keep poultry. My feed bill today is only half as much as it was a year ago, and my profits are almost twice as great as they were before I enrolled in the I. C. S. Poultry Course.

Women AND THEIR Interests

What Do You Read?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX. "Have you 'the tired businesswoman' type of mind which insists on kayety for relaxation and is ready to be entertained? Does your daily reading consist of the headlines in the newspapers? Do you carefully omit, in your perusal, all editorials, and are you particular not to read the serious, instructive articles which the magazines offer you? Do you ignore all the world of literature in which poetry, the drama, essays and charmingly written biographies, histories, works of science and philosophy lie?"

Reading worth-while things is honestly not less than a question of getting the habit. I know a young woman who proudly boasted that she had read none of the classic novels. And then someone gave her Victor Hugo's 'Notre Dame'.

I found as thrilling a romance, as fascinating a love story, as any of the my favorite best sellers had not given me. Then, too, I discovered a real philosophy back of the story. I found myself interested in the discussion of architecture and in the description of old Paris.

There is the testimony of an average girl anent the classical novel 'The House of the Medici' by Marguerite Yourcenar. Reading merely for amusement becomes rather appalling amusement to any mind that is at all ambitious. Reading for instruction is by no means a dull and dry affair.

You simply have to know what to read. Cast about in your mind for something in which you are interested—for every thinking human being has surely one major interest and several minor ones.

Even if your interest is merely in the melody of popular songs you will find yourself delighted by the wonderful fortitude of Beethoven's life, for instance; by the romance of Mozart's, or by the magnificent capacity for work of Abbe Franz Liszt.

In all of life there is interest. In all sorts of writing there is the element of being 'a human document'—since writing must chronicle conditions of life and living of theories about them.

There are no more splendid historical novels than the actual facts of history. There are no more thrilling adventure stories than the real tales of such a man as Stanley, for instance. And so through all the departments with which fiction deals fact supplies romances fully as great as those which fiction offers.

WITH BELTED REDINGOTE

A Pretty Frock with Fashionable Vest and High Collar.

By MAY MANTON

$519 Redingote Dress for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

Truly the redingote idea has developed many variations. Here is one of the newest and the prettiest. It gives open fronts with a narrow vest that is designed for contrasting material, and finished with the military style. Made as it is here, with sleeves to match the vest and skirt, it is exceedingly smart but this season it primarily one of variety and the sleeves could match the redingote while the vest matched the skirt or the vest and collar could be of fancy material when plain material is used for the main portion of the frock, or both redingote and skirt could be of the same material.

For the last eight years I have been trying to find out how to keep poultry. My feed bill today is only half as much as it was a year ago, and my profits are almost twice as great as they were before I enrolled in the I. C. S. Poultry Course.
