Dodge Brothers' Car Meets With Approval

Robert L. Morton, manager of the Keystone Motor Car Company, in speaking of the reception accorded the new Dodge Brothers car, said it exceeded his expectation from every standpoint. "I believe that it compares in appearance, power and quality with the thousand dollar cars. In fact, have had it aside of some cars near the thousand dollar figure and I consider that the Dodge had two hundred and fifty dollars more car than the other. As our allotment is limited to fifty cars the first year, I have no doubt but what the entire lot will be sold before March is past.

"The car was driven from Lancaster here and tests made on the Derry street and Reservoir Park hill, and every conceivable tryout that is customary to prove the worth and smooth running qualities and to say that I am enthused with its performance is putting it mildly."

"Of all the cars that ever have been projected into the automobile world, Dodge Brothers' appear in surroundings that are at once most extraordinary and promising. In the very zenith of a career of 28 years as mechanists and manufacturers, the Dodge Brothers, John R. and Horace E., closed out an automobile parts production enterprise involving contracts worth a million and a half dollars a month to embrace the automobile manufacturers in their own right. But in this undertaking to build a second career upon a first and unite the two as one, it was wisely determined not to court an advance appeal. The public was not to be permitted to judge the wisdom of the selection until the Dodge Brothers' designs had been finally approved and the construction checked up at all points in the shop and on the road.

Banquet at Motor Club's Next Annual Meeting

A treat is in store for the members of the Motor Club at the next annual meeting which will be held at Chestnut street hall on February 5. Tables will be laid to accommodate every member in regular quiet style, after which chairs will be pushed back, with smokes in order, and social features prevail, with entertaining talks and general discussions pertaining to matters concerning the welfare of motor car owners and the club. Every member will no doubt arrange to be present at this annual gathering, and motorists who are not members wish to share the pleasures of the evening, applications for membership in club should be presented at the board of governors meeting on Tuesday evening, February 5.

WANT BUILDING FOR U. P. BRANCH HERE

One of the delightful features of last night's smoker, was a "picture-book talk" on the university by the provost, Edgar Fahs Smith, who with lantern slides, showed scenes of the big institution from the time of its founding by Benjamin Franklin to the present day.

Thomas Lynch Montgomery, State librarian, one of the invited guests of the occasion, made an informal address in which he pointed out that the big men of the future will be the young men of the present who are using their "spare time" in preparation for the bigger things to come.

Other speakers of the evening were Roswell C. McRea, dean of the Wharton School; Ward W. Pierson, professor of commercial law; and Wendell P. Raine, instructor in the Wharton School. T. J. S. Kishpaugh, chairman of the social committee of the school, presided.

Special mention was made by all the university men during the evening of the organization work done in this city by the Rotary Club. "Had it not been for the personal work of the members of the Harrisburg Rotary Club," declared the provost, "the Harrisburg extension school never would have been put on its feet. It is this live-wire group who must chiefly thank for the success of the local branch."

Special mention was made of the constructive work done individually by Dr. Shope whose booklet "Carrying a University to the People," has been given State-wide distribution by the university authorities.

STORY RITEN

By the Messenger Boy

What I object to most about this story ritten is the alarm clock which goes off at 5:15 a. m. because the editor ordered the clock to be set in the office at 7 o'clock for to set it up and read proof, and I have to rite the thing in the morning because I think it up at bed; who is all a lie about the editor wantin' to see it at 7 o'clock because he don't get there before 8:30 as he is lazy and stays in bed till daylight. If this keeps up three years I don't know where I'll be by that time, but I guess I'll continue because time and patience'll take a snail to Jerusalem, so Ikey Snicklefritz says that works over at the soda fountain; and I want to learn to be a reporter by practicin' every day for three years.

An alarm clock going off in the middle of a dream is a mean thing for anybody and the only way to get over it is to set the thing ten minutes ahead of the time to get up and then you can lie there and half snooze a while longer and think mean things about the alarm clock and not havin' to listen to it. The only thing is that sometimes when you're doing that you go off to sleep again and get in trouble with the boss for not bein' there on time which is troublesome if kept up too often.

CULTURE

Culture looks beyond machinery, culture hates hatred; culture has one great passion—the passion for sweetness and light. It has one even yet greater, the passion for making them all prevail. It is not satisfied till we all come to a perfect man; it knows that the sweetness and light of the few must be imperfect until the raw and unkindly masses of humanity are touched with sweetness and light.—Matthew Arnold.

GOVERNOR TAKES WEEK-END AWAY

Spending the Day at His Home in Germantown and Will Attend Club's Dinner

PREPARING THE BILLS

They Will Be Made Ready For Early Introduction; Big Rush For State Offices

Governor Brumbaugh is spending the week-end at his home in Philadelphia and with exception of a few heads of departments who are here working on reports or on legislative matters the State Capitol is showing its customary Saturday appearance. The Governor will not return to Harrisburg until Monday about noon when he will resume his consideration of legislation.

The Governor's office mailbag has been jammed with letters the last four or five days, applications for places by the hundreds having been made to him. These applications come from all parts of the State and their number has been a surprise even to people on Capitol Hill accustomed to the rush for places when an administration changes.

For the present it will be the plan of the Governor to spend his week-ends in Philadelphia except when he has other engagements. Secretary of the Commonwealth Cyrus E. Woods, who has taken a residence here, will remain here practically all of the time. While bills will be introduced in both houses of the legislature on Monday night, none of the administration measures will be ready. They are in the hands of Attorney General Brown and his staff who are going over them in advance of their submission to the Governor.

A big rush of prospective legislation is anticipated as the State Legislative Reference Bureau has been at work for weeks on the final drafts of bills sent to it by members. A number of appropriation bills are due to appear Monday. Chairman James F. Woodward, of the House appropriations committee, is already working on estimates of finances and studying the requests for money. Secretary A. B. Smith, of Steelton, who has served in that capacity for several sessions.

READY FOR PERSONAL WAR RELIEF CANVASS

of the unsettled business conditions, by supplying work and clothing to members of their families, and also be the means of the wounded and suffering in European hospitals and the war refugees.

Need Is Urgent. That the need is urgent is borne out by the experiences of some of the women workers who are earning a living through the medium of the work it offers. One woman came to the home relief department yesterday to ask for work. She had enough at home to maintain her own family, she said, but had added another little mouth to feed. A neighbor with six small children was about ready to give up in the struggle to make ends meet. No work and no credit was wrecking the little home.

"If I can make $2 a week this winter," said the generous-spirited woman, "I can keep this little one and so lighten the burden of that family." Of course she received the materials the sewing of which would permit her to do this kindly deed of mercy. Half an hour later another woman appeared with a similar request—that she be given enough work to allow her to aid a family next door, in which there was sickness and want. She, too, was given work. Throughout the entire city there are families which have been saved the mental discomfort resulting from becoming dependents upon organized charity. If the work is continued during the winter it will require liberal contributions from those in a position to give. The money stays at home. Goods used are bought of local merchants, are sewed into garments by needy women of the city who are paid for their work, and only the finished garments are sent away, after as many of them as are needed are given to the poor of this city.
