

WOMEN AND THEIR INTERESTS

Should Husbands Pay Divorced Wives Alimony

By ELIA WHEELER WILCOX
(Copyright, 1915, Star Company)

Charles L. Guy, of the New York Supreme Court, has come forth with a protest against giving divorced wives large alimonies. It is time some strong voice was raised in protest against this reflection upon dignified womanhood.

This subject of alimony should have been taken up by the suffragettes long ago, and an anti-alimony organization should have been formed by them. When a woman separates from her husband it is usually because she has ceased to care for him, ceased to respect him and ceased to feel confidence in his honor. How any woman can permit a man of whom she entertains such an opinion to pay her money is a question for "the emancipated" to answer.

When such a husband has left a child to be supported it is reasonable and right that he should do his part toward the maintenance of that child; but the majority of women receiving alimony to-day seem to be childless women, and Judge Guy makes many pertinent comments regarding these women as follows:

"In fixing permanent alimony it should be borne in mind that the husband, although guilty of grave misconduct, is still a human being. If he is to be made the producing machinery for the support of the woman who is no longer his wife and who gives nothing in return, he must be assessed so heavily as to deprive him of all incentive to go on living and producing. He must be accorded the means not only to go on living, but to find some enjoyment and compensation in life.

"If he has not this opportunity, if the burden placed upon him is too grievous to be borne, all the incentive to labor is gone. When alimony is excessive it is likely to defeat its own object. It is better for the divorced wife to be granted moderate alimony which will be paid than excessive alimony which probably will be avoided.

"Any adult person who receives benefits from another without wishing to return an equal value is guilty of larceny, whether such person be wife, child, husband, friend or stranger. Grafting is taking, without giving an honest equivalent. The woman and grown children of our well-to-do middle class furnish rather conspicuous examples to a certain class of officeholders."

And, again, he says:

"While the divorced husband still retains his right to find some enjoyment in life, the woman who divorced him must not expect to go on enjoying all the benefits that go with a happy and successful married life. She no longer performs any reciprocal duty, there is no obligation resting upon her as an equivalent for maintenance, therefore she is not entitled to be a luxurious charge upon the income of the man to whom she makes no return of any kind."

The wife who has been left an invalid through her husband's cruelty or vice, should be paid alimony until such time as she is able to support herself; and she should pray and work for that hour of emancipation from a degrading dependence.

For it is an undeniable degradation for any woman to be supported by a man she does not love, and whose companionship she cannot endure.

There is so much talk these days of woman's expansion and development and growth, and such continual demand is made for an enlargement of her sphere of action, that the world is justified in a critical survey of her conduct.

All about us may be seen women who are living on the money of divorced husbands, while they exploit themselves in the society of other men. The woman who is compelled to accept the money of a divorced husband in order to keep from starving, which would deprive her of the which demands the utmost dignity and circumspection.

She should be ashamed to appear in public with any man unless he is an avowed suitor for her willing hand; and then that hand should refuse to close over another man's money.

But we even find women fighting for the continuance of alimony of one husband, while planning marriage with another.

Surely such things lower woman's status, and render her despicable in the eyes of the right thinking.

Let our suffragists take this matter up and elevate the ideals of woman-kind.

Ship Purchase Bill Gets First Republican Support

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—The Government ship purchase bill received its first support from the Republican side to-day, when Senator Norris, of Nebraska, declared the plan appealed strongly to him, and that if that amendment he had offered were adopted, he would vote for the bill.

The proposed bill would continue the Government's lines it established became profitable.

"We should let the taxpayer share the profits and bear the losses of any of these ventures," he added.

The second amendment, Senator Norris said, would provide that no belligerent nation could share in the profits unless a diplomatic understanding had been reached which would justify the ability of international complications.

"The American people should be able to purchase ships at a profit," he said.

Because of the double distinction of guiding through the mine fields and of bringing the mine flag into Bremen harbor for the first time for years aboard a merchant vessel, Captain Pinchin was joyfully entertained, he said, during his stay in Bremen.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get At the Real Cause — Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, there goes indigestion and stomach troubles, mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At the end of the first box, you will have access to practically every pulp in America, and their recommendations are followed by most pastors.

Beauty and Health In Nature's Choicest Fruits

World-famous athletes use grapefruit freely in their strenuous training work. There could be no better testimony to the wonderful tonic qualities of the fruit. The juice cools the blood and has properties that improve digestion and aid the appetite. Physicians recommend ripe grapefruit to patients—medical journals devote large space to its health-giving qualities.

In an article recently published, "How to Defeat Old Age," written by Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the beautiful singer, there was contained the following: "If I could obtain only one sort of fruit, it should be oranges. Yet much as I believe in the youth-producing and beauty-making power of oranges, I seldom eat a whole one. I suck all the juice and eat but little pulp."

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, apostle of pure food, some years ago said: "Eat oranges—eat them all the time—as many as you can get." Last spring Dr. Wiley made this statement: "I eat Florida oranges every day and that shows that I think they are best. I have frequently been quoted recommending Florida oranges and advising people that they could not find a healthier food."

Grown in Florida's Golden Sunshine, Packed by White-Gloved Workers

The climate and soil of Florida combine to produce oranges and grapefruit of surpassing quality—juicy, sweet and altogether delicious. This quality is obtained only in tree-ripened fruit; immature oranges and grapefruit are of little merit.

The Florida Citrus Exchange, a co-operative, non-profit-making association, believes that whatever is good for the consumer of oranges and grapefruit is equally desirable for the growers. Its name and trade-mark—in red on boxes and wrappers—is this:

Up-to-date grocery and fruit stores generally carry Florida Citrus Exchange fruit. Your dealer will get it for you if you insist that he do so. Look for the red mark of the Exchange on boxes and wrappers.

College Leaders Take Advance Step in Religious Work

Christian Activities of Churches and Y. M. C. A. in Higher Institutions of Learning to Be Co-ordinated

(By The Religious Rambler.)

DEVELOPMENTS that really count in the religious life of America are not usually the ones that make most noise upon their appearance. Quietly, and without public notice, there assembled in Chicago a few days ago four conferences having to do with higher education and religion; and the actions taken are intended to affect deeply and widely the educational and religious life of the nation.

Five definite results of these related gatherings may be stated. The first is a nation-wide campaign by the leading denominations to arouse the churches to the present critical condition of the cause of Christian education. The second is an agreement between the international Young Men's Christian Association and the denominational leaders that will coordinate these two agencies in their efforts to bring about a more united front in the higher institutions of learning.

The third is the standardization of Christian colleges, so that no institution can claim public support as a college until it meets certain uniform requirements. The fourth is the launching of a new campaign, on an educational basis, for the introduction of the Bible into the public schools, and the adoption of a book of Bible selections for this purpose. The fifth is the organization of a union of Presbyterian college presidents.

The Presbyterian presence in the one place of so many leaders in various forms of Christian education visualized the many agencies that are always quietly at work creating and strengthening the moral and religious life of the land. Some of the most fundamental of national questions never get into the newspapers. Thesen of great value were represented in the council of the church boards of education, the most important of the Chicago meetings.

Most of the State universities were represented in the conference of church workers in State universities. These comprised both Young Men's Christian Association officials and student leaders.

College presidents to the number of nearly two hundred formed an Association of American Colleges. The Presbyterian college Union was organized at the same time. The heads of institutions belonging to that denomination. They signified their entrance into the educational world by their own direction, designed to meet the objections to the use of the Bible in public schools. It is called "Bible Stories and Poems" and is made up exclusively of Old Testament selections, with appropriate psalms following historical episodes.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wynth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wynth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.—Advertisement.

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."

—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 1568 Constant St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."

—Mrs. ADA WILT, 303 Walnut St., Hanover, Pa.

If there are any complications you do not understand, write to Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

4 Cans of Ashes Less

An institution in this city had been using a certain grade of buckwheat coal in its steam heating plant, and daily cans of ashes were taken from the furnace.

Then Kelley's Nanticoke Buckwheat was tried with the result that only 6 cans of ashes had to be removed.

This demonstrates the superior heating efficiency of Kelley's Buckwheat — more heat and less ashes because it's all pure coal.
