Any person who invests his means in the liquor business does so at his own risk, as the license is only granted for a year. The courts of Pennsylvania have all said this.

Is there any reason why this court should now reopen and readjudicate a matter which it had already adjudicated for a year?

Before noon a large party of secret service officers arrived here from Montreal. Their business was to establish that Van Horn had deliberately caused damage to a railroad and so committed an offense which is extraditable under the treaty between the United States and Canada. At the same time the question whether Van Horn was a criminal or political offender was to be made the subject of exchanges between Ottawa and Washington.

Every Effort Being Exercised to Win Back Revolting Democrats in Senate

By Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 3.—When the Senate met to-day to again consider the government ship purchase bill the Republican Senators were on the quivive regarding the plans of the administration's Senators by which they propose to break down the opposition to the measure. But the Democrats still were refusing to show their hand. They had pledged themselves to se-crecy at a party caucus last night in order that their program be not frus-trated.

In addition to parliamentary maneuvers designed to win support of the bill to offset the Democratic revolt of last Monday, it is understood that the program includes the amending of the bill to meet the suggestions from various quarters during the past few days.

Senator Fletcher, in charge of the measure, is ready when the pending motion to recommit the bill is brought up, to move as an amendment that the committee report back within 48 hours with amendments. These amendments would not commit the government to a permanent policy in the proposed shipping enterprise and a time limit of either 18 months or two years would be fixed for the undertaking. Upon these amendments administration Democrats hope to bring back into line the Democrats who revolted rather than the support of the progressive Republicans.

GERMAN RAIDER SUNK WHEN AIRSHIP FOUND HER HIDING

The dramatic story of the sinking of the German raider Koenigsberg, on the coast of east Africa, has juust been told by Captain Willett of the British merchant ship Newbridge. The Koenigsberg, which was a light cruiser of about the same class as the Emden. Dresden and Karlsruhe, mounting only 4.1-inch guns, was in company with a smaller German ship when chased by the British squadron, which included, it is believed, several armored cruisers of the County class. The smaller ship was sunk, but the Koenigsberg succeeded in getting behind the Mafia Islands and some distance up the river, where she was completely screened by the bend of the river, and where the British heavier draft ships could not follow her. They also, it appears, landed a detachment who mounted some lightguns on the bank as a defense against attack by a British boat expedition. The British, however, contented themselves with bottling up the Koenigsberg by sinking Captain Willett's ship in the channel. They then waited for the arrival of a seaplane, which flew up the river and indicated the position of the German cruiser by dropping smoke bombs. The Germans had hidden their ship close to the bank under cover of some palm groves and had covered her with foliage. The aviator, however was able to make her out and to direct the fire of the British ships so accurately by signals that the cruiser was completely destroyed.

Damages Will Allow Settlements to Be Made Conveniently

Within two weeks City Solicitor D. S. Seitz will apply to the Dauphin County Court for the appointment of a board of viewers to assess benefits and damages incident to the taking over by the city of the properties on the west side of Front street between Calder and Herr streets—the "Hardscrabble" district—in the formal opening of Front street to low water line.

opening of Front street to low water line.

Council, in accordance with Mr. Seitz's suggestion yesterday afternoon, authorized the solicitor to take this step. By authorizing views to go to work now the question of benefits and damages can be threshed out without requiring the owners of the properties or the tenants affected to vacate. Incidentally, as soon as the amounts are determined upon, the damaged owners can obtain judgment against the city for the sums in question and can readily turn this into cash or assign it to any bank. Thus it will be unnecessary for the affected property owner to give up his home at once, and even though properly protected by bond, wait for a year or more, perhaps, until the question of appeal is settled in the courts.

The money to cover the proposed damages is not available and in order to cover it the city will have to float a bond issue. However, the question of a new loan need not necessarily be placed before the people at the polls, as the city is still within its borrowing limit to the extent of half a million or more. So Council could authorize the floating of a considerable amount of bonds without asking the people's direct consent by vote.
