WHITTED TELLS WHY HE PREFERS BRAVES

Wants More Cash and Believes Boston Will Again Win the Pennant

Special to The Telegraph. New York, Feb. 3.—Time does not seem to obliterate any of the difficulties of William F. Baker in his effort to get from the Boston champions player considerations for the services of Sherwood Magee. The president of the Phillies was closeted with James E. Gaffney and George Whitted for several hours yesterday. Whitted refused to tolerate a transfer to the Quakers. "I appreciate," said Whitted, "that I am not a star. I have worked hard to advance in my chosen profession. In Boston finally I was able to establish myself in the esteem of fandom as a regular. I am not sure that I would earn kindred distinction in Philadelphia. Then, of course, also there is the question of remuneration. With Magee added to the Braves I heartily believe George Stallings is assured of another championship team. "Naturally enough," Whitted continued, "I would prefer to be with a champion club. The world's series pool means a lot to the lucky player, and I consider myself as having been lucky to be with the Braves last year. It is because of this that I would not consent to a transfer to Philadelphia save for an increase in salary that would represent the winning share of the world's series pot."

Catcher James Archer, Cub Star, Hopes To Make Up For Lost Time

"Squatting" Jimmie Archer, the star catcher of the Chicago Cubs, will be back in the game stronger than ever this season. Archer met with an accident last year and was out of the game for sometime. On his return he failed to show his usual form until near the close. His loss to Chicago was felt but the popular backstop now wants to make up for lost time. Archer was injured in a game with Brooklyn. He made a dive after a passed ball and strained the muscles of his throwing arm.

BIG SCHOLASTIC GAME THIS WEEK; CENTRAL HIGH VS. WILLIAMSPORT

Billtowners Put One Over on Locals Last Month; Must Square Things in Friday Night's Contest

One big scholastic game on this week's schedule will be played Friday night at Chestnut street auditorium, between Central high and Williamsport high. Central will undoubtedly show much better form than was shown at Williamsport January 15, when the Billtowners won. Steelton high plays here February 19, and Tech meets Central early in March. The game Friday night with Williamsport promises much interest, and indications point to a large crowd. Tech high will go to Middletown for a return game with Middletown high. Tech's line-up will be the same that met Middletown last week. This game is of importance in view of the fact that Tech cannot afford to lose any contests from now until the close of the season, if they want to keep in the race with Middletown. Graystock will be the attraction at Chestnut street auditorium Saturday night, and while they are tallenders in the Eastern League, the Harrisburg Independents are in for a hard battle. Horace Geisel, who has been out of the game with injuries, will be back. On the Graystock team are two sensational goal shooters.

Flees From Dying Wife, "Movie" School and Debts

Denver, Col., Feb. 3.—Bert V. Brookhart, of Reading, Pa., one-time member of the Sotheby-Lowe Shakespearean Company and until recently manager of the La France's Photoplay Manufacturing Company, has fled to Denver. He left his wife, a victim of tuberculosis, sixty-seven students of "movie" acting, numerous creditors and a civil suit for $500, in which a stockholder of his company declares Brookhart induced him to invest on the strength of false pretenses. Brookhart, who has lived at different times in Reading, New York, Jacksonville, Omaha, and St. Antonio, has been missing since Thursday. The district attorney's office has begun a search for him. Brookhart, a man of brilliant power, came here last September, apparently seeking to benefit his wife's health. October 19 he opened a studio for training moving picture actors and actresses. One month later, according to Herman Betzler, Brookhart induced him to invest $500 and elected him secretary of his company, which, he said, was capitalized at $100,000. Last Wednesday night Brookhart summoned his pupils and told them he would give them a surprise next day. He did—by vanishing. Among the pupils is said to have been Fay King, cartoonist and wife of the late Nelson. Each of these pupils paid him $2 per week. S. R. Cleaver, a motion picture man, said Brookhart outlined a scheme to fleece local investors and skip. Miss Mildred Butterfield, ex-assistant director, said Brookhart admitted to her he was duping his students and that he pretended to "film" them in pictures with a photographic machine innocent of film.

WHITE; WOULD WED NEGRO

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 3.—Register H. H. Seltzer stood aghast at his desk this morning when Malva Warich, a white girl, aged 21, approached him and asked for a license to marry "Bill" Hill, a negro, aged 35, who accompanied her. The father of the girl was also present and said he approved of the marriage. Register Seltzer refused to issue the license and the couple secured the assistance of several lawyers, who visited Register Seltzer, but did not succeed in swerving him. The father of the girl lives at Tremont, in the west end of the county, and expressed his indignation in loud words that he had lost a day's work. Public sentiment sustains Register Seltzer. One of the county judges who was consulted about tying the knot expressed his opinion that a recent United States statute prohibits such marriages.
