The response which they have accorded us has been the great factor in making possible the enviable growth the business has enjoyed.

To show, in a measure, our appreciation of their good will, we will conduct during February a "Twenty-fifth Anniversary Sale."

In this event we shall offer merchandise at prices which we doubt we will ever be able to quote again.

Manufacturers, in recognition of the occasion, have favored us, so that we, in turn, might make the event most alluring to you.

Whether you be one of those who have contributed to our success of the past, or one of those who have not yet learned the economy of buying at this uptown store, makes no difference.

Whoever you are, we invite you to share in the benefits of this 25th Anniversary Sale, which we will try to make as eventful to you as it is to us.

Does "Billy" Sunday Symbolize A National Religious Awakening?

Really Continent-wide Interest in Sensational Evangelist's Philadelphia Meetings; Even Echoes Overseas

(By The Religious Rambler.)

THE facts of the "Billy" Sunday revival in Philadelphia have been printed throughout the land as sensational news; but the underlying significance of the facts is still more noteworthy as news.

The two score thousand persons who daily crowd into the tabernacle, most of them having come hours before the advertised time of opening, are as interesting as the unconventional evangelist himself; but, of more importance than either or both, is the really nation-wide solicitude over the question of religion.

There is a widespread belief among Christians that "Billy" Sunday's Philadelphia campaign is the point at which the fire is breaking out that will sweep the prairie.

As a mere narrative of fact there is mighty meaning in the deputations which have visited Sunday at Philadelphia from New York City, Boston, Washington, Richmond, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Duluth, Minneapolis, and many other cities, asking him to conduct meetings for them.

Individuals and deputations from as far south as Florida and from beyond the Mississippi have traveled all the way to Philadelphia for the single and express purpose of hearing "Billy" Sunday and witnessing his meetings.

Such a widespread concern for the things of religion is highly illuminating.

The religious press of the land is featuring the "Billy" Sunday meetings so that they have become the one uppermost theme of interest in strictly religious circles.

Not only have the metropolitan dailies of the land printed special articles upon "Billy" Sunday and his meetings, but the great magazines which have taken him up, although their articles cannot be printed for a couple of months yet.

All this has given old Philadelphia, which William Penn founded as "a holy experiment," a sort and amount of advertising which city boosters could not have procured by any method or amount of money.

Gospelizing by the Press

Most of the weekly newspapers of Philadelphia have published the Sunday sermons in full, daily, since the beginning of the campaign. In addition their extended reports of the meetings have been sympathetic and skillful. This is unprecedented publicity for religion. Strikingly, Sunday does not employ a press agent, and all the newspaper space that is devoted to his work is entirely outside of his own planning.

Instances are already cropping up of persons converted simply by reading the newspaper reports of the sermons. An entire family of non-church goers presented itself to a United Presbyterian Church in an outlying part of Philadelphia. "Billy" has not them, though none had been near his meetings. I know a manufacturer, a clubman and "man about town," whose liquor chest in his office has been visited for days, all because of the reports of the Sunday sermons. Now he has gone to the meetings, and his friends say he will surely "hit the trail."

Literally millions of persons every day are reading the primitive gospel message, decked out in modern linguistic clothes, as "Billy" Sunday presents it. The united churches of Philadelphia have not money enough to buy this publicity. The great publication societies of the denominations, or the American Tract Society, of the American Sunday School Union, despite their huge funds and organization, do not reach so many persons, and so compellingly, as does the "Billy" Sunday story through the secular press.

Breaking the Crust

The thickly encrusted shell of the average person's apparent indifference to religion has been cracked by this unconventional instrument, whose success is setting many persons to quoting the Scripture passage: "God close the foolish things of the world, that he might put to shame them that are wise; and God chose the weak things of the world, that he might put to shame the things that are strong." Without respect to station or training, people have become interested in "Billy" Sunday. The proportion of those who show antagonism is surprisingly small.

That religion is for all levels of society, and that the Lord does not inquire about one's ancestors or bank account before having personal dealings with him, has been made plain through the occasion of the Sunday meetings. "Billy" has conducted morning meetings in some of the most exclusive homes in Philadelphia. One morning he was with the Biddies and their friends; the next he was in the penitentiary; in both cases speaking the vocabulary of his hearers. The most democratic spot in Philadelphia is the turtle-backed tabernacle on Logan Square, a few steps from the Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Of the multitude of incidental aspects of the Sunday campaign has been the friendliness shown him by the Catholics. I know of instances where parish priests have extolled the work of Sunday, and have advised their members to hear him. There are always a percentage of Catholics in the tabernacle congregations, and I have seen priests there.

In addition to this friendliness between the major divisions of Christendom, there has been unparalleled cooperation among the local Protestant churches. Aside from the clever efforts of the three Unitarian churches to capitalize Sunday's antagonism to their teachings, there has been an extraordinary solidarity of church sentiment behind the evangelist, even the crust of parochialism has been broken—and that is ordinarily as difficult to crack as the indifference of the men outside of the church. The fact that the firemen and policemen are on duty at the tabernacle as "hitting the trail" is no more remarkable than that dignified pastors and laymen are doing personal work out among the congregation.

Is a World-wide Revival Here?

From every land come tidings of strange religious stirrings. The Sherwood Eddy meetings in China were strikingly like the Sunday meetings in popular interest. All the combatant nations in the great war report a quickened interest in spiritual affairs that in some places amount to a revival. The issues of life and death have also brought to the fore those other allied issues of human character and destiny.

Several omissions from Great Britain have besought Sunday to conduct a campaign in their country. These added to the hundreds which have been received from American communities, would keep him busy for the rest of his life, were he to accept them all. But they reveal a general spiritual attitude which is a surer symptom of a general revival of religion than any success, however spectacular, that may attend upon one man's preaching. In the last analysis "Billy" Sunday is only a symptom and a sign.

Mothers Tell of Mother's Friend

Experience is or should be our best teacher. Women who have obeyed the highest and noblest of all sacrifices, the struggle for the life of others, should have a better idea of helpful influence than those who theorize from observation. At any rate when a prospective grandmother urges her daughter to do as she did—to use "Mother's Friend," there is reason to believe it is right advice.

"Mother's Friend" is an external application for expectant mothers. Its purpose is to furnish pliancy to the muscles, to take away the strain on the cords and ligaments, to relieve the tension of nerves and tendons so apt to provoke or aggravate nausea, morning sickness, twinges of the limbs and so on.

Although in the nature of things, a woman would use "Mother's Friend" but rarely, yet so effective has it been found that this splendid remedy is on sale in most drug stores throughout the United States. It has been prepared by Bradford Regulator Co., 408 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and advertised by us for over forty years. This is a fine record for such a special remedy and the grateful letters received to-day are just as appreciative as were those of years ago notwithstanding that methods are supposed to have greatly advanced. Ask at the drug store for a bottle of "Mother's Friend." It is worth while.
