Committee Approves Football Changes

Contrary to expectations, the football committee on Saturday placed its approval on rule changes. The alterations include: Forward pass out of bounds is incomplete whether or not it strikes player. This applies to any down. There can be no substitution except at the start of a quarter and only one substitution. Running into fullback punting to result in a 15-yard penalty. Roughing fullback punting, 15-yard penalty and immediate disqualification. Rules committee recommends numbering of players. Last year the rules committee left this optional. Deprecating the substitution of players to convey information from the sidelines. Unsportsmanlike condition to result in 15-yard penalty, and if flagrant, immediate disqualification of player or players. Ten-yard penalty for running into player after the whistle has been blown. Center must make his pass one continuous motion and let go of the ball. Fifteen-yard penalty for throwing legs and striking with low legs an opponent above the knees (striking below knees is now covered by the tripping rule). List of approved rulings added to rule book, as precedents for officials to guide them in their decisions. Four officials to act in all games, namely, referee, umpire, field judge and linesman. Field judge to act as timekeeper. When forward pass is touched by one eligible man, and then caught by another, it shall be an incomplete forward pass, and no penalty shall result. Position of feet to determine whether forward pass is in bounds or out of bounds. Substitute must report immediately to officials on entering game.
