

MRS. WILLIAMS' LONG SICKNESS

Yields To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

EYE GLASS PRICES ADVANCE

War and Increased Size of Lenses are Given as Cause

New York, Feb. 2.—The largest advance in price of eye glasses and spectacles ever made at one time, it is said, is announced in price lists issued today by manufacturers. The amount of the increase which is on lenses, is estimated at from 25 to 50 per cent. About 10,000,000 people in the United States use glasses.

In the absence of an explanation by the manufacturers for the advance, local wholesalers state that the war is the chief cause. Opticians cite changes in the labor laws, manufacturers being forced to employ men for work formerly done by girls. The opticians also assert that fashions in eye glasses, which recently have decreed that large lenses shall be worn, are responsible for increased cost of manufacture.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

THE MASTER KEY

By John Fleming Wilson

By special arrangement for this paper a photo-drama corresponding to the installments of "The Master Key" may now be seen at the leading moving picture theaters. By arrangement made with the Universal Film Manufacturing company it is not only possible to read "The Master Key" in this paper, but also afterward to see moving pictures of our story.

COPYRIGHT, 1914, BY JOHN FLEMING WILSON

He was as formal in many ways as a clock. In others he could amaze the most impulsive and impressionable adventurer.

When he first met Ruth he had had not the faintest notion of wooing her. His admiration had been frank and unreserved, but without any underlying depth of feeling.

His volunteering to join John Dorr and Ruth in this wild search for the missing idol had been what he called a lark.

It was only long association with her, the constant view of her pretty innocence and an occasional glimpse of her profounder and womanly nature that had touched his heart and awakened in him feelings that he had refrained from confessing to himself.

Then came the moment when she had turned to him for help and he had been the single person in the world who could save John Dorr.

Sharp and brief as had been the struggle in his own mind, it had brought him to an acknowledgment of the fact that she was the only woman he wanted for his wife.

On the very tick of her hour of trouble he had ventured to ask his reward for service.

She had promised, and now he, baronet and retired officer of the British army, shook like a boy at the thought of the happiness that awaited him.

They met at breakfast. Dorr still showing the effects of his night's adventures, Ruth bright-eyed from want of sleep and Sir Donald alone presenting the appearance of one who had begun the day aright after a sound night's rest.

Their natural topic of conversation was of Dorr's attempt to capture the idol and Sir Donald's rescue of him.

John could give little satisfaction to Ruth's minute inquiries, and the Englishman confessed that he himself, though much more familiar with the native ways and native temples, had not much notion of exactly how it had all come about nor how he had found Dorr and extricated him.

"The only thing I gather from it all is this," he said amiably. "You had better take my advice in this country and not try to perform any of your western feats. India is a very old country, and they resent here anything that doesn't follow the good old lines."

"I suppose I was very foolish," John confessed ruefully. "But when I saw that image right within reach I simply couldn't resist the temptation to grab it and try to escape."

Sir Donald looked at Ruth meaningly. "I can't say that I'm a bit sorry, old chap," he told Dorr. "After all, as you say, it's an ill wind that blows no one any good."

Instantly Ruth caught his meaning, and her eyes fell. Yes, she had promised, and this brave gentleman who had risked his life for her sake should not be without his reward.

But—she stared miserably at her plate until John rallied her and swore that he would yet get the plans.

"And here comes the fellow who will tell us what really did happen," Sir Donald remarked, pointing to a much bedraggled native who had entered the compound and was evidently waiting for some one.

"That's my old servant," he continued. "If you will excuse me I'll go and hear what he has to tell us."

Ruth and John watched the two of them for some time, the tall, carefully dressed Englishman and the dirty native.

They could see that the latter was much excited, and toward the last Sir Donald himself seemed to lose a little of his aplomb.

Finally they saw him nod curtly to the native, who squatted down on the pavement. A moment later he had rejoined them. His usually placid face bore an expression of anxiety.

"What can be the matter?" demanded Ruth.

"Not anything for you to worry about," replied Faversham. "I'm sure I can arrange everything presently;

but you certainly stirred up the priests, Dorr."

"Well, what do they intend to do?" inquired John, undisturbed, except that he did not understand a glance exchanged by Ruth and Sir Donald.

"It seems they have started a kind of holy war against us," the baronet answered grimly. "You desecrated their idols and they've excited a lot of the people against you and—"

"And what?" demanded John impatiently.

With a meaning look toward Ruth, Sir Donald faced Dorr. "This is not a place for Miss Gallon," he said formally.

She impulsively turned to John.

"The truth of the matter is, we are known to be stopping here and the mob will undoubtedly visit us shortly."

"But the police?"

Sir Donald looked very uncomfortable indeed. "My dear fellow, don't you realize that what you and I did last night was purely and simply indefensible? We tried to rob a temple, to be frank about it."

"I tried to recover some papers belonging to us," he protested.

"We would have a stiff time trying to prove that to the officials here," was the reply. "As a matter of fact, I can't afford to bring this up. I'm still practically an officer and I should have a deuce of a time clearing myself. You can't afford to call in the police because you're an American, and you broke British law, and I very much fear killed a British subject or two."

"I see," Dorr assented thoughtfully. "But what are we to do?"

"Precisely, precisely the question," said Sir Donald. "You and I could slip away, but there is the young lady to consider."

"And the plans," said John doggedly. Sir Donald flushed angrily. "I am considering the young lady in this matter."

"And I, as her guardian, have to think of her best interests," was the retort.

Faversham tugged at his mustache in perplexity. Then he said quietly, "I think Miss Gallon has really put her interests in my charge."

"What—what do you mean?" stammered Dorr.

At this moment there came from the street outside the sound of cries and yells and tramping feet. The two men looked at each other. With one accord they withdrew inside the hall-way.

"That's the mob coming!" Sir Donald said hoarsely. "Now for it!"

"We must save Ruth at all events!" "Certainly," said Faversham coldly. "But I must plan quickly. Ah, here comes my faithful Achmet!"

The servant spoke rapidly in the vernacular, and Sir Donald answered in the same tongue. Then he turned to John.

"Bring Miss Gallon here quickly," he commanded. "Don't alarm her needlessly."

Ruth responded to the summons without a tremor, and when a few hurried words had informed her of what was afoot she turned to the Englishman and said simply, "What shall we do?"

"I am going to put you in charge of my old servant Achmet," he told her. "I trust him, and he will see you safe. Dorr and I shall have to go a separate way."

By this time the mob had filled the street without and was yelling for vengeance on the sacrilegious white men, punctuating its demands with an occasional stone against the wall.

AMERICANS MAY SUPERVISE DETENTION CAMPS IN EUROPE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Officials and diplomats here were awaiting to-day development of the proposed American supervision of detention camps in all of the warring European countries.

At least one of the belligerent powers has taken the initiative in pressing this proposal, and it is believed here that if the efforts of Austro-Hungary to obtain a satisfactory answer from Russia to the repeated requests for admission of neutral relief expeditions into Siberia are successful, unanimous approval of general American supervision would follow.

ORDER MINISTER FROM MEXICO

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Administration officials and diplomats awaited with some anxiety to-day developments which they feared might follow General Vanustiano Carranza's expulsion of the Spanish minister, Jose Coro, from Mexico. The minister was believed to be on his way to Vera Cruz after having been ordered out of Mexico for alleged harboring of Angel De Caso, a Spanish subject, accused of aiding General Villa.

Let the "Kiddies" Have Plenty of Florida Oranges and Grapefruit

The juice of tree-ripened Florida citrus fruits is both food and drink for growing children. It can be given freely, even to very young boys and girls. The juice of Florida oranges and grapefruit will refresh the child when lesson-weary without endangering the digestion. In children's homes, hospitals and sanitariums Florida orange juice and grapefruit are recommended by physicians as the most easily digested and wholesome refreshment for most patients.

Citrus fruit grown in Florida surpasses in every good quality—it is fragrant, juicy, spicy, sweet and strength-giving. Grown in the life-giving sun of the semi-tropics, tempered by the gentle winds of the Gulf, filled almost to bursting by the summer showers which come just at the right time, covered in the morning by jeweled dew drops and mellowed in the evening by the golden light of many harvest moons—Florida oranges and grapefruit are food and drink truly fit for all the family—men, women and children.

Food for the Whole Family Buy Only Ripe Citrus Fruits

Florida oranges and grapefruit are food and drink for the whole family. Citrus fruits equally are good for the most delicate child and the strongest man. Keep Florida oranges and grapefruit in your home all the time—buy them by the box. Eat them and drink them—at breakfast, luncheon and dinner. They will give all your folks brain and body energy and save doctor's bills.

Only tree-ripened oranges and grapefruit are fit to eat. When the fruit is picked before fully ripe, it lacks in flavor, juice and sweetness. Progressive Florida growers operate in a non-profit making co-operative body for the mutual protection of producers and consumers of citrus fruits. This organization ships only tree-ripened oranges and grapefruit. When you buy these fruits look for its mark in red on boxes and wrappers:

Drink the Juice of These Real Florida Oranges

Eat These Grapefruit—Nature's Favorite Tonic

No country in the world can produce oranges so spicy, so sweet, so juicy, so fragrant, so strength-giving as Florida. No other country can grow such grapefruit, with its texture of pulp and rind, its richness of flavor, its delicious juice. No country has the climate—that is why: Florida seems to have been ordained by Providence as the natural home of citrus fruits. Ponce de Leon and his staff brought with them over the seas and left in Florida, when seeking the fountain of youth, the source of that which has most nearly given to the world the object of their quest. The seeds of the oranges and grapefruit, so long ago brought from Spain in these fruits are now furnishing health not only to those who live in Florida, but blood-sunshine all the year round to those bound by the snow and ice or enervated by the heat of the North.

Oranges and grapefruit are both food and drink. They have many uses in cookery and for condiments. Booklet telling numerous ways of serving them and giving many recipes for their use mailed for 4 cents in stamps. Address, Florida Citrus Exchange, 625 Citizens Bank Building, Tampa, Florida.
