INSPECTION PLAN FOR ALL ELEVATORS

Biddleman Bill Would Establish a Branch of State Government to Have Charge

A State bureau of elevator inspection, to be operative in all parts of the State except the first class cities, is proposed by a bill introduced in the Senate at its session last night by Mr. Biddleman, Dauphin. It creates the office of chief inspector, to be named by the Governor at $5,000 salary and other officers, including an assistant, at $3,000, computer and clerks. No elevator may be erected without a certificate from this bureau, which is given wide powers. Mr. Biddleman also presented a bill making counties liable for costs when defendant is committed to prison in default of fine and costs.

Other bills presented were: Mr. Snyder, Schuylkill—Authorizing counties to sell lands bought at treasurer's sale to the State Forestry Department.

Mr. Martin, Cumberland—Appropriating $55,000 for purchase of land and construction of buildings for the State institution for inebriates.

Mr. Crow, Fayette—The State College appropriation bill.

Mr. Burke, Allegheny—Establishing miners' examining boards for bituminous coal miners and providing for certificates of competency.

Mr. Miller, Clearfield—Appropriating $160,000 for educational extension work of State College and the summer school for teachers, $80,000 of which is to meet congressional requirement for extension work in agriculture and home economics.

Mr. McConnell, Northumberland—Making it lawful to use seal baskets between August 15 and December 14.

Mr. Smith, Philadelphia, introduced a bill to provide for retirement of State employees who may become physically or mentally disabled on half pay for life provided they have been in State service twenty-five years or reached 70 years of age and served the State for twenty years. The retirement is to be made by the Governor on "satisfactory medical evidence."

Bills reported out included: Authorizing cities of the third class to sell water under their limits. Regulating display of goods in a sanitary manner. The Allegheny county sheriff's fees.

ANTI-CIGARET IS AGAIN TO THE FORE

Judge Brown Has a Bill Prepared Which Will Make Enforcement Easier Matter

Although a law which forbids the sale of cigarettes or cigaret paper to minors was enacted at the legislative session of 1913, it has been found hard to inflict punishment on dealers or other persons who broke this law, and consequently it is said minors have been getting cigarettes from dealers who would take chances.

Juvenile welfare associations and court authorities have been anxious to vigorously enforce this anticigaret law. Therefore they have had an amendment framed to the act of 1913. This amendment was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Leberec Stern, at the request of President Judge Charles L. Brown, of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia.

The act of 1913 provides a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $200. The amendment reduces the fine to not less than $5 and not more than $25 for each offense and, in default of payment of the fine, provides that the violator can be imprisoned in

INSURANCE STUDY FOR LEGISLATURE

Baldwin Commission Finds That There Are Some Reckless Fire Insurance Companies

Combinations of insurance companies are declared in the report filed with the Legislature last night by the State commission to investigate methods of fire insurance companies, to be in "accordance with a wise public policy, are necessary to the solvency of the insurance companies and are beneficial to the public." The commission was named last year in accordance with an act of 1913 and consisted of Senator William E. Crow, Representative R. J. Baldwin and R. S. Frey, Joseph S. Alexander and Frank McCann. It held hearings throughout the State, inquiring into the practices of fire insurance companies, especially in rating, and its report is voluminous review of insurance in the State.

Among the conclusions adduced from the testimony are that there are some matters caused by reckless companies which require legislative action. It is stated that there is no legal standard policy in the State and that uniformity and standardization of contract are of great value to the insured. It is stated that the fire marshal's department of the State government will be instrumental in forcing a marked decrease in the burning ratio of the State and will prove a benefit to the people at large.

The amendments proposed to the act creating the department are commended.

Commissions are declared to be the largest item of expense and in the opinion of the commission "could be reduced so as to make a very substantial saving to the companies and yet not mean discouragement to legitimate agent or underwriter. State rating would be a very expensive proposition to undertake, says the report and State insurance is declared impractical.

The commission concludes that while the great majority of companies combinations and boards are not organized against the public, there are some companies which do not adhere to their own rules and depart from the rates of their associations. If the public was fully informed on fire insurance and the means of closing there would be criticism.

Acts to bring about changes in various features of insurance are suggested. The county jail one day for each dollar of the fine.

The point of the amendment which will make the dealers most cautious, however, and which will enable the guardians of the welfare of juvenile population to bring quick and summary action against any violators is the provision that prosecution may be brought before any alderman, magistrate or justice of the peace.

The Children's Aid Society, the Society for the Protection of Children from Cruelty, the Court Aid Society, the officials and probation officers of the juvenile court are very much interested in Representative Stern's bill, and, if it is amended, intend seeing that vigilant watch and summary action seals up the sources of supply from which youngsters secure cigarettes and cigaret papers. The act amendment was drawn up by Charles T. Walker, of Philadelphia, at the request of Judge Brown.

SKUNKS GIVEN LAW FOR THEIR SAFETY

Body Bill Would Also Provide a Closed Season For Muskrats in the State

STATE COLLEGE'S BILLS

Measures Still Appear in the House Calling For All Manner of Things

Bills providing closed seasons for hunting skunks and muskrats were introduced in the House last night by Mr. Body, Berks. Skunks may not be hunted between February 15 and November 15 and muskrats are protected between March 1 and November 15. The acts prohibit smoking out of the animals at any time.

The bill to create a new county out of parts of Luzerne and Schuylkill was negatively reported by the committee on counties and townships. Colonel Bill Adams said times were not propitious for the bill and made a strategic retreat.

The State College appropriation bill, carrying $2,403,000, was introduced by Mr. Scott, Center. The bill provides $1,350,000 for the general maintenance of the school of agriculture, agricultural experiment station, institute of animal industry, school of liberal arts, school of engineering and experiment station and other branches; $985,000 for buildings which may be required and which are to be approved by the Governor and $88,000 for the purchase of land, livestock and farm and experimental equipment.

The William Penn Memorial Bridge Commission to determine upon a site for a bridge across the Delaware between Philadelphia and Camden and to prepare plans is introduced by Mr. Connor, Philadelphia. The commission is to be composed of three citizens of Philadelphia, to be named by the Governor. An appropriation of $15,000 is carried by the bill.

Change in Primaries

Mr. McCurdy, Blair, introduced a bill changing the date of primaries in even-numbered years from the third Tuesday of May to the third Tuesday of June.

Five bills relating to insurance methods were introduced by Mr. Baldwin, Delaware. The bills were recommended by the legislative insurance investigation commission. The bills regulate associations known as Lloyds, adoption of basis for valuing bond investments of life insurance companies, operations of rate-making bureaus, powers of agents and provide a standard form of policy contract for fire insurance companies.

Other bills presented were: Mr. Dawson, Lackawanna—Requiring steel frame cages in perpendicular shafts in anthracite mines.

Mr. Powell, Luzerne—Authorizing appointment of deputy prothonotaries in counties having between 250,000 and 1,000,000 population.

Mr. Aron, Philadelphia—Requiring telephone companies to install registers and call records on telephone companies which are on limited contracts.

Mr. Vickerman, Allegheny—Amending juvenile court law so that county provides clothing when parents are unable to do so and providing for education of female children under authority of the court.

Mr. Stalter, Somerset—Amending act of 1892 erecting office of burgess to give him authority to approve or veto every resolution, motion or rule of a legislative character passed by a borough council.

Jones Bill Out

The Jones bill, providing state acceptance of the Lever act for federal aid for agricultural instruction in Pennsylvania, and a bill reported by the House agricultural committee, together with twenty-six other bills. The accompanying bill, making an appropriation to meet the congressional act, will be reported in a few days.

The taxation code and the general repealer of obsolete laws were reported out and after being passed on first reading will be re-committed. It being the plan to give hearings. Among other bills reported out were for an additional judge in Lackawanna county; for a commission to consider securing property adjacent to Independence Hall in Philadelphia; fixing the marriage license fee at $2; allowing boroughs to furnish power for commercial enterprises; retaining high schools of Philadelphia to confer degrees; for semi-monthly pay of employees of first class cities; regulating issuance of licenses to operate automobiles; for a commission to provide a way for filling vacancies in office of mayor in Philadelphia; establishing permanent registered voters in registration laws.

Hearings Fixed For the Coming Month

Hearings were accorded last night on two bills pending before the lower branch of the Legislature and dates set for a number during March, it being the plan of the Legislature to adjourn until March 1 when work is ended for this week. A general discussion was held by the committee on judicial general on the Spangler bill to abolish the fee system for county officers and it will be further considered. The education committee heard committees from Schuylkill county holding their own institutes instead of a general institute.

Announcement was made that the Senate judiciary special and House manufactures committee would hold a joint hearing on the child labor bills on March 9. The House ways and means committee will give a hearing on March 2 on the repeal of the mercantile tax and on March 9 on the second class city property tax bill.

Consideration of the local option bill was fixed for March 2 by the House law and order committee which indefinitely postponed the bill to permit fishing on Sunday, for a State commission to regulate boxing, regulating billboards and regulating signatures of licensees.

Arrangements were made for further hearings by the House municipal corporations committee on the trading stamp and third class city bills. J. Denny O'Neil, of McKeesport, appeared for the bills to require a license on trading stamps and Representative Staving against taxation.

BUCKMAN STATES SENATE ATTITUDE

Declares That Revenues Will Be Held Up as the Standard to Go by in Bills

Senator C. J. Buckman, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, last night issued this statement: "As chairman of the Senate committee on appropriations, which is charged with the duty of visiting and inspecting the various hospitals, insane asylums and other charitable institutions seeking State aid, I have been besieged with applications from persons who are desirous of accompanying the committee's representatives at the expense of the State. If the impression prevails that these tours of inspection are pleasure trips, I wish to correct it immediately. Their purpose is to save the State's money, not to spend it. In view of these facts, and also that a resolution has been introduced into the House recommending the discontinuance of the inspections as an unnecessary expense, the appropriations committee of the Senate feels that an explanation is due from it to the public. Since the committee on appropriations are held responsible for the appropriations they recommend, it is of vital importance that they should proceed with their eyes open in regard to these charitable outlays, which constitute a very considerable portion of the State's disbursements. True, the Board of Charities is presumed to do the work of inspection itself, but the board's point of view is necessarily that of a pleader, rather than of the body which pays the bills.

"I may state that the Board of Charities has already recommended much larger appropriations than will be available at this session. If we were to scale down all appropriations pro rata, great injustice would be done in many cases.

"As illustrating the value of personal and unexpected visits from representatives of the appropriations committee, one such inspection in the past brought to light the fact that a hospital receiving State aid was supporting charity patients who lived in New Jersey. In another hospital, the committee found that the management had put the nurses into beds in order to make it appear that the institution was worthy of generous help. Governor Brumbaugh considers these inspections of such importance that he has signified his desire to accompany the chairman of the two appropriations committees on a visit to some of the larger institutions which have been receiving the most liberal assistance. I may say, however, with this single exception, as far as the Senate committee is concerned, only members of the committee, or, when necessary, employees of the committee, will be permitted to make these tours, or any of them at the expense of the State."
