

Women AND THEIR Interests

What's Wrong With Women?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"I don't like your sex," said a very fine man to me the other day. There are a great many splendid worth-while women in the world, but you must confess that you always hear them described as "unusual." But for the most part women have our very objectionable weaknesses which the other sex in general escapes. Women are petty, untruthful, hypocritical and unrelaxing. You never have to confess to the truth of this and when you have confessed, you will have to put your sanction to my not liking your sex.

who can afford what her station does not justify; she exhibits it in not accepting the gift and take of life fairly, but in expecting her sex to save her some of the obligations she ought to meet as a mere human being. She manifests her untruthfulness on occasions so numerous that she must blush to have them suggested. Look yourself squarely in the face. Don't you fib out of difficulties and into popularity? Don't you exaggerate in order to emphasize your own claim and importance? Don't you lie to avoid unpleasant obligations? Are there not myriad ways in which you depart somewhat from the truth? As to hypocrisy, most of us are too hypocritical to acknowledge the charge. But the fact remains that many of us pose as other than we are and play to the gallery of our own self-esteem or of what we think others expect of us. The girl who practically invites a kiss and then is indignant at the liberty is a fair type of our crowning hypocrisy; women as a sex lie to themselves about their own emotional natures. And hypocrisy that coquetishly invites and then coyly rejects—in other words coquetry—is particularly objectionable to men of character. Out of women's untruthfulness and hypocrisy grows unreliability with the same certainty that each of these other characteristics grows from its predecessor in turn. Women do not seem to have a sense of responsibility about meeting their obligations. They hardly seem to know whether they intend to keep engagements and promises or not; they feel privileged to yield to the whim of a moment and offer an excuse for not living up to an obligation a week. "Oh, I didn't feel like doing that." Are you an "unusual woman" who rises above these four weaknesses and duty indignant at the liberty is a fair type of our crowning hypocrisy; women as a sex lie to themselves about their own emotional natures. And hypocrisy that coquetishly invites and then coyly rejects—in other words coquetry—is particularly objectionable to men of character. Out of women's untruthfulness and hypocrisy grows unreliability with the same certainty that each of these other characteristics grows from its predecessor in turn. Suffragists Making Good Progress in Ten States

A brief review of the progress woman suffrage has made during the last month from New England to the Gulf States has given out to-day by Mrs. Frank Rossing, president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, from the offices in the Arcade building. In New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts the legislatures have approved resolutions calling for a suffrage amendment to their constitutions and the question will go to a referendum vote of the people this fall. Similar action has also been taken in West Virginia, although the suffrage amendment will not be voted on until 1916. The Pennsylvania suffrage resolution has been passed by the House and is now in the Senate, where a favorable vote is expected shortly after the legislature reconvenes. Pennsylvania will then become a "campaign state." The people of Iowa may also have a chance to vote on suffrage this fall, as the suffrage bill there has been passed by the Senate and is now in the House. Meanwhile, woman suffrage bills have passed the committee stage and are now pending in the legislatures of Tennessee, Alabama and Texas.

U. S. MARSHAL HEADS POSSE Latest Reports From Field of Action Say Battle Continues Fiercely

Denver, Colo., Feb. 22.—After a battle throughout the night near Bluff, Utah, between a band of 52 Piute Indians and a posse of 26 white men, led by United States Marshal Aquila Nebeker, bands of citizens from various towns in Utah were preparing to-day to go to the assistance of the whites. The Indians also have been reinforced. Two Indians and one white man have been killed; two Indians and a white man wounded and two Indians captured. On of those killed was an Indian maiden who was said to have run into the line of battle. The fight started early Sunday morning, when the whites, after several days' journey by wagon arrived at the camp of Tse-Ne-Gat, a Piute Indian leader, whose arrest on a charge of murder was sought.

2325 PERSONS ATTEND PINE STREET SERVICE. Prominent Men Make Addresses at 57th Anniversary; Larger Enrollment Urged. Pine Street Presbyterian Sunday School yesterday afternoon observed its fifty-seventh anniversary in Technical high school auditorium with a total enrollment for the day of 2,325 scholars. Not all of these were able to attend the exercises, but held separate meetings at the Bethany Church, in Cameron street, and at the Division Street Mission. Superintendent Henry E. McCormick in an address quoted the following three-fold ideal of a Philadelphia church: "1. A church that lives its inside outside and welcomes outsiders inside her. "2. A prayer meeting which is a rest house for weariness. A guest-house for loneliness and a clearing house for the traffic in souls in the midst of the business of life. "3. A Sunday school where Christ and Christianity are taught by Christians who think and believe and know and where the pupil may learn the highest of arts—to worship and serve their fellow-men and live well." The members who died during the year were: John Y. Boyd, March 9; John W. Bistline, May 7; E. W. Reed, June 20; Miss Laura Kautz, August 13; Mrs. Anna Steever, October 7; J. Albert Reinhard, October 15; George V. Corl, November 4; Joseph N. Pyle, December 22; Elmer E. Miller, December 18. Attendance records showed those highest on the roll of honor to be W. A. Loech, who has not missed a Sunday in nineteen years; Mrs. Mary Stoner Deal, who missed only one in twenty years; Mrs. Mary Seigle, three in nineteen years; D. E. Mullen, none in ten years. In the junior department F. Marlon Sourbeer missed only five days in thirty years and Jean M. Mullen three in eleven years. Dr. Mudge Extends Greetings The Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Communication between here and Bluff has been broken all day and has just been restored. The fighting continues fiercely. Cause Much Trouble Tse-Ne-Gate, who is also known as Everett Hatch, is charged with the murder last March of Juan Chacon, a sheep herder in Montezuma county, Colo. After his arrest, the Indian escaped to Utah, where his father "Old Polk" is said to have found him resistance. The band of which Tse-Ne-Gate is the leader is known as an uncontrollable tribe, which has on many occasions given settlers of southeastern Utah much trouble. The conclave in Philadelphia to-morrow is designed for those Rotarians who have never attended an international convention and who will be unable to go to San Francisco this year.
