A HINT ON DIVING

Good height is essential in making the jack-knives, that the movements in folding and opening may be deliberate and unhurried. As the name indicates the following are the steps in the action of a pocket-knife being opened and closed. The diver rises in the air, bends from the waist until his hands and feet touch, then, after holding the position for an instant, snaps his legs up and enters in the position prescribed for the plain-front dive, but at a slightly more vertical angle.

Care should be taken not to bring up the knees in bending, for the tendency to do so is strong and the fault is a general one.—March Outing.

PICTURE BRIDES

Picture brides are women their prospective husbands have never seen, but photographs have been exchanged, contracts signed, and they are legally married, according to Japanese custom, and only need a short ceremony to make them man and wife to conform with the California law.

PRAYER

So strong is my desire; so great my need;
So vast the interests pending, as I plead;
So little do I know the hidden deep
And utmost reach of my necessities,
So subtle and so limitless, So steep
The ascent to springs unfailing; and the ties
That hold the spirit earthward are so strong,
So all-unsearchable the sympathies,
That crowd and jostle in unnumbered throngs,
What shall I ask for, as I bend the knee?
Thy word of grace has promised full supply.

What shall I say for every clamoring want,
Or deeply felt, or less than understood?
How shall I ask the Infinite to grant
That which I crave, yet know not what
Or ill it may be? how the cup refuse
That seems so bitter, but may prove to be
The balm of healing? Nay, I dare not choose.
O Life! O Love! O Light! Infinity,
I pray, I plead, give, give thyself to me,
And what thou wilt bestide, Thou sum of bliss
In whom all fullness dwells, all power, all peace,
To endless blessing thou the open door;
Give me thyself, I ask, nor wish for more.
—Mrs. Harriet Warner Regua, in "Stones for the Temple."
