BRUMBAUGH GIVES HIS VIEWS ON PEACE

Says Church, Home and School Must Join in Education of Individuals

As an outcome of the constructive peace meeting held Saturday night at the Technical high school under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Arbitration and Peace Society, a number of follow-up meetings will be held Sunday nights at various large churches of the city and a big meeting for permanent organization is planned about the middle of May.

Many applications were signed by persons desiring to join a permanent organization and were taken charge of by Dr. J. J. Mullooney, chairman of the committee of arrangements. The views of Governor Brumbaugh on the peace question are given in a letter read by Dr. Mullooney were as follows: "We are Peaceful People"

"I am intensely interested not only in the preservation of the peace of this nation, but in the development of the spirit of peace in the citizens of this great Commonwealth. If we are to maintain another century of peace, we must first have a definite high national ideal. It then becomes our business to train our people to realize this ideal, to know what it means to be a citizen of this country. The hope of securing peace in America rests upon a trained citizenship. America rests upon a trained citizenship. We are a peaceful and a peace-seeking people. The man here who plans for war is no friend of this country. The time has come for Christian people to move for the great Prince of Peace that they have done in the past. What this country needs more than anything else is good behavior in each of her citizens. If we can secure that there will be no cause for thinking about a larger army and navy."

The Woman's Side Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones gave the woman's viewpoint on the peace question, saying that war will be ended when women have the vote. Professor Alvin S. Johnson, of Cornell, spoke on the economic features of war, pointing out that commercial and colonial jealousy and fear on the part of the great nations involved is at the bottom of the present conflict. Other speakers were Henry C. Niles, vice-president and Augustus Cadwallader of Philadelphia, secretary of the Pennsylvania Arbitration and Peace Society.

MAJORITY OF "DOPE" FIENDS ARE WOMEN

Narcotics said to have received 20,000 grains of morphine in one week, together with large quantities of other "dope." 1,000 "Dope" Users Physicians are just finding out the full extent of the evil. One said that there are at least 1,000 persons in this city who use the drug. These are now suffering dreadful agony because they cannot obtain it. Unscrupulous physicians, who prescribed the various forms of opium and allowed their patients to have these prescriptions refilled, are the cause of so many persons being victims of the habit, according to the statement of a prominent doctor.

Heroin and "Coke" Favorites One of the physicians said that about the only cure for a fiend is to gradually cut down the supply and eventually overcome the craving for the "snow" as the white particles are called. Heroin and cocaine are said to be the favorites. Some of the users are quite young. Another physician in explaining the effects of the drug and results when its use is discontinued said, that when a person uses the drug regularly the system forms what is sometimes called an "antidote" which reacts with the form of opium and that when no more "dope" is taken, this reaction causes great agony to the fiend.

Practically all of the dealers had their displays completed, with the exception of the Effelsizer Cycle Company and the Harington Cycle Exchange. The models for these exhibits did not arrive until to-day and will be on display this evening. In addition to the new Excelsior model the Excelsior Cycle Company has received a Smith motor wheel. This wheel can be attached to any bicycle to make it self-propelled. A gasoline motor is mounted on a steel chassis and is attached beside the rear wheel of the bicycle. The adjustment is flexible but firm, and with pneumatic tires resting on the ground provides the traction necessary to push the wheel. Chester B. Smith is showing a Model R-15 Peavee as the leading feature of his exhibit. On a table is also shown the Eclipse two-speed model and the 1915 large and improved clutch. This two-speed attachment can be applied to any motorcycle that is not equipped with a clutch. The Reading-Standard exhibited by G. W. Gault, of Marysville, had a model 7-15 twin two-speed and a 6-horsepower model C, the latter machine is well known locally, the factory being at Reading, Pa. The Thor, model 15-A, twin-cylinder two-speed, with 12-horsepower, was shown by the Reading-Standard. H. Uher. Attached to the model was a side car with top, showing how the lady may enjoy a trip over the mountains on Sunday after the motorcycle has served its utility purpose. Three models of the Indian comprised the exhibit of the West End Electric and Cycle Company. One, a 6-horsepower model C, indicated the model with magneto generator, and the regular model C three-speed, as well as the model B three-speed. An Indian side car is also a feature. The new multiple disc dry clutch is shown separately, being one of the improvements of the 1915 models. The new kick starter turns the motor three and a half times by one kick of the foot. The Harley-Davidson models hold the center of the floor, an extensive display of the various models being shown to good advantage. The Harley brothers were fortunate in recording the first sale of the evening. E. R. Dunkel, factory representative for the Harley-Davidson, is assisting at the Harley-Davidson display. The Keystone Motorcyclist display, in charge of John F. Greenawald, had an attractive showing. Peals of laughter and merry voices from the north-west corner of the exhibit indicated the location of the ladies' auxiliary booth, where the hungry and thirsty may line up for a bit of lunch.

LOCAL OPTION BILL STATE-WIDE QUESTION

[Continued from First Page.] the legislature to-morrow arrangements should be made for a public hearing on the hearing he has one in mind and let everyone come and speak with absolute frankness. We want their views. Compensation is a new thing to us and we want the benefit of all experience and all opinions," declared the Governor. Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown this afternoon declared in favor of a constitutional convention. "The one is right for a constitutional convention," said he. "I see no reason why there should be any fears that such a convention would not be made up of men fully able to meet the problems of the day. It is a matter of course for this State a constitution that will go farther toward meeting the needs of the State than the one we have now."
