Women AND THEIR Interests

The Fine Flower of Chivalry

By Beatrice Fairfax

Is chivalry dead? On every side you hear the discussion as to whether chivalry went out with hoopskirts and fainting and general feminine helplessness and the coming in of feminism and suffrage. The whole discussion is ridiculous, for chivalry is no more an exclusively masculine quality than are truth and honor.

Chivalry is, after all, but noblesse oblige. The fineness of feelings that obliges one to do certain things and that would make it impossible for one to do certain others is chivalry.

Chivalry is not Sir Walter Raleigh spreading his velvet cloak over a puddle that Queen Bess may pass dry-shod; chivalry is not a knight in armor fighting all other knights to prove the superior charm of a lady who has tied a blue scarf to his arm. Chivalry is the spirit close within one's self that makes one think kindly of people and refrain even in the inmost places of one's own mind from criticizing or disparaging.

Chivalry is never showy at the expense of others. The day before Christmas I saw a poorly dressed woman, with bare, toil-worn hands, stumble out of a street car and drop a great box of cheap toys. With much elaboration a well-dressed man rushed from the curbstone and stood, hat in hand, offering the woman advice about going into the nearest grocery store to get a box to hold her things. There was no chivalry in the condescension that offered cheap advice, although two women thought the man very fine not to be ashamed to be seen talking to the poor, shabby creature.

A passing wagon driver threw his reins about the whipstock and, cap on the back of his head and cigar drooping from his lips, went to the aid of the woman. He picked up the various toys and scattered bundles of cranberries and nuts and carried them to the curbstone.

Then he stood guard while the woman went into a store and secured a new box and some strong twine. Thereafter the shabby teamster helped the woman pack her possessions.

"Have you any kiddies at home?" she asked, and on finding that he had three she insisted on sending three toys to the children of the man who had helped her. "You're a good man," she said, and there was a blessing in her tone.

Kindness and gratitude—actual practical kindness and definitely expressed gratitude. Can you think of anything more chivalrous than the man who helped and the woman who spared some of her hard-earned Christmas in thankfulness for his kindness?

Chivalry is not dead. It does not "ride attill for the honor of its lady faire." It does not celebrate itself in minstrelsy and song. But the fine flower of it is in the kindness and gratitude common men and women show to the other.

Miss Fairfax Answers Queries

BE LOYAL

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am twenty-four. About five months ago I fell in love with a young lady five years my junior. I have taken her to theaters, etc. I have made her gifts. I have met her father, married brother and sister. Now I have asked her if she could marry me. She told me that for the past year she has been in love with a married man of thirty-six. Her folks do not know this. I told her to forget him for her own good. I told her I would be willing to wait.

G. B. C.

Be patient and loyal, and even if the girl annoys you with confidences about her ill-advised infatuation, go on trying to win her. You see she has the utmost faith in you, and I think you would be failing that if you did not make every effort to help her cure herself of her former love. Patience and loyalty now will surely win her love and devotion.

TRUE LOVE

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am thirty-five, and at twenty-four I married most inadvicably. Four years ago my wife and I concluded that a separation was necessary. Later my wife obtained a divorce and was given the custody of our child. They have been sufficiently provided for, and since there was never any bitterness between my wife and me, I hope to give my child as much of a father's guidance as if our family life had been quite different. At present I am still longing for that happiness which I did not find in my marriage.

What I want to know is, would a woman care to take a chance for happiness with a man like me? Could she possibly sympathize if she knew my whole story? Could she value me for what I might prove to be to her, or would she permit my experience to lessen the love of which she is capable? DISAPPOINTED.

If ever you meet a woman who is capable of true love of the sort for which you yearn, I think she will be perfectly willing to give you both love and sympathy. Perhaps she will even care for you the more tenderly because of your sad experience. Good women are like that.

A NEW AND BECOMING BLOUSE

A Late Model, the Neck of which can Be Finished in Two Quite Different Ways.

By MAY MANTON

8554 Gathered Blouse, 34 to 42 bust.

Such a blouse as this one fills many needs. It can be made with skirt to match to mean an attractive gown of a simple sort, or it can be made of soft silk, of cotton crepe or of other washable material to be worn with the tailored suit. The gathered fronts mean becoming fullness; the high neck makes a most effective finish and the sleeves may be either full or in three-quarter length, as each wearer prefers. Women who find the open neck too comfortable to be surrendered will like the treatment shown on the figure, but if a higher neck is wanted, the two fronts can be made alike and turned back to form "small revers." Here crepe de chine is used throughout, but an exceedingly handsome and exceedingly smart effect could be obtained by using Bengaline silk for the collar, sleeves and cuffs, and white silk is liked whether the blouse is white or colored.

For the medium size will be needed 3 1/2 yds. of material 27 in. wide, 2 1/2 yds. 36, 2 yds. 44. If contrasting material is used, 3/4 yd. 27 inches wide will be needed for collar, cuffs and revers.

The pattern No. 8554 is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

DIPHTHERIA AT DAUPHIN

Special to The Telegraph

Dauphin, Pa., March 8.—Mrs. Herbert Singer, of Railroad street, has developed a case of diphtheria.

Yes Resinol cleared away every pimple!

At least once a day—usually twice—bathed my face for several minutes with plenty of Resinol Soap and hot water and applied a little Resinol Ointment very gently. I let this stay on for ten minutes or so, and then washed it off, with Resinol Soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores.

I was astonished how quickly the healing Resinol medication soothed and cleansed the pores, removed pimples and blackheads, and left my complexion clear and velvety.

Physicians have used Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap for 20 years in the treatment of itching, burning, skin-eruptions. Sold by all druggists for trial free, write to Dept. 11-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

WHERE TO FIND NATIONALLY ADVERTISED GOODS

The World's Best Merchandise In and Near

HARRISBURG, PA.

Merchandise that will bear national advertising has to have exceptional merit. else the manufacturer could not afford to spend large sums of money for the advertising, and to attach his name and reputation to an article that was not extraordinarily meritorious, for it is the repeat sales that he depends on. It is therefore quite evident that when an article is nationally advertised and nationally sold, year in and year out, year after year, it is exceptionally good goods to stand the test and prove worthy of continued sales and growth. It is conceded by experts that when an article is advertised generally—nationally—it is the best possible product. The wise always, in consequence, prefer nationally known goods and ask for what they want by name. Read the magazines and keep posted on nationally advertised goods.
