HIDES BILL IN POCKET

Special to The Telegraph Little Rock, Ark., March 9.—A few minutes after Governor Hayes had signed the racing bill late yesterday he called for the return of the bill, scratched off his signature and put the bill in his pocket, declaring that he had until midnight to sign the measure. The bill passed the Legislature in the face of a strong fight against it. It legalizes pari-mutuel betting and provides for a State Racing Commission. Its principal purpose, it is said, is to re-establish horse racing at Hot Springs. At midnight the bill will become a law with or without the signature of the governor, unless he vetoes it.

WILLIE RITCHIE AFTER OLD TITLE; FORMER LEADER WANTS WELSH'S SCALP

Willie Ritchie, former champion lightweight of the United States, believes that he can and will whip Freddy Welsh when the two meet for ten rounds in New York this week. This photograph taken of Ritchie four days before the match shows him to be in good condition. It was believed by those who had not seen him that he was fat and flabby and that he would not round to form without long training. How untrue this is may be seen from his appearance in his training costume. He does not seem to carry superfluous weight. In fact, the day after the photograph was taken Ritchie weighed 138 pounds. Since the match calls for 135 pounds, he felt no difficulty in reaching that figure and being strong.

FIGHT DATE SURE; WILLARD GOES SOUTH

Battle Takes Place Saturday, April 3; White Hope Anxious to Get Busy

Special to The Telegraph Havana, March 9.—A fight for the world's heavyweight pugilistic championship will take place at Havana Saturday, April 3, between Jack Johnson and Jess Willard. The last obstacle in the way of having the fight take place here was removed when Jack Curley, who endeavored to have the men meet at Juarez, Mex., March 6, received a cable from Willard saying that he would start immediately for Havana, arriving here from New Orleans March 15. The terms for the fight are identical with those which would have prevailed had the encounter taken place at Juarez. Johnson is now in training. Willard probably will have training quarters at Marianao. Word was received here that Willard was on his way.

AMUSEMENTS

MAJESTIC This evening—"Twin Beds." To-morrow, afternoon and evening—"The De Koven Opera Company" in "Robin Hood." Thursday and Friday, with daily matinees—German War Pictures. Saturday, afternoon and evening—"The Boston English Opera Company" will present "Il Trovatore." ORPHEUM Every afternoon and evening—High-Class Vaudeville. COLONIAL Every afternoon and evening—Vaudeville and Pictures. MOTION PICTURES Palace, 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Photoplay, 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Royal, 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. Victoria, 10 a. m. to 11 p. m.

"TWIN BEDS"

Men who are of convivial habits can see themselves as others see them when they watch Signor Monti, the famous Italian tenor, in the production of "Twin Beds," prepare to retire. An umbrella hanging on his right wrist is the source of annoyance. He cannot remove his collar, which is of the turn-down variety, so tears off the outer portion, leaving the inside still about his neck. After he has succeeded in donning his suit of pajamas, he climbs into the vacant twin bed with the light. This he cannot extinguish, so he raises the umbrella, excludes the light and falls asleep. It is uproariously funny and nothing offensive or vulgar in it. Selwyn and Company are sending "Twin Beds" to the Majestic Theatre for a return engagement. Advertisement.

"IL TROVATORE"

Besides the strong dramatic side to "Il Trovatore," which comes to the Majestic, Saturday, afternoon and evening, there is the most beautiful and tuneful music. From a standpoint of melody alone no comic opera can compare with it. What comic opera has such beautiful numbers as the picturesque "Avvil Choristi" wonderful "Misere," in the Tower Scene; the famous trio at the end of the first act, which provides the title of the subject of the concert scene; and others too numerous to mention? Is it any wonder that every performance I have had people who have never heard grand opera before, tell me they would not have missed it for anything. You can put this down as gospel truth. Every one who hears "Il Trovatore," surely will be glad to have the company of the one I have the honor to be associated with this season, will mean an additional treat for Grand Opera. "UNDER COVER"

One of the early attractions at the Majestic will be a new melodrama, "Under Cover," presented under the direction of Selwyn and Company; the firm which gave "Within the Law" to the stage. "Under Cover," which is now playing to crowded houses in New York and Chicago, is described as an exciting up-to-the-minute detective play that abounds in thrills, laughs and surprises. COLONIAL

The great big beauty show called "The Linton and His Jungle Girls," that proved so popular at the Orpheum about three seasons ago, is playing a very unusual engagement at the Colonial for the first three days of this week. Mr. Linton is a comedian of considerable reputation and around his tomfoolery a striking beauty chorus injects tuneful songs and clever dances. Unique and picturesque scenic effects lend added attraction to this act. Three other clever Keith acts and interesting moving picture features complete a clever and diverting entertainment. PHOTOPLAY TODAY

Another three-act Lubin production, "Love of a Woman," appears to-day at the Photoplay Theater with Lillie Leslie and Jack Standing in the leading roles. Along with the regular Girl Detective Series, shown each Tuesday, featuring daring Ruth Roland as the girl detective, in "Old Isaacson's Diamonds," Ruth Roland has another venturesome plot to unravel. Coming Thursday, most popular Photoplayer, Francis X. Bushman, and his new leading lady, Edna Mayo, featured in a three-act Essanay drama, "Stars Their Courses Change." Advertisement.

URGE REPAIRS TO CREEK DAM; CANOEISTS TO TAKE ACTION

Want Trustees of McCormick Estate to Preserve Natural Basin in the Conodoguinet

Boating up and down the Susquehanna is really very nice, 'tis true, and will be so much nicer when the dam is doing its duty, but— Those hundreds of city canoeists who have been accustomed to whiling away many a summer hour on the bosom of the Conodoguinet can't quite forget nor forsake the old love. A movement is now on foot among the boatmen to reclaim that section of the broad creek that had been put out of business by the washing away last fall of the dam at West Fairview. The dam is owned by the McCormick estate and the canoeists are planning to present a monster petition to the trustees asking that it be repaired at as little expense as possible so as to preserve the natural basin. Ira Kinder is behind the movement and he expects to consult with the McCormick trustees in a few days.

ed to get certain papers bearing upon the alliance of two European principalities. Olga Petroff, the cleverest spy of Retrograd, is called to recover the papers. Bannock is charmed by the girl's simple beauty. Bannock reveals himself to Gontine who denounces the Government of Retrograd and promises to help him. The soldiers pretend to shoot Gontine and his wife for refusing to reveal the hiding place of Bannock. The secret service officer hears the shot and rushes back to the cottage to find the soldiers gone. He thinks she is now alone in the world and asks her to marry him. She consents. After the marriage they take refuge at an inn. Olga snatches the papers from Bannock's hands and two of her aids cover him with guns. She then tells him all the occurrences had been planned by herself to trick him out of the papers. Sargall gives Olga the alternative of suffering the penalty of a spy or accepting his love. Bannock leaps through the window and overpowers Sargall. At the point of a revolver, Bannock forces Sargall to accompany them in an automobile and pass them by the guards until they are out of the country. Advertisement.

"THE VOLUNTEER ORGANIST" AT THE PALACE

"The Volunteer Organist," the story of the stage which has grown almost to the proportion of a classic, has been made for the motion pictures in an eight-act production. The story of the entire play is based in the early sixties, and is one in which human interest is brought to the highest pitch. The quaint, odd characters of the time lend such prominence to-day, for the Volunteer Organist is ruined by drink and is brought to a low stage in the play of life. But he "comes back" in the end and the play has a happy ending. The film is said to abound with wonderful scenes and acting; chief of which is the battle scene, in which it is claimed there are ten cannon, 100 horses and 6,000 persons employed. This film will be shown at The Palace to-morrow. Advertisement.

"ARISTOCRACY" AT THE REGENT TODAY

One of the most important stars of the modern stage, Tyrone Power, will appear in a four-part film version of Bronson Howard's great theatrical success, "Aristocracy," a production of the Famous Players Film Company. "Aristocracy" sounds the shallow and the depths of the exalted circle which provides the title of the subject. It criticizes with relentless vigor and earnestness the false pomp and superficial grandeur of the ultra-smart. And interwoven with this forceful pictorial
