CIVIL WAR CASH CHECKS

Special to The Telegraph
Sunbury, Pa., March 17. — James Van Dyke, son of a Civil War veteran and hotel proprietor, rummaging through some old wares in the attic at his home, found brass checks which were used by his father, a hotel proprietor, in Civil War days in lieu of money. Cash then was scarce and the checks, to be redeemed later, were used as currency.

Modern Structure of Steel, Con- Wolford Peach and Apple Or chards Near Pen-Mar Are Ruined

Special to The Telegraph

Hershey, Pa., March 17.—A large force of men are employed on the northwest corner of Chocolate and Park avenues for the erection of a massive printing office. Work on this building had been commenced last year, but later operations were suspended.

The new building, which in size will be the second largest erected in the famous chocolate town, will extend from Chocolate avenue to the railroad. It will have a frontage of 31 feet along Park avenue and a depth of 90 feet on Chocolate avenue. The building will be in two parts, one of which will be four stories high and the other three stories. It will be of steel, concrete, brick and glass, with every detail of its construction of fire quality. General Manager James B. Leithiser reports that the demand for houses is so large that a number of additional dwellings will be erected during the summer. Four of these will be erected at once on East Areba street. A large force of men is engaged in rushing the work on thabernâcle, which structure must be completed by June 1.

1,500 HEAR STOUGH PREACH ONCE AGAIN

apostle warns the young preacher not to "partake of the sins of others." He used the Scriptural words as a basis for an attack on church people who countenance individual and community sinfulness without a murmur, declaring that such church members are every whit as guilty as those who commit the wrong.

Who's to Blame?

Who's to Blame?

"Who's to Blame?" was the formal subject of his sermon, and he pointed out who is responsible for the lawbreaking booze dives, the brothels, the gambling dens, the street-walkers and the dancing halls of the vice districts. He laid this responsibility first to the "preachers in the pulpit who are afraid to tell the truth," and to the "church members in the pews who sit with folded hands while hundreds of young girls are bespoiled, besmirched, bedamned, and hundreds of young men are being hurled to drunkards graves."

"Such people kicked in Harrisburg because I talked directly to the church folk while I was there. Why I didn't talk long enough to them; I didn't get all the preachers converted up there."

"Amens!" From Harrisburgers

ed up there."

"Amens!" From Harrisburgers
When the "Amens!" from the Harrisburg contingent had subsided, Dr.
Stough continued with a plea that the voters in the churches drive out the politicians—"the men higher up" —whom, he said, are responsible for much of the debauchery in the towns of Pennsylvania.

The evangelist vehemently inveighed against church members who have allowed worldly amusements "to encroach upon the high ideals of the church."

"There isn't a church, with the ex-

ed Dr. Stough.

Appeals to Parents
Dr. Stough ended his sermon with an appeal to parents to look more closely to the spiritual welfare of their children, declaring "More youngsters don't want to go to heaven because they fear the daddles and mammies will be there to treat them like dogs, just as they do on earth. They don't want the sort of religion you have."

like dogs, just as they do on earth. They don't want the sort of religion you have."

Following the sermon the Lancaster people were given an opportunity to say "How-dy-do" to the Harrisburg folk. The Harrisburgers filled the chorus platform in the Lancaster tabernacle and sang the old familiar campaign songs under the direction of Professor Spooner.

The Harrisburgers went to Lancaster in a special train of two sections, including seventeen coaches. As they paraded out the Lancaster streets to the tabernacle they sang "Onward. Christian Soldiers" while thousands of the townspeople lined the curbstones. Several thousand Lancaster people were turned away from the tabernacle they say the townspeople lined the curbstones. Several thousand Lancaster people were turned away from the tabernacle because of the lack of room. As it was, the big building was packed tight as a sardine box, the "S R O" sign being out long before 7.30 o'clock. Dr. Stough ws presented by his Harrisburg friends with a huge basket of American Beauty roses and the entire Stough party was called on the platform to say "thank you!" for the mark of appreciation.

Local Ministers Participate

The Rev. Dr. J. T. Spangler, pastor of the First United Brethren Church, this city, prayed at the opening of the services. Dr. J. A. Lyter, pastor of Dery Street United Brethren Church, this city, prayed at the opening of the services. Pr. J. A. Lyter, pastor of Dery Street United Brethren Church, told of the remarkable awakening in his church since the campaign. Professor Spooner, the musical director for Dr. Stough, introduced Charles F. Clippinger, director of the Harrisburg Evangelistic Chorus, under whose direction the big excursion was held. Mr. Clippinger director of the Chorus in a song and a number of yells. E. F. Weaver, executive sceretary of the local campaign committee, presented Dr. Stough with a check for $10 sent him "by a Harrisburg admirer."

The Harrisburg folk were particularly interested in the big tabernacle at Lancaster. It is not quite of with stepin. It holds about stop-people.

The "sawdust cough" has the Lan-caster people gripped, too, and Dr.
Stough had to urge that the coughing be suppressed.

"It's hard for a man to keep quiet on two occasions—when he wants to talk back to his wife and when he wants to cough." he chuckled.

Returning, the Harrisburgers left Lancaster at 10.30, arriving here an hour later. hour later.

have allowed worldly amusements "to encroach upon the high ideals of the church." "There isn't a church, with the exception of the Mormon," declared the evangelist, "which at some time or another has not declared against the dance and card playing. And yet most church members dance, and most of you know more about a card deck than you do about the Bible. There isn't a preacher here to-night who—if he did his duty according to the tenets of his church—wouldn't fire you cardplaying and dancing church members out of the congregation." "Stop dancing—stop playing cards—or get out of the church!" he exclaimed. Goes After Liquor Signers "Why, I've been told that right here in Lancaster, and in Harrisburg, too, some church members have signed liquor license applications," he went on, as though amazed. "I want to tell you that the man who signs a liquor application is just as responsible for the drunkards' souls that go to hell as the fellow who shoves the booze over the bar!" Dr. Stough then took occasion to praise the efforts of Governor Brumbaugh for the fight he is putting up for local option. "Pray for the Governor—the best man, who has sat in the chair in these many years—and back him up in his fight to give Pennsylvanian's citizens the right to decide whether or not they want booze. Go home to-night, you men of Harrisburg, and write letters to your legislators so that they'll know what you want." "We all have!" some one shouted from the Harrisburg group. "Write them some more," suggested Dr. Stough ended his sermon with Dr. Stough ended his sermon with Dr. Stough ended his sermon with an an appeal to parents to look more
