"Well," said the gardener in the dimness of the garage, and he brushed his arms. It was all the rest they needed. He turned ponderously toward their captive, whom they had deposited in a corner on a bench.

The gardener's one word was a question, an exclamation of relief and an expression of complete and thorough bewilderment. He was a broad Swede, and his arms hung crooked with muscles.

"I know nothing," laughed the wily little chauffeur. He was a Frenchman with an infinitesimal mustache and a quick eye and a childlike joy in everything. "The maid of the charming mademoiselle telephoned from the pantry to the garage that there is a man near the hedge who must not come near mademoiselle, who must not speak, to whom nothing must be said, and all must be prompt! Voila! I am Henri, and all of action. I call my friend Jens."

And he tapped the huge Swede approvingly on the chest. "I bring my friend Jens swiftly by the mere force of my enthusiasm. We glide through the bushes so, like a snake. No! He laughed and smote his friend Jens on the wide chest. "Like a snake and a bull. We creep up behind the interloper. We pounce upon him so, like a cat. No! Like a cat and a hippopotamus. We bear him to the earth. Mademoiselle trips lightly from her car, a vision, a dream, a ravishment!"

And he wuffed a kiss to the general abstract of beauty. "The charming mademoiselle is safe. The interloper is here. Voila!"

Wide Jens reached his hand into his pocket for a pipe and glanced over to where Ned sat quietly in the corner. "Well!" he said.

"Wait," replied Henri. "I shall sit here placidly. I shall smoke a cigarette—perhaps two. I shall think."

Ned Warner stirred impatiently. He gave another tug at the ropes which bound his wrist, but it was only an involuntary test. He must rest before he made another determined attempt to free himself.

He gave a sudden wrench at his bonds, struggling so fiercely to loosen them that he rose and reeled toward the door.

Hugo Jens Janssen stopped Ned from falling.

The chauffeur laughed, and, springing from his seat in the touring car, he jumped up, cracked his heels together and snapped the fingers of both hands. "I have the grand plan to dispose of our friend the interloper. We shall teach him a ride of joy!" He pointed to a car.

Jens Janssen stooped and circled one arm around Ned Warner's middle and deposited his violent load in the tonneau.

Marie in the pantry had stood wringing a corner of her dainty little lace apron. Then she dashed back into the servants' hall and folded her arms tightly upon the hollow at her waist. She dared not leave Mr. Ned where he was. She dared not do anything, and yet she must. She burst out of the rear door, was across the porch in two strides, down the steps in one jump and went swishing for the garage. As she came the touring car shot from the opposite door and went whizzing up the drive, Henri in front and in the tonneau Ned and huge Jens Janssen.

lowering his voice the slightest particle as if the remark were addressed in confidence to her, though the others were crowded eagerly round.

There was an instant of hesitation. "Then aboard the yacht!" exclaimed Tommy Thomas. She was looking at June, her deep red lips parting in a smile. June's cheeks paled. After all, light glinted on distant water, and the shadows of the trees lay in fantastic, twisted patterns on the hillside.

Dawn. The red glow of the sunrise, filtering through the mist of the morning, stole in at the open door of the Villard garage and found Marie, with her fists folded under her arms and the tip of her frosty nose in her elbow, loudly snoring.

She limped over to the house, plodded up to her room, dressed herself with numb fingers and after half an hour of dull-eyed thought scrawled this note, which she laid on June's bed:

Dear Miss June—I am feeling better, thank you. I hope you will excuse me if I take a few hours off. I will be back for lunch. Hoping you are the same, I remain, yours affectionately, MARIE.

The Hair Easily Made Beautiful and Attractive

Beautiful hair, thick, fluffy, lustrous and absolutely free from dandruff, is not so much a gift of nature as a matter of care and proper nourishment. Hair is like a plant—it will not grow healthy and beautiful unless it has attention and proper nourishment.
Parisian Sage, a daintily perfumed liquid that is easily applied at home, invigorates the hair roots and furnishes the necessary nourishment to not only save and beautify the hair, but also stimulate it to grow long, heavy, soft, fluffy and radiant with life.

When frequently used and well rubbed into the scalp Parisian Sage simply works a miracle on any head of hair whether dandruff, falling out, dull, thin, matted or stringy. Even one application stops itching head, removes every trace of dandruff and cleanses the hair of all dust and excess oil.
Since Parisian Sage, which can be obtained from H. C. Kennedy, or at any drug counter, never disappoints, it is no longer necessary for any woman to be humiliated because of thin, faded, lifeless or unattractive hair—and pretty hair, more than anything else, helps every woman to retain her charm and youthful appearance.—Advertisement.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY

People who are over-burdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.
If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.
There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.
Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps digestion and is designed to consume the excessive fatty tissue by increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. Even a few capsules should show a noticeable reduction in weight. Foot-steps become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being.
Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial, there is nothing better.—Advertisement.
