PASS THE BILL

ON another page of the Telegraph today there is published a map of the Capitol park extension zone, showing the properties acquired by the State and those yet to be bought.

The commission has done an excellent work. It has dealt with the property owners fairly. They have received prices as high as they could have expected from a private purchaser.

The commission's task has been difficult. Mistakes might have occurred even with the best of intentions. It would have been easy for the commission to have involved itself in a maze of controversy that would have aroused the antagonism of the land owners with which they were dealing.

The act authorizing the extension of the Capitol grounds requires that all the land in the zone be purchased by June 1, 1917. That makes it necessary for additional funds to be placed at the disposal of the commission at an early date.

AMERICAN SUBMARINES
THE country is mourning its first submarine disaster and there is a marked absence of criticism of the kind that usually follows accidents in the navy.

This country was the first to make use of the under-water fighting machine. A very great deal of the experimenting necessary to bring the submarine to its present high state of efficiency has been performed by American scientists and American naval officers.

SANE REGULATIONS
HOW the type of business regulation prescribed by the Pennsylvania Legislature does differ from that enacted by the Congress just recently adjourned!

It is to be noted that business made no effort to block this legislation. Indeed, its progress in the Legislature was remarkable for its smoothness. Not a ripple marked its course. Rather, it was encouraged by businessmen familiar with its contents and intent.

EVENING CHAT

People who have wondered why Harrisburg did not take some steps to perpetuate the historic localities that are about in the city will be interested to note that Philadelphia is planning to mark historic sites and buildings in Chestnut street with permanent tablets and that eventually the marking will be extended to other parts of the city.

RIDING TO A FALL

SAID Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, discussing business conditions the other day:
The reason for these adverse conditions has been partly the fault of the businessmen. We had become more or less careless in management, indifferent to the rights and interests of others, regardless of our responsibilities toward those for whom we had become trustees.

That is true. The old-time spirit of "the public be damned" is back of all the troubles that business faces to-day. Insofar as unfavorable legislation is concerned, with a firm hand on the bridle business rode hard and fast to a fall.

The liquor interests are in precisely the same position to-day. They have been and are as reckless of public interest and public sentiment as the great "captains of industry" were a few years back—and they are riding to the same hard fall.

SAFE INVESTMENTS

THE report that Emperor William and others of the Hohenzollern family recently have invested extensively in New York municipal bonds is a compliment to the stability of American bonds.

Speaking of war it has been a matter of comment that the Italian residents of the city have been predicting that their native land would enter into the conflict against Austria as soon as the weather was considered right.

DO YOU KNOW

That Harrisburg's fire loss last year was very low compared to some other Pennsylvania cities?

Knowing the Small Boy

The small boy has some very definite ideas about his own wearing apparel. Frequently he and his parents have their points of difference, but in the main the boy's ideas are sound.

COX TAKES CHARGE OF BRUMBAUGH BILL

Philadelphia Member is a Legislator of Considerable Experience in the House

RONEY ON THE WING NOW

Philadelphian Has to Attend a Murder Trial and Be a Legislator at the Same Time

Up until Saturday afternoon friends of City Commissioner Harry F. Bowman—and even the superintendent of public safety himself—had more than a sneaking suspicion that Mr. Bowman was marionette in class with a shotgun.

Representative Edwin R. Cox, the man who presented the administration child labor bill in the House, will have charge of this important piece of platform legislation in the lower branch of the Legislature.

Mr. Cox is a Philadelphian, born and bred. He was educated in the public schools of the city and soon after becoming of age was elected a member of the school board of his section of the city, serving six years as secretary.

Representative W. M. Benninger of Northampton, has one of the finest herds of bulls in the State. He inherited a farm from his father and comes of a family that has lived in that section of the State for years.

—The Philadelphia Housing bill went to the Governor to-day. It is likely that hearings will be asked.

—Representative C. J. Roney, of Philadelphia, is on the busy schedule this week. He is acting as legislator and also taking a hand in a murder trial in Philadelphia.

—Representative Samuel J. Barenett, of Delta, is one of the newspaper publishers of the House. He has long been engaged in newspaper publishing and the printing business and local opinion are his two hobbies this session.

OUR DAILY LAUGH

HIS BEST PHRASE
Tom is a great talker. Says a lot of nice things. Yes, I remember one saying of his that pleased me greatly. What was it? Good night.

IT DEPENDS
Bobbie: What's a failure, Pop?
Pop: Depends on whether it's a success or not.

WHERE CAN HE BE?
By Wing Dinger
Where is the Crown Prince? someone asks. Of him we've little heard. These past few weeks, whereas at first he surely was a bird.

Und someone says: "Why, doncha know. He laughed at Papa Bill. Und criticised him ridicule. Der Vater's fighting skill!"

Und Pop he get so doggone mad. "Here is a pretty iron cross. A nice new brush and comb. Dress up und pose for movie men. Und wait for me at home."

BOOKS and MAGAZINES
The remark attributed to Lord Kitchener, "I do not know when the war is going to end, but I know when it is going to begin, gains authority from the characterization by Harold Begbie in his recent biography, published by Houghton Mifflin Company.

Communications Broken
