LEGISLATIVE NEWS

GAME BILLS WING THEIR WAY ALONG

Important Changes to the Laws Advocated by Sportsmen Are Approved by Members

With the final passage in the Senate yesterday of House bill 515, which appropriates the hunters' license fund to the amount of some $307,000 to the Game Commission for the protection and propagation of game and the concurrence in the House amendments to the Crow bill, which will permit the citizens of counties to petition for closed seasons on game birds and squirrels, as well as deer and elk, the allied sportsmen's organizations of the state feel that most of the legislation they were especially urging is now safe. The new game code as amended was reported from the Senate game committee and every effort will be made to push it to final passage at once.

The new bounty bill, which was recalled from the Governor for the purpose of correcting printer's errors, will no doubt be promptly re-passed after the corrections are made and the House is expected to concur in the Senate amendments to the appropriation bill of the sportsmen which puts the salaries of game protectors at $300 per month and that of the secretary of the Game Commission at $4,500, the same as that paid the Fish Commissioner.

Only about five measures remain to be enacted and all of these, with the exception of the new fish code, have passed at least one branch of the Legislature.

In the Senate there remain the new game code, known as House bill 119; House bill 704, which increases the limit price that may be paid for forestry land; House bill 963, extending the season for training dogs, and House bill 885, extending the duties of all forest, game and fish wardens so that they must enforce the laws of all three departments.

In the House are the bill authorizing the appointment of thirty new game protectors, the money for paying whom has already been provided in the appropriation bill; the Walsh bill, known as the fish code; the Buckman bill, preventing foreigners from fishing; and another bill for which the Bucks county senator is also sponsor, protecting frogs, etc.

There is also Representative Lynch's bill forbidding foreigners to own dogs which will probably be reported from the House game committee at the same time as the Mills bill and one or two minor measures.

The attempt of the market hunters to save the last remnant of their trade by striking out of the game code the provision preventing the sale of squirrels and rabbits killed in the state was defeated for the second time in the Senate game committee.

The conference committee of the allied sportsmen's organizations expects to conclude its work by April 15 unless the Governor should introduce a conservation department measure.

U. S. TAKES CASH REGISTER CASE TO SUPREME COURT
Washington, D. C., April 1.—Attorney General Gregory to-day applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari in the criminal antitrust case against officers of the National Cash Register Company.

If granted, the writ would bring before the high court the action of the Federal Circuit Court of Ohio reversing conviction of the defendants and ordering a new trial.

GOLD STORAGE ACT GIVES ROADSTING

Commissioner Foustt Gets Off With Compliments, but the Law Is Sadly Handled

The cold storage law of the State was hammered yesterday afternoon for a couple of hours when the Health and sanitation committee gave a hearing on the Senate bill to repeal the law. It was a largely attended hearing and men interested in storage in a dozen cities were present.

The hearing was marked by a lively assault on the cold storage law by Charles S. Calwell, president of the Corn Exchange Bank of Philadelphia, criticism of the cold storage investment commission for not furnishing the committee with copies of its report and by a tribute to the fairness of Dairy and Food Commissioner Foustt by John P. Connelly, Philadelphia congressman. Mr. Foustt complimented the cold storage men on the assistance they had given him in enforcing the law and to the good action in which they kept their plants.

John J. McDonald, Francis R. Shattuck and Mr. Connelly argued for the repeal of the law, holding that it made regulations that fell heavily on the cold storage business in Pennsylvania and which opened the door to products from other States. Mr. Connelly said that the fair treatment by Mr. Foustt had been appreciated by the cold storage men who felt that it was fortunate that he had administered the law in a broad and equitable manner with good sense. He formally thanked with good grace. He formally thanked with good grace. He formally thanked with good grace.

Both Messrs. Connelly and Calwell called attention to the enormous investment in cold storage in the State. Mr. Calwell declared that the business was no excuse for the law which imposed burdens and drove out Pennsylvania produce. He said the markets in Philadelphia contained Chinese eggs, Danish butter, Dutch condensed milk and Argentine meat, while western products are gaining advantage over Ohio products. He said in Philadelphia children are actually going to school breakfastless and that it is a poor time to be legislating in any way that will result in destruction of food. He declared that the business of the country was not being disturbed by the war or even Washington as much as by legislation.

Mr. Foustt said that eggs were cheaper than for years and that owners of storage plants had gone out of the way to help in enforcing the act. "If the title is not right the Legislature should make it right," some of the provisions are vague, but it would be a mistake to repeal it. Repeal would be a step backward and I hope there will be no repeal.

Mr. Nusbaum, representing the Sharpless Company, argued for the repealer. He held that the present pure food laws are ample for all purposes.

National Banks May Be Trustees If Bill Passes

Legislation that would confer upon national banks the power and privilege of acting as executor, administrator, guardian and registrar of stocks and bonds and to hold and convey realty in trust was introduced in the House yesterday by Mr. Luppert, Lockington. The bill contains a preamble referring to provisions of the federal reserve act and setting forth that national banks in the State desire to exercise the privileges of making loans and that the capital shall be considered as security for faithful performance of trusts and their acts shall be subject to the order of courts. All trust funds must be kept separate.

Authority is conferred on the State Board of Public Charities to change plans for buildings, grounds, plants and other realty. Trustees, executor, administrator, guardian and registrar of stocks and bonds are required to submit them to the board under the terms of a bill introduced by Mr. Bauer.

Mr. Dell, Huntingdon, introduced a bill empowering the Department of Forestry to grant rights of way through State forests for any purpose.

Mr. Geiser, Northampton — Fixing pay of county assessors in third class cities, boroughs and second class townships at $5 per day.

Mr. Swan, Allegheny — Appropriating $2,500 to purchase Indian relics of John T. Whiston, Pittsburgh.

Mr. Stern, Philadelphia — Appropriating $25,000 to Philadelphia Osteopathic Hospital.

Mr. Whitaker, Chester — Making property or estate of any inmate of a State hospital, home or sanatorium liable for maintenance and requiring persons in charge of such estates to make semiannual reports to the Attorney General and making family of inmate liable for maintenance charges.

HOW ABOUT "POP"?
Another correspondent, the Rev. John K. Nutting, writes: "I am convinced that the custom of using 'dad' or 'daddy' as a substitute for mother or father, has not arisen from any other motive than sincere affection. 'Dad' (sometimes 'Dad' or 'Thad') is the word for 'father' in the Welsh and is used as such in the Lord's Prayer in the Welsh New Testament. Doubtless 'dad' or 'daddy' has come to us through the intermarriage of Welsh and English. So considered, it is really an affectionate enrichment of our language."—The Christian Herald.

Pure Barber Bill Killed by House

Amid much hilarity last night the House voted down bills to establish a system of State licensure for barbers and to reduce salaries of county commissioners in counties containing between 150,000 and 200,000 population. Several members rose to object to proposed reduction of salaries and Mr. Sarig, Berks, said it looked more like a personal basis than zeal for the taxpayers. The bill only got twenty votes. The barber bill went down with 123 votes against it and 23 in favor.

And thirty-five favorably reported.

The garnishee bill was returned with a negative recommendation together with the four election bills presented by the committee of seventy of Philadelphia. Among bills affirmatively reported were, repealing personal registration in third class cities, fixing salaries of officers of counties having less than 150,000 population; requiring five per cent. of a city's share of liquor license revenue to be applied to police pension funds, and requiring steel frames for mine cages. Bills passed finally included: Providing standard baskets, etc., for grapes, vegetables and fruits. Amending form of capital stock tax reports to the Auditor General. Creating board to fix salaries of county employes in Allegheny county. Requiring county assessors to make returns of agricultural statistics. Increasing salaries of deputy superintendents of public instruction. The House adjourned at 9:40 p. m. until 10 a. m. to-day.

BRENNAN IS DINED BY CORRESPONDENTS

Veteran Phila. Newspaperman Hears Various Things About Himself

George J. Brennan, legislative correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, was the guest of honor at a dinner given at the Columbus last night by the newspaper correspondents attending the Legislature. It was in honor of Mr. Brennan's retirement from the presidency which he had held for two tumultuous years. The members told him about it and discussed his legislative service of over twenty years with characteristic freedom.

ABSENTE-MINDED JACKIES

In times before Lord Fisher, admiral of the British fleet, became superintendent of the Portsmouth dockyard, the dockyard was regarded a sort of snug harbor for sailors. In fact, so little work was done there that the place became synonymous with inefficiency, aptly described in the following: "Bill, don't do no work now, he's got a job in the dockyard." On the day of his arrival as superintendent, Fisher, strolling over the place, met several jackies leisurely sauntering along. "What are you men doing?" he asked. "We're makin' way for some others who are bringin' along an oar," the spokesman answered. "Soon five or six lazy-going sailors appeared. "What are you doing?" asked Fisher. "We're carryin' an oar," was the answer. "But I see no oar!" answered the admiral. "Well, I'll be blasted," answered the spokesman, "if we hadn't forgot the oar!"—World's Work.
