DR. BALDY HITS AT STATE HOSPITALS

Says Those Not Under Commonwealth's Control Are Not Properly Conducted Now

People on Capitol Hill were stirred up to-day by declarations that hospital organization in this State is a disgrace to the country, and the staff physicians alone are to blame, by Dr. J. M. Baldy, president of the State Board of Medical Examiners of Pennsylvania, in his address at the joint meeting of the New York Obstetrical Society and the Philadelphia Obstetrical Society last night in Philadelphia.

"No hospital in Pennsylvania ought to exist without a pathological and clinical department," said Dr. Baldy, "and yet there were not twenty institutions in the State last year that had both of these departments. There were not ten in the State that passed internship, and even such great institutions as the German Hospital, University Hospital, Episcopal Hospital and Presbyterian Hospital did not measure up to the proper qualifications."

"It is an outrage to the people of this Commonwealth," continued Dr. Baldy, "for our hospitals have been run as private institutions, and not as the public deserves. The public funds are being misapplied when the people don't know what they are being used for. They ought to know what is an efficient hospital and what is not an efficient hospital."

"Staff physicians should resolve themselves into an educational institution and instruct the young student physicians in the proper manner. Men are not competent and able to treat a patient properly when they have been turned out after only a few lectures. You have to instruct them how properly to administer treatment and especially anaesthetics. It is absurd to think that a student learns anaesthesia in three months."

"The laity should know these things and it is the duty of the physician to instruct in the proper way. The physician has the inside ear to these conditions, but in the past he has not instructed the public as he should. Hospitals are inadequate in this State, and to-day the hospitals of the country, taken as a whole, have not the equipment that they ought to have. Every one should have a pathological and a clinical department. They pay their cooks and engineers, but the things that save the life of the patient they won't pay for."

Dr. Baldy pointed out that there are 218 hospitals in Pennsylvania and that last year the appropriation of only one hundred were approved. He prophesied that of this number twenty-five will drop this year, for Governor Brumbaugh has insisted on the conditions of various hospitals in the State and the requirements for internship.

Warfield in "The Auctioneer"

Will present a revival of his first great success.

One of the most important bookings of the season at the Majestic is that of David Warfield whom David Belasco will present there on Thursday evening, April 15, in a revival of his first great success, "The Auctioneer." A new generation has come into the theater since this play's last performance eleven years ago, to whom Mr. Warfield's creation of Simon Levi will appear in the light of a novelty. But the older generation remembers with affection, the reincarnation of the old Hester street secondhand dealer and auctioneer, who grew ambitious, branched out into the luxurious surroundings of a Lexington avenue home and then returned sadder and wiser to the locality where he had first made his fortune. Mr. Warfield has not appeared in this comedy since he played "The Music Master" five years ago. The supporting cast numbers fifty and is said to include all of the living members who were in the original production with Mr. Warfield thirteen years ago. Mail orders accompanied by remittance and self-addressed stamped envelope will be received now.—Advertisement.

Will present a revival of his first great success.

MOTHER OF DR. BECHT DIES WHILE HE IS IN SOUTH

News has been received in Harrisburg of the death on Wednesday night of Mrs. Catherine K. Becht, mother of Dr. J. George Becht, secretary of the State Board of Education, at the home of a daughter in Montoursville, Lycoming county. Mrs. Becht was 78 years old and is survived by four sons and a daughter. Dr. Becht was traveling in the South and first heard of his mother's serious illness at Finchurst, N. C. While he was hurrying homeward another message told him of her death.

VETO AX SWINGS ON TWO MORE BILLS

Governor Ends Career of Bill Regulating Admission of Attorneys to High Court

Governor Brumbaugh has vetoed the Senate bill which would have required the appellate courts to admit attorneys who are members of the bar of lower courts. "The admission of an attorney to practice before a court is a judicial act," says the Governor. "The intent of this act is to compel the appellate courts to accept the judicial act of a lower court. This is clearly in contravention of our whole judicial procedure and is unconstitutional." The Governor also vetoed the House bill providing a secretary for the district attorney of Allegheny county, holding that he did not think the additional expense entailed was justified.

Twelve bills were approved by the Governor, as follows:

House Bills

Authorizing Harrisburg, York and other third class cities to extend water mains beyond city limits and to supply water in territory where there is no water company operating.

Transferring $6,000 from cold storage inspection fund of the Dairy and Food Commissioner to the chemist's fund.

Refunding $21.50 to S. L. Stayman, York, for money erroneously paid the state for a license.

Repealing act of April 23, 1909, requiring road supervisors to erect and maintain foot bridges.

Transferring $500 of funds of quarantine physician at Philadelphia.

Requiring certificates of address of judgment creditor to be filed with probatories and requiring such officers to give to county commissioners monthly lists of all judgments entered with addresses of creditors.

Senate Bills

Increasing fees of district attorney of Allegheny county.

Authorizing second class cities to appropriate money to historical societies.

Authorizing Allegheny county commissioners to make appropriations to historical societies.

Empowering second class cities to construct and lease street car tracks and equipment.

Validating municipal liens for street improvements in boroughs.

Amending acts governing appointment and salaries of clerks or registers of wills in counties having over 150,000 population where there are separate orphans' courts.

Athletics Are Defeated; Phillies Showing Form

Special to The Telegraph
Columbia, S. C., April 2.—Columbia took the Athletics down a peg yesterday when they administered a 7 to 5 defeat. Alvarez, a Cuban twirler for Columbia, kept the hits well scattered. Bush and Davis occupied the mound for the visitors. The Athletics met the Richmond team this afternoon and will remain in the Virginia town for a game to-morrow.

At Norfolk the Phillies smothered the nine in a slaughter match. Fifteen runs were scored on the Phillies' side of the sheet when the umpire called off hostilities. Eight bases on balls in the sixth made the game a march instead of sport. The Moran bunch is now camping at Washington.

Other big league scores for yesterday afternoon follow: Detroit 7, Memphis 0; Cincinnati 7, Chattanooga 2; Chicago Nationals 7, New York Americans 0; Boston Nationals 6, Cleveland 0.
