West Virginia Governor Is Serving Without Pay

By Associated Press
Charleston, W. Va., April 2.—It developed to-day that one of the State officials who is not drawing his salary, because of the failure of the late legislature to appropriate funds for the running expenses of West Virginia, is Governor Henry D. Hatfield. John S. Darst, State auditor, has asked A. A. Lilly, attorney general, for an opinion as to whether he can borrow money until such time as the legislature can be called together to make the necessary appropriations and the attorney general has come back with a request for a statement of the moneys expended by Darst and for what purposes during the past several years. Meanwhile the unusual condition is being felt in all parts of the State. Country schools are being closed, high schools placed on part time, and companies of the National Guard are being mustered out. The effort to have the legislature meet without expense to the State and pass appropriation bills seems to have failed, and there is no relief in sight.

NO DELAY IN THIS LAW

By Associated Press
Saginaw, Mich., April 2.—The much discussed law's delay had little to do with the case of Robert Smith, of Cleveland, who was sentenced to life imprisonment to-day for the murder late yesterday of Mrs. Grace Steinhilber, of this city, to whom he was to have been married last night.

Were These Names Written by the Same Hand?

O Osborne
Mrs. O. Osborne
New York

No. 2895 Hotel Kensington EUROPEAN PLAN Plainfield, New Jersey

Name O. Osborne
Address Mrs. O. Osborne, N. Y. City

SIGNATURE OF "O. OSBORNE" AT PLAINFIELD, N. J.
A man, either the mysterious Oliver Osborne or James W. Osborne, the noted lawyer of New York city, took Miss Rae Tanzer to the Kensington Hotel of Plainfield, N. J., or maybe some one else did so. The names "Mr. Osborne" and "Mrs. Osborne" were signed on the register. J. W. Osborne says he didn't sign them. He was asked during the preliminary hearing of Miss Tanzer on the charge of fraudulently using the mails to write the name "O. Osborne." He readily complied, and some persons thought the handwriting in the two instances was very much alike. Nevertheless, the lawyer was as firm in his denial that he had ever seen Miss Tanzer.

COMMANDER OF THE SUNKEN F-4

LIEUTENANT ALFRED L. EDE

Lieutenant Alfred L. Ede was the commander of the United States submarine F-4, which sank to the bottom of Honolulu harbor and was found forty-eight hours later in 300 feet of water. His home was in Reno, Nev. Speaking of the danger of submarines, in connection with the sinking of this vessel, Thomas A. Edison, who has made a study of them, had this to say: "If any of the men on the submarine F-4 lost their lives their death was undoubtedly due to chlorine gas generated as a result of the lead storage batteries being flooded by sea water." Early in October last he had visited the Brooklyn navy yard and there had inspected the submarine G-4. It was the first time he had been on such a craft, and after his visit he said: "The danger to the life and health of those who go down on submarines will not be lessened until the possibilities of the generation of chlorine fumes is removed." "The trouble in the case of the submarine is that the lead storage batteries are carried in a compartment surrounded by the main ballast tanks. When sea water is admitted to these tanks the boat sinks. This, in conjunction with other means, enables the boat to submerge. It is evident when the water is admitted to this tank it is under pressure." "The containing jars of lead cells are made of fragile hard rubber, easily broken. Sulphuric acid leaks from these jars and attacks the steel wall of the main ballast tank, with the resultant corrosion. When the sea water is admitted to the main ballast tank when submerging, the weakened wall gives way and the sea water floods the battery tank. When sea water mixes with sulphuric acid in a lead battery hydrochloric acid is formed. This attacks the lead plates and produces chlorine gas. Also when a lead battery is submerged in sea water, electricity passes from the cells through the sea water and liberates chlorine gas in volume."

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

When constipated or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs"

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

Girl, Who First Wed Hermit, Now Is Bride of a Cowboy

MRS. BEATRICE FARNHAM BENSON

New York, April 2.—Friends of Mrs. Beatrice Farnham Otto, have learned that she is married again, to Dallas Benson, a Kansan cowboy, after being divorced a year. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Briggs Farnham, of South Weymouth, Mass., and is an artist and sculptor of note. She was married to John Otto, hermit prospector, on top of Temple Rock 5,000 feet above the surrounding mesa in National Monument Park, Colorado, in 1911. They separated for five years, agreeing either one could obtain a divorce at the expiration of that period. Mrs. Otto's horsemanship first attracted the attention of Benson, when she performed the feat of "chasing the bride."

Fishing Rod Worth More Than Average Automobile

Whether you can catch more fish with a rod worth $2,500 than with a twenty-five cent pole is a question for local Isaac Waltons to determine, but when it comes to a fine specimen of artistic workmanship the fishing rod being shown in Bogar's window takes the bun and has captured the highest awards at international exhibitions. The rod is made of sixteen strips of bamboo and has hand-carved, gold-mounted handle, ferules, guide rings and reel, with topaz plugs and cornelian handle on reel. The rod has been exhibited at the Centennial exposition in 1876, the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, the Paris exposition in 1900, at Buffalo in 1901, Charleston in 1902 and received the highest award at St. Louis in 1904. Another Bristol rod is on display purchased for H. C. Dodge. This rod sells at $65, but is for utility purposes and not simply a work of art. It is a combination fly and bait rod with reel built in handle, with all agate guides and one extra handle. These rods are attracting a great deal of attention from local judges of fishing tackle.
