

Some Walk-Over Spring Styles

THIS season's dominating style feature is one of multiplicity, variety—a game of style-chess with thousands of combinations made possible. It is a season which gives full rein to the Walk-Over organization, where originality and artistic design count so much in the creation of patterns and models.

The discriminating woman in search of newness of design, will find four styles here to one shown in any other shop.

Walk-Over shoes are world-famous for comfort, style and long service.

MANY GOOD WISHES FOR OLD MERCHANT

Charles S. Segelbaum Is Celebrating His Seventy-eighth Birthday Today

CHARLES S. SEGELBAUM

Another old Harrisburger who is receiving congratulations and good wishes to-day from many friends is Charles S. Segelbaum, who is celebrating his 78th birthday. There will be a family dinner in his honor this evening at the home of his son, Horace A. Segelbaum, Front and Seneca streets, and relatives and friends will call on the oldest living businessman who kept store in Market street.

Born in Germany, April 2, 1837, Charles A. Segelbaum started a mercantile business in this city in 1854. He was the first to occupy one of the storerooms in what was called "Washington Row" now the Commonwealth Hotel. Young, energetic and a live businessman, he prospered abundantly. Mr. Segelbaum afterward built the first large business house in Market street, at the corner of Court street, and retired from active business about 1889.

In 1860 he married Miss Clara Patterson, daughter of Dr. Andrew Patterson and went to housekeeping at 120 South Second street where he has lived ever since. Mrs. Segelbaum died several years ago, but five of their children are living, all married.
