

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of this, just get about four ounces of this, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

THOUSANDS WILD WHEN GOV. SOUNDS TRUMPET

The demonstration shattered it. The morning meeting had gone down in history as unique; the evening session went it one better and became memorable in the State's annals. Only three others besides Governor Brumbaugh spoke. W. U. Follansbee, secretary-treasurer of the Follansbee Tin Plate Company, Pittsburgh, the Rev. Dr. John R. Davis, Philadelphia, and United States Senator George T. Oliver. And it can be safely said that the Pittsburgh statesman divided honors with the governor in the speech he made on the issue before the people.

The "Amen" of Hundreds While the great crowd cheered and sang throughout the evening, in the effort to let loose some enthusiasm, the fervor of the hundreds was evidenced in another way. When, during the prayer of the Rev. Dr. John R. Davis, the Rev. Dr. John R. Davis, Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, the minister made any special reference to Governor Brumbaugh's splendid fight, "Amen," sounded here and there throughout the great hall.

At yesterday morning's session the mass meeting in the auditorium had adopted resolutions expressing the views of the thousands of citizens who have been so decidedly on the local option problem. These had been presented by ex-Speaker George E. Alter and last evening Senator Oliver referred to these resolutions and suggested that the evening gathering also adopt them. And when ex-Speaker Alter finished reading he got his second ovation of the day.

From Beyond the Borders How carefully the fight in Pennsylvania for local option is being watched by interested ones beyond its borders was demonstrated last evening when a couple of telegrams were read. They were addressed to Governor Brumbaugh. One from the Columbiana county (Ohio) "dry" committee follows:

The Columbiana County Dry League in convention assembled, sends congratulations on your courageous fight for local option and earnestly pray for your success.

From the Rev. Robert S. Peterman, Fulton county, was this wire: Fulton county has long and temperance rallies unanimously endorse local option.

Congressman A Mitchell Palmer and W. G. Landes, general secretary of the Pennsylvania State Temperance Association, were both scheduled to talk at Chestnut Street Auditorium last evening, but neither was able to attend.

Philadelphians Had to Make Train Because the Philadelphia contingent was anxious to return on an early evening train, the meeting in the auditorium were limited to little more than an hour. Half the number present were Philadelphians and the committee of arrangements had regulated the program to accommodate the visitors as consistently as possible.

Announcement was made, too, of the organization of the local option executive committee which will continue the fight for "dry" legislation. J. Denny O'Neil, county commissioner of Allegheny, is chairman; Dr. Isaac Sharpless, president of Haverford college, Haverford, is vice chairman; W. Vickerman, Bellevue, Pa. member of the House, is treasurer, and Roman C. Hassrick, Philadelphia, is secretary.

Brumbaugh at Grace Church Although Governor Brumbaugh was fixed for beginning the program the exercises could readily have been started shortly after 7 so far as the attendance was concerned. By 7.30 hundreds were being turned away to the overflow meeting in Grace Methodist Church. They were disappointed because they wanted to hear Governor Brumbaugh. However, they got the chance after all at Grace.

The governor made a brief visit to the church after leaving the auditorium and for a few minutes—as soon as he could find a moment to spare—the cheers—he talked along much the same lines, driving home just the same truths, as he had earlier in the evening at Chestnut street.

At a point where he proved how enthusiastic it can be when it is interested and the huge gathering last evening was ready testimony to that. For half an hour before the session began the groups here and there sang Billy Sunday songs and now and then, just to show that they didn't care how hoarse they were, whole delegations cheered. Mr. Follansbee, chairman of the big gathering for awhile with accounts of how the State-wide local option problem is working out in West Virginia.

Trying to Get a Seat All the while the people were trying their best to get into the hall. Not that they were eager for a seat, since it couldn't be had; all they wanted was just a chance to get in and stand if necessary. How many hundreds crowded the hall is only problematical. For the sake of comparison—and any one who sat through the morning will appreciate this—it can be said that the evening attendance was some hundreds greater than the session earlier in the day.

While the whole audience was a

AFTER GRIPPE

Mrs. Findley Made Strong by Vinol

Severs, Kans.—"The Grippe left me in a weak, nervous, run-down condition. I was too weak to do my housework and could not sleep. After trying different medicines without benefit Vinol restored my health, strength and appetite. Vinol is a grand medicine and every weak, nervous, run-down woman should take it."—Mrs. Geo. Findley.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, sharpens the appetite, aids digestion, enriches the blood and builds up the system. It is a grand medicine and every weak, nervous, run-down woman should take it."—Mrs. Geo. Findley.

Points on Local Option By Brumbaugh and Oliver

GOVERNOR MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH:

Let this issue out of party concern and let it be with the people. They can and will settle it better than we.

What right have the delegated representatives of the people to deny the people a right that is as fundamental as that by which they choose their delegates?

This question is not a partisan one. For myself I repudiate any attempt to unload the rum or any other interest upon the people.

No judge should be obliged to deal with this issue. His election and his official life should be as far removed from the license question as our love for a pure judiciary can secure.

Every attorney in Pennsylvania as an officer of the court ought to be in the front of this contest to protect the judiciary of our county courts from the incursions of this nonjudicial service.

If we love the great Commonwealth as we should, if her history is our conscious pride and her future our definite concern, I am confident we should be free enough, brave enough, fair enough, just enough, to enact this law and give the people an opportunity to act for themselves on this matter.

No man here, I say, he did not know where I stood on the county local option question when he voted in November.

When I was elected to office I did not surrender my rights as a citizen, and it is as much my business to see that the proper laws are enacted as it is to see that good laws are enforced.

A pre-election promise is a post-election obligation. This is not a partisan question. Let there be no mistake.

In Memory of T. R. and Mr. Flynn "Go home," said the Senator, "and think it over carefully and then look carefully to your primaries." And that applies to whether you are Democrat or Republican!

"How about the 'progressives'?" sang out a voice from way back in the hall. "Well," replied the chairman with twinkling eyes, "if you're a Bill Mooser, you'd better wait for a tip from Oyster Bay or Highland avenue, Pittsburgh!"

They laugh that went up further started the amazed swallows who were trying their best to get a little sleep in the caves of the market-house.

"The Star-spangled Banner" Just a few minutes after 8 o'clock Governor Brumbaugh, entering the hall via the newspapermen's entrance, walked up the stairs. Before he reached the platform the whole auditorium was a wildly cheering, singing flag-waving mass of enthusiastic folks who felt that they just had to sing the "Star-spangled Banner."

And to the massive tune of hundreds of throats Governor Brumbaugh stepped to the front of the stage. And when the cheers for Oliver died down a trifle he turned to present Governor Brumbaugh. The cheering lasted nearly a minute.

Pennsylvania's chief executive stood only close to the edge of the platform and doubled his eyes from time to time as he quietly but none the less forcibly drove home point after point. He said:

Governor Brumbaugh's Great Speech. Governor Brumbaugh said: "I am a firm believer in the right of the people to rule. This is fundamental in the creed of every true American. When this right is denied the people, government becomes oppression. It can even become tyranny. Your State Constitution, and the fundamental principle of our compact entered into with the people into statutory law and to fix the bounds beyond which the fixed will of the people is not to be changed. Through legislative amendment and addition the will of the people is constantly expressed in new forms and upon new themes. It is a matter of right that the people should be able to determine by what reason are they given any right? They rule in this country and giving them their own is giving what we cannot justly deny."

Politics Shouldn't Enter "This question is not a partisan one. It ought never to have become a political issue. It is bound to work harm and not good to any political party espousing it. The selection and election of public servants ought never to hinge upon this traffic. The day has come when no party can stand for it and survive. From across the sea, from the Dominion to the north, from the penitentiaries, and from the hearts of the loyal people of this great State one can readily hear the cumulative demand, let this issue out of party concern, let it be with the people. They can and they will settle it better than we can."

Local Option and the Bench "The granting of licenses has in many counties worked harm to the judiciary. Men are chosen judges not on the basis of their fitness to be the great bulwarks of justice, but upon the question whether or not they will grant licenses. No judge should be obliged to deal with this issue. His election and his official life should be as far removed from the license question as our love for a pure judiciary can secure. Every attorney in Pennsylvania is an officer of the court, he ought to be in the front of this contest to protect the judiciary of our county courts from the incursions of this nonjudicial service.

UNITED STATES SENATOR GEORGE T. OLIVER:

There are just three ways of handling the liquor traffic—regulation, restriction and prohibition. Up to this time Pennsylvania has confined itself to regulation.

More drastic measures must be adopted or state-wide prohibition will be the end. Pennsylvanians are conservative and they like to look before they leap, and if the leap seems dangerous they are apt to look around for a bridge. The license question they are bound to get across in some way—and get across they will.

New legislation is necessary to restrain the liquor traffic and the longer action is delayed the more insistent the people will become—and the less easily satisfied. I am a firm believer in the right of the people to rule. It is the duty of the minority to submit.

I have full confidence that the demonstration now being made all over the state in behalf of local option will induce our legislators to act favorably upon it at this session.

If this measure should fail to pass, what course should you pursue? Let me advise you. Look well to the next year's primaries and see that none but local option men are nominated. It doesn't matter to what party you belong. If you are a Democrat, take the course that the Republican candidate is friendly to the measure. If you are a Democrat, take the same course. Get busy early.

question of state-wide prohibition was submitted to the decision of the voters of this state. At that time the proposition was defeated by an overwhelming majority; but, notwithstanding this fact, twenty-eight out of sixty-seven counties gave a majority in its favor. Since that time public sentiment has traveled fast, and if twenty-eight counties voted in favor of prohibition in 1889, it goes without saying that many more would vote that way to-day. These counties have a right to rule their own affairs, and they also have a right to demand that the Legislature allow them to do so.

"I have full confidence that the demonstration now being made all over the state in behalf of this measure will induce our legislators to act favorably upon it at this session. But suppose they do not, and that the bill fails of enactment, the question will be asked, 'What course should the friends of prohibition take?' Let me advise you. Look well to the primaries next Spring, and see that none but local option men are nominated for senator or legislator in your district. It doesn't matter to what party you belong. If you are a Republican, take care that the Republican candidate is friendly to this measure. If you are a Democrat, take the course that the Republican candidate is friendly to the measure. If you are a Democrat, take the same course. Get busy early. It will do more like you good to take an active interest in political matters. Don't wait for the general election, for next year will be a presidential year, and a vast majority of the voters will support their party ticket, so that your work is cut out for you at the primaries. If you follow this course, vigor and determination there can be but one end to the contest."

And when the cheers for Oliver died down a trifle he turned to present Governor Brumbaugh. The cheering lasted nearly a minute. Pennsylvania's chief executive stood only close to the edge of the platform and doubled his eyes from time to time as he quietly but none the less forcibly drove home point after point. He said:

Governor Brumbaugh's Great Speech. Governor Brumbaugh said: "I am a firm believer in the right of the people to rule. This is fundamental in the creed of every true American. When this right is denied the people, government becomes oppression. It can even become tyranny. Your State Constitution, and the fundamental principle of our compact entered into with the people into statutory law and to fix the bounds beyond which the fixed will of the people is not to be changed. Through legislative amendment and addition the will of the people is constantly expressed in new forms and upon new themes. It is a matter of right that the people should be able to determine by what reason are they given any right? They rule in this country and giving them their own is giving what we cannot justly deny."

Politics Shouldn't Enter "This question is not a partisan one. It ought never to have become a political issue. It is bound to work harm and not good to any political party espousing it. The selection and election of public servants ought never to hinge upon this traffic. The day has come when no party can stand for it and survive. From across the sea, from the Dominion to the north, from the penitentiaries, and from the hearts of the loyal people of this great State one can readily hear the cumulative demand, let this issue out of party concern, let it be with the people. They can and they will settle it better than we can."

Local Option and the Bench "The granting of licenses has in many counties worked harm to the judiciary. Men are chosen judges not on the basis of their fitness to be the great bulwarks of justice, but upon the question whether or not they will grant licenses. No judge should be obliged to deal with this issue. His election and his official life should be as far removed from the license question as our love for a pure judiciary can secure. Every attorney in Pennsylvania is an officer of the court, he ought to be in the front of this contest to protect the judiciary of our county courts from the incursions of this nonjudicial service.

If we love this great Commonwealth as we should, if her history is our conscious pride and her future our definite concern, I am confident we should be free enough, brave enough, fair enough, just enough, to enact this law and give the people an opportunity to act for themselves on this matter. They can settle it and settle it right."

The Governor last night received the following letter from Mayor Blankenbush: "My dear Governor: When local option was submitted to the vote of the Freemen of Pennsylvania in 1837, some friends of mine, prominent in affairs, bitterly opposed the proposition to limit the sphere of liquor through popular decision at the polls. Discussing the question, I asked one of the opponents, 'How would you like to have a saloon next door to you, or

Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart

500 Suits in Scores of Styles Sizes for Women and Misses

The new shades of sand and putty and the new Belgian blues are decidedly captivating in the Prince Chap and Tuxedo models. There are more styles at $17.50 to $25.00 than we have ever shown, in any one season. Better models in Belgian blue, sand, navy and black are shown at $17.50. Plum tailored poplin suits in better Prince Chap styles, in all the best shades for Spring, $22.50 and $25.00. Twenty-five styles are shown at $25.00 to $45.00.

Are Your Window Shades in Good Condition?

Nothing makes a home look more run down than soiled, torn or worn out window shades; and there isn't anything about the house that requires so little attention once you get the habit of buying good window shades. We have expert window shade men whose work lies solely in giving our patrons good shade service. Only the finest of oil-and cambric shade cloth is used in the work these men do, and no roller is used unless it is a Hartshorn, Hainland or improved ball bearing type. Phone if you want an estimate on window improvements.

Gloves for Drivers of Automobiles and Motor Cycles

Gauntlet and short gloves are now in demand for use in motorcycling and automobiling. The gauntlets are in full roll, roll and stiff cuff styles and the short gloves are made with grip cord palms and fingers. Prices range from $1.00 to $3.95. Driving and golf gloves with mocha palms and hisle backs, in tan and grey $1.00.

Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart

Colored and Black Dress Goods Remnants in a Special One Day Sale To-morrow

Over two hundred remnants, in lengths suitable for making skirts and dresses, go into the special Thursday sale at prices representing uncommon savings. Items that will appeal to every visitor to the dress goods section to-morrow include:

Table with 2 columns: Regular Price, Thursday's Price. Lists items like 5 yards silk and wool poplin, 4 yards shepherd checks, etc.

BLACK DRESS GOODS IN THE SALE

Table with 2 columns: Regular Price, Thursday's Price. Lists items like 2 1/2 yards serge, 2 1/2 yards granite cloth, etc.

White costume linen, 36 inches wide, soft finish; yd., 39c, 50c to 65c. "Old Bread" linen, 36 inches wide, sun bleached; yard $1.00. Round thread dress and embroidery linen, 36 inches wide; yard 50c and 65c. Round thread linen, pure white bleach, 46 inches, good weight for skirts; yard 65c, 75c to 85c. Oyster white dress linen, Ramie weave, 36 inches wide; yard 39c and 50c. Fine white Ramie dress linen; yard 50c and 55c. Striped white linen, cord run lengthwise; yard 85c. Non-crushable white linen, 45 inches wide; yard 85c. White dress linen, 90 inches wide, cuts to good advantage for circular skirts; yard 90c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50.

Spring Hats With Ostrich Trimming, $4.95 and $5.95

Millinery designers could not forego the beautiful touch of ostrich, and now some of the latest arrivals show ostrich trimming. The shapes are in sailors and shepherdess effects with ostrich in sand, red, white and blue $4.95 and $5.95.

LIFE INSURANCE MEN HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

"Ethics of the Profession" Discussed by Winslow Russell, of Hartford. The Central Pennsylvania Association of Life Underwriters held their annual banquet Monday night at the Engineers' Club. Covers were laid for thirty men, including the guests of honor and principal speakers, Winslow Russell, superintendent of agents of the Phoenix Mutual of Hartford, and G. M. Darby, general agent for the Phoenix, with offices in Philadelphia.

FOLKS WENT DINNERLESS TO ATTEND LOCAL OPTION MEETING

Many folks who even missed their dinners in order to get into the overflow meeting at Grace Methodist Church last evening couldn't squeeze in at that and hundreds had to be turned away. Five-minute addresses were made by some well-known speakers from all over the State. There were cheers and applause for David E. Swab, Philadelphia, who declared "every liquor dealer will do well to duck his head at once and let this bill go through."

DEATH OF MISS ALICE STONE

Special to The Telegraph. Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 7.—After a lingering illness, Miss Alice Stone died yesterday afternoon at her home in South York street. She was aged 36 and was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stone, survive, with one sister, Mrs. Minnie Hopple, of Colorado Springs, Colo. Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Dr. H. N. Regley, her pastor, assisted by the Rev. S. S. Gurnes, of the Trindle Springs Lutheran Church.

OLD BOATMAN BURIED

Special to The Telegraph. Marietta, Pa., April 7.—The funeral of Michael Kearney, Sr., an old river and canal boatman, was held from the Episcopal Church yesterday. The pallbearers were his four grandsons, James Kearney, Columbia; Michael Dwyer, Thomas Dwyer and Joseph Carroll, Sr., Marietta, and two sons-in-law, Joseph Carroll, Sr., and George Miller.

THE LIMIT

"To what school does that painting belong?" "Boarding school, my dear sir." Philadelphia Public Ledger

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS MEETING

Lemoyne, Pa., April 7.—A meeting of the Junior class of the Lemoyne high school will be held at the home of Miss Ruth Deckman in Hummel avenue to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

NO ACTION ON PAVING

Lemoyne, Pa., April 7.—No action was taken on the proposition of paving Rossmore street at the meeting of the Lemoyne borough council last night. Members of the council stated that the topic was premature propositions and that no citizen of the town appeared in their behalf.

Terrifying When Child Wakens With Croup

When your child suddenly wakes with a terrifying cough, a gasping, choking struggle to get its breath, give Cough Syrup at once. The herbal extracts cut and raise the phlegm; clear the throat; soothe the inflamed membrane; and make breathing easy. Hundreds of mothers have stopped croup in 15 minutes with this reliable remedy. Use Goff's Cough Syrup at once. It may save your child's life. Consult your doctor. Guaranteed by Goff's and Druggists, 25 and 50c. Get it today.

The Reading New York AND RETURN Sunday, April 18. SPECIAL EXCURSION TRAIN FROM HARRISBURG to L.V.A.M. Rates: Harrisburg 3.55, Hummelstown 3.50, Swatara 3.55, Hershey 3.50, Palmyra 4.04, Anville 4.13, Lebanon 4.24. RETURNING - Leave New York foot Liberty Street 7.00 p.m., same foot Liberty Street 7.00 p.m., same day for above stations. Try Telegraph Want Ads

CASTORIA For Infants and Children In Use For Over 30 Years Always bears the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co. Try Telegraph Want Ads