SPRING INSPECTION MADE OF CITY WORK

James H. Fuertes Goes Over All Improvements With Engineer and Board of Public Works

VISIT RIVER FRONT WALL

Market St. Gap Considered; Paxton Creek Job Looked Over; Concrete Mixer in Service

Spring inspection of the various big public improvement jobs upon which the Board of Public Works is about ready to resume work was made this afternoon by members of the board...

Mr. Fuertes, board and City Commissioner W. H. Lynch, superintendent of streets and public improvements, held a brief session this morning and this afternoon the tour of the River Front wall, the dam and Paxton creek was made.

Among the points to which special attention was paid was the gap in the wall at Market street, which it is proposed to close in order to eliminate the coal wharf. The plans were shown Mr. Fuertes and he looked over the ground this afternoon. The expert expressed his approval of council's action in granting the electric light company permission to move its landing facilities at Market street to the island.

Stucker Brothers Construction Company put its big concrete mixer into service on the wall at Rely street this afternoon. Lines of narrow gauge track will be put down north to McClay and south to Calder street and the concrete for the wall will be moved in both directions from Rely street. In the near future, a second gang will put on the wall at Walnut street to work northward.

City Commissioner M. Harvey Taylor, superintendent of parks and public improvements, has started the fine grading and trimming up of the slopes of the River Front between Paxton and Dock streets.
