

Mrs. Roosevelt Ill, Removed to Hospital

New York, April 23.—Ex-President Roosevelt, acting under instructions of his physicians, had Mrs. Roosevelt removed from their home at Oyster Bay to Roosevelt Hospital. The nature of her illness has been withheld. It is known that the Colonel's wife is very ill.

Kronprinz Wilhelm Out of Drydock Again

Newport News, Va., April 23.—The German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, to-day removed from dry dock and anchored in the stream, donned a veil of mystery. Until Commander Thierfelder attempts a dash past the allies' cruisers waiting off the capes or notifies the United States government that he desires to intern his vessel it is evident that developments will be guarded with secrecy.

IN CASE OF ACCIDENT IN THE WOODS

Cuts, sprains and bruises are the things in the accident line which happen most frequently. The wise thing to do with any cut, no matter how small, is to wash it first and then, as soon as possible, apply a good antiseptic freely to it.

The best antiseptic for the purpose is tincture of iodine half the U. S. P. strength. The only trouble with this tincture of iodine is that it is liable to leak, or the bottle may become broken, which means an awful mess of everything else that is near or near it. This can, however, be avoided by using a capsule form which is on the market.

Another antiseptic, and one which can be carried in tablet form, is bichloride of mercury. This is such a dangerous poison that there are restrictions on the sale of it, but a fellow can take care of himself and a fellow in the woods should be able to manage a bottle of poison without any trouble.

The general strength for antiseptic purposes is 1.8 grs. in each tablet, and a suitable solution is one of these dissolved in one pint of water.—May Outing.

MAKING THE BEST OF IT

"There is no fixed rule for being 'chic,'" says Phoebe Foster, of the New York "Under Cover" company, "and that is to feature your worst point. It takes a great deal of resolution, and it has to be done with a good deal of swagger, but if it's honestly done, it will create that air of subtle distinction for which we've had to borrow the French word."

"Do you remember that when the Duchess of Marlborough was a little girl her family even considered an operation to bring down her high arched eyebrows. 'But,' said the little Consuelo, 'I won't have them brought down—I like them up.' So she not only declined the operation—she lifted her hair very high off her forehead, and called every possible attention to her eyebrows. Within a year after she became Duchess of Marlborough the women in England were penciling their eyebrows up to the very roots of their hair."

Any good type of .22 sporting rifle will do for practice snaphooting. The sight should be the same as are used in hunting, coarse and easy to line up. Some of the experts use plain open rear sights; others prefer tang peep sights. An open sight should always have a wide notch, and a tang sight should be used with the largest aperture. The professionals often rear out the aperture to 1/2-inch or more in diameter.
