LEGISLATIVE NEWS

THE REGULATOR IS PROMISED

Fees Reduced and Powers of Censors Are Restricted Under the Redrafted Measure

Amendments made to the Daix Senate bill designed to provide a new system of regulation of moving picture films are understood to be satisfactory to both exhibitors and state officials and the bill as changed by the Senate Judiciary special committee will be on third reading in the Senate tonight. This bill will take the place of the Stern bill, which is a special order for the House this evening, and is taken to indicate at the Capitol that the "movie" men have given up any hope of repealing the censorship. Governor Brumbaugh recently said that he felt the censorship should be retained and Attorney General Brown shares the same view.

The amended Daix bill cuts the fee for examination from $2.50 to a dollar for each film or duplicate. The Stern bill makes the fee 50 cents. Another amendment gives the censors' board right to prevent display of films not officially approved. The board is required to make only rules that are "reasonable" and the right of appeal to court from a decision of the censors is provided. Powers over advertising are limited to "billboards, posters and other like advertising."

The fine for violation is reduced from $25 to $50, the original penalty being from $50 to $100. The failure to display the certificate of approval is punishable by a fine of from $5 to $10 on summary conviction.

The bill provides for a board of three censors, and the amendments reduce the salary of the vice-chairman from $2,500 to $2,000 and of the secretary from $2,400 to $2,000.

PLEASURE SEEKERS PAY DEATH'S TOLL

when a coil he was driving shied at another team.

Among the rather seriously injured are John Underdue, 415 Highland street, Steelton, in the Harrisburg Hospital with serious lacerations and body bruises, and A. H. Nuss, 1715 State street, this city, lacerations about the face and hands.

The Fath child was struck yesterday afternoon by a machine driven by Howard Landis, of Yoe, York county, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Taylor, of Yoe, owners of the car, two other women, a man and a child. Witnesses tell different stories of the accident. Some say that Landis was driving fast; others say he was running carefully. A workman returning from the steel plant carried the lad to the office of Dr. W. P. Dalley, where he died a few minutes later. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Fath, 594 South Third street.

Detective Irvin Durnbaugh, of Steelton, placed Landis under arrest on charges of manslaughter. He gave bail before Mayor Royal for his appearance at a hearing before Squire Gardner Thursday evening. Coroner Eckinger will conduct an inquest in Squire Gardner's office Thursday afternoon.

Epler was killed when his horse shied at another team as he was driving along the Falmouth pike near Chestnut Hill late Saturday. A boy, driving with Epler, was also hurt, but not seriously. Epler was a school director for fifteen years and was one of the supervisors of Conewago township. He is survived by his son, Simon Epler, a former Dauphin county mercantile analyst, and two brothers, David Epler and Squire John Epler, of Elizabethtown. Funeral services will be held to-morrow at 9:30 from the Epler home.

CHILD LABOR BILL MUCH TO THE FORE

Senate Committee in Charge Will Announce Its Action During the Present Week

This week will likely see action by the Senate committee in charge of the child labor and compensation bills, although there is no promise that they will appear as they were passed by the House. The child labor bill particularly faces radical amendment, and a disagreement between the members of the judiciary special committee makes it uncertain just when the measure will be reported. In all probability the legislative leaders will confer this week with the Governor in an effort to compromise on a bill to be enacted. The manufacturers are insisting on several changes in the bill, notably a change in the hours from fifty-one to forty-eight a week. They are upheld by some members of the committee, while others desire to have the measure passed in the Senate as it passed the House.

The six bills and a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution which constitute the workman's compensation measures are in the Senate committee.

The Legislature has reached a point where adjournment may be taken within three weeks from the coming Thursday. Practically all the appropriation bills have been reported out, and if both branches work diligently during this week the bulk of the proposed legislation can be put into such shape that it can be disposed of next week, leaving the week following for a general clean-up.

The date of adjournment will probably be agreed upon before many days. The Senate has in its calendar a resolution fixing May 6, but there are doubts whether the session will end before May 13 or 20.

Both branches of the Legislature are scheduled to meet this evening. On the Senate third reading or final passage stage are the bills repealing the nonpartisan act insofar as it relates to the judges in their records, providing that counties shall pay cost of uniform primaries, regulating moving picture film examinations, the new election act, appropriating $125,000 to pay for cattle and poultry destroyed because of foot and mouth disease, creating a department of municipal affairs and a bureau of vocational education and a division of boiler inspection.

The house has three special orders for to-night, as follows: Providing for plans for ultimate consolidation of the two penitentiaries in Center county, amending personal property tax act of 1913 to bring insurance corporations having no capital stock within its scope and regulating moving picture film examinations. The traction engine bill is a special order for the following day.

Eighty-seven bills of general character are on third reading in the House, with the "jitney" bills on the postponed calendar. On the third reading list are the cold storage re-pealer, requiring railroads to remove a grade crossing in thirty miles of line annually, taxing capital engaged in manufacturing at the rate of 1 mill on the dollar for road purposes and for a 4-mill rate on loans.

Governor Brumbaugh has thus far approved ninety-five bills and vetoed twenty-seven.

LEGISLATURE CAN CHECK THE FIRES

Commissioner Conklin Outlines What Should Be Done in Way of Appropriations

Forestry Commissioner Robert S. Conklin in a statement issued last night declared that the only adequate legislative provision for fire patrol and fire fighting service could prevent serious losses of timber in the future. Mr. Conklin holds that much fire loss could have been prevented if efficient funds had been voted and that the lessons of the fires that have resulted in heavy damages to State and private lands should not be lost.

Mr. Conklin says:

"The great and destructive forest fires which during the last few days have ravaged almost every part of the State, have happily been checked by the rain of Friday morning. It is now probable that the fire fighting force will be relieved for a day or two, and that if any fires persisted through the rain or the fire was not so general as to extinguish all of them, the damp condition of the atmosphere will enable the fire fighting force to overcome every fire."

"The recurring semi-annual nuisance of forest fires is probably attracting greater attention this Spring than usual. The widespread destruction caused by the enormous fire in Cumberland county, serves to bring home to the people of that neighborhood and adjacent regions the full meaning of the forest fire. The vandal who set the forest fire in the severest punishment the State can give him."

"The Department of Forestry has always preached the doctrine that it is cheaper to prevent fires than to extinguish them. The cost is not much greater and in addition the timber and all the other valuable things destroyed are saved. The forest fire law of Section 18, provides a method for daily patrol, but this provision has been completely nullified since the passage of the laws by the refusal of the Legislature to appropriate sufficient money to place men upon daily patrol."

"A patrol of the highly dangerous regions, which, in the experience of the department, results in the quenching of many fires in their incipency, would cause careless users of fire in the woods to be more cautious because of the fact that a patrol is kept. Five minutes' work at a fire at its beginning would save a labor of many hours. The fire has once obtained a great headway."

Two Famous Comedians Pleasing in "The Ham Tree"

noon when the automobile he was driving was struck by a Middleton trolley in Main street, Middletown. Mrs. Nuss, two daughters and a son, who were in the machine, escaped with a few bruises. Dr. D. W. Lavery dressed Nuss's injuries.

Underdue, who is in the hospital, was struck by a motorcycle driven by Raymond R. Nickel, 262 Main street, Steelton, as he alighted from a trolley car at Cameron and Cedar streets Saturday night.

Another revival was presented at the Majestic, on Saturday, when McIntyre and Heath, those two imitable comedians of the blackface, were seen in John Cort's production of "The Ham Tree." This show was seen years ago with the same men in the leading roles, so naturally those whom they have delighted in the past welcomed their return from the vaudeville stage to the old play which won such an enviable reputation for them. A large company, which excelled especially in their dancing, surrounded the principals, and supported them in capable manner.

"The Ham Tree" is an entertainment for plot there is not. But it is a good vehicle for the drollery of McIntyre and Heath. There is no pretense at anything but entertainment, part of which takes the form of novelties. Taking a secondary place to the work of the stars was the dancing, mostly of the clog type, of a large chorus, which was, to say the least, most unusual and excellent.

SERIOUS FOREST FIRE NOW BURNING ON SOUTH MOUNTAIN NEAR BARNITZ STATION

Carlisle, April 26.—South mountain is again the scene of a serious forest fire. The hot sun of yesterday is said to have been responsible for the latest blaze, and as soon as it was discovered, hundreds of volunteer firefighters were mustered into service and the fire heaved down timber along the edge of the fire to keep it from spreading.

The flames swept a five-mile path along the hillside and were within two miles of Barnitz station. It was here that efforts to halt the progress of the fire concentrated, as it menaced a number of farm houses.

Early in the day timber was destroyed in the vicinity of Gardner's clay works, near Toland. J. A. Williams, State forester at Pine Grove, sent out a call for assistance and residents of Pine Grove, Hunters Run, Hunsdale and other places got into action.

Fire Still Burning

To-day the fire was still burning and about 300 men were fighting it, having worked yesterday afternoon and all last night. The flames have swept over hundreds of acres of timber, extending from Toland almost to Mount Holly Springs. Yesterday flames again threatened the destruction of the big buildings of the Philadelphia Clay Company at Toland and nearby also that of S. M. and S. B. Kitzmiller, of Shippensburg, owners of Mt. Holly Springs Park. Another big stretch of Forestry land has been burned over.

TOBACCO PLANTS THRIVING

Special to The Telegraph

Lancaster, April 26.—Plants in the seed beds are so far advanced that the tobacco growers of Lancaster county already count on setting them out in the field the last week in May or the first week in June, at the farthest. So far no insect pests have appeared among the plants in the seed beds, which is attributed to the general sterilization of the ground in the beds that was practiced for the first time in this county.
