NEW BOWMAN STORE TO BE MOST MODERN

Service, Convenience and Safety
Keynotes; to Have Imposing Front

Harrisburg is to have a most modern few times judged by its plans for its new building that Bowman & Co. has been formulating for the past several months. Nothing seems to have been left unthought to complete a store that will rank among the best in the country so far as architectural beauty and modern appliances are concerned.

The new building, six stories in height, will occupy the old Grand Hotel site, which was annexed to the Bowman store in 1911, and while selling space was increased considerably through this purchase, it was soon learned that even with this addition the floor space was by far inadequate to accommodate the remarkable progress this store was making. Since that time almost every season found each department more handicapped as it strove to outgrow its bounds.

With this latest addition the store will have about one-third more selling space, allowing a much larger assortment of merchandise.

Work Goes to Local Firm

In a spirit of civic support, Bowman & Co. have awarded all work, as far as possible, to local individuals and concerns. M. L. Kast, the well-known architect, has designed the front to conform with the present five stories, and it's to be believed few buildings will present a more imposing front, with the immense quantities of glass used. Contract for building operations has been awarded to C. W. Lady, who now has a large force of men at work raising the old part, and in a few days passers-by will see an open space where once stood part of a large store--the Grand Hotel--the Post Office--the quaint old Park House--and originally the city's principal Steel work will be done by the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

New shelving, cases, etc., are now under way, designed to give the interior an imposing appearance and at the same time preserve the newness and brightness of merchandise and afford attractive displays.

Convenience the Keynote

Convenience is the sole basis of the departmental arrangement plan, experts having been employed to design the new layout. Just off the street will be a fine, up-to-date men's haberdashery section, connected by direct stairway to the men's clothing and hat sections, located on the second floor, front.

All large ready-to-wear departments for women will be found on the third floor, including coats, suits, millinery, underclothing, waists and corsets. A beautiful new restroom has been built in the rear of this floor to accommodate women patrons who desire to enjoy a period of rest while shopping. These conveniences are only a few of the many but also deserving of mention is the removal of the shoe department to the main floor.

As to service, much has been planned. Their purpose is to embody features that will avoid all delay, especially during rush times. Only last fall two elevators of the most approved type, were installed to transfer passengers to all floors and basement in as little time as possible. Extending from the sixth floor down will be a spiral chute, through which duplicate stock may reach any department in a twinkling, also whereby packages can be sent to the delivery department. This latter department will play an important part in the way of bettering service--to hasten packages to their destination.

Fire Protection

For complete protection against fire an automatic sprinkler system will be installed, with miles of pipe reaching to every nook and corner of the entire structure. At points of every five feet distance sprinkler heads are located, and with the outburst of flames they automatically open and throw a deluge of water upon the fire. This is only one of the numerous "safety first" appliances that have been adopted.

Bowman & Co. have occupied their present location since 1895, having been compelled to seek larger quarters than the small storeroom at 113 Market street provided. This business was founded in 1871 under the firm name of C. L. Bowman & Co., having as a plant a small store at 222 Market street. Despite many obstacles the business continued to grow, until to-day, after forty-four years, it is looked on as one of the most progressive and fast-growing establishments to be found in Central Pennsylvania.

SAYS COMPANY BREAKS FAITH WITH THE CITY

conferences to adopt plans to meet both the practical and architectural requirements.

Essential Features Omitted

"I now find that in the structures under way essential features of this plan have been omitted. Furthermore, a representative of the parent company has written that it is proposed to build the structure and add the ornaments afterward, a process that anyone conversant with good design knows cannot be done successfully.

"At a conference during this visit with the representatives of the company and of the Department of Parks and Public Property it was made clear that the company was not desirous of making any important concessions, if any at all, in violation of the ordinance providing for the use of the site does not require the company to make any such concessions.

"Trees Welled Many Feet

"I find that the trees that they were required to save have been filled over and welled many feet deep, not transplanted to the new surface, as I would have advised had I been consulted.

"Without the compulsion of an ordinance or a stronger evidence of a real desire to make the structure an attractive one on the part of the company, I believe that my most effective recourse is an appeal to the force of public opinion.

"If the proposed structure at this point is to be built and then ornamented afterward, then in my opinion it would be better to at once call a halt, arrange for the city to acquire the dock under construction for a public landing, for which it is so well arranged, and require the company to handle its coal by a purely utilitarian floating structure, which was one of their alternatives, and then to have made a much more thorough and exhaustive examination of the whole river basin frontage to determine the most satisfactory place for handling the river coal, sand and other products therein in a less offensive way than it is now being handled.

"If it is decided to go on with the dock, it would be well to call in architects of national reputation, such as Mr. Henry Bacon or Mr. Charles A. Platt, if they would come, to pass upon their architectural treatment of the structure." (Signed)

Publication of Demands Has Embarrassed Japan

Tokio, Thursday, April 22, by mail to Shanghai, May 6.--(Precede Mukden, Chinese situation).

The world-wide publication of the list of demands presented to China by Japan shortly after the defeat of the German garrison at Kiao-Chow and which still are being negotiated between the two governments coupled with the reports of growing opposition to them in England and the attitude on this whole subject of the United States, has greatly embarrassed the Japanese government, from which the people expect much.

Various political associations in Japan are clamoring for drastic measures against China. Everybody sees the possibility of war and speculating upon the nature and the extent of the military campaign Japan would have to undertake should China refuse to cede.

Italy Makes Elaborate Preparations For War

By Associated Press
On the Italian Frontier, Wednesday, May 5, via Paris, May 6, 12.40 P. M.--At the same time that the negotiations between Italy and Austria are being continued, Italy's military preparations are being completed with as much energy as though the country expected to participate in war tomorrow.

All the Carabinieri and the customs guards, who in Italy are attached to the army, have been called to the colors and all military leaves of absence have been suppressed.

The frontier of Italy on the Austrian side has been strongly fortified. All the passes are protected with entrenchments and wire entanglements. Concrete has been used in a number of places in the erection of barricades for the protection of the soldiers.

Special measures have been adopted for the defense of Venice and the art treasures in this city.

PEACE IN COAL FIELD FOR YEAR

NERVOUS CHILDREN

From early spring until July is the time that St. Vitus' dance usually develops and nervous children should be carefully watched during that time for symptoms of the disease.

Irritability is one of the first signs noted. The child frets, is quarrelsome, cannot be amused and does not sleep well. The jerky movements and weakness characteristic of the disease come a little later. The patient becomes pale, languid, has little appetite and is usually constipated. Such a child should not be allowed to study, but should be kept quiet, given a nutritious diet, remain out of doors as much as possible and take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. If unusual symptoms develop or if the nervousness continues to the point of hysteria a physician should be called. In most cases the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is sufficient. Without treatment, St. Vitus' dance may become chronic.

Parents of nervous children should write to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a copy of the free booklet, "Nervous Disorders. A Method of Home Treatment," and a diet book called "What to Eat and How to Eat." Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with directions for use.--Advertisement.
