would compète this summer in a series of races has stirred yachting circles.

These yachts, together with the Defiance, sold for the metal she contained early in January, formed the trio built for the purpose of defending the America's cup against Shamrock IV., Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger.

The Defiance proved to be unfitted for the task for which she was built, and after a career of less than a year was sold for about $6,500, although her total cost to the Tri-City syndicate which financed her building was more than $100,000. Vanitie and Resolute were more satisfactory, showing excellent speed and sailing qualities in the 1914 trial races.

Between June 2 and August 4 these two yachts sailed a series of twenty races off Sandy Hook, Newport and in Long Island Sound. Defiance also competed several times, her best showing being second place in four races.

During the trial regattas last summer the Resolute won fifteen firsts and two seconds; Vanitie five firsts, fourteen seconds and one third; Defiance four seconds and three thirds. The Resolute sailed 474 miles in winning first place fifteen times, her total corrected time for this distance being 67 hours, 21 minutes, 25 seconds. Vanitie sailed 150% miles in 23 hours, 32 minutes and 46 seconds in her five winning races.
