PRESIDENT REVIEWS AMERICAN WARSHIPS

Mayor's citizens' committee, an escort of mounted police and a great crowd of citizens. Automobiles were on hand to carry the President and his official party to the reviewing stand in front of the public library at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street. Extraordinary precautions had been taken to protect the Chief Executive. In addition to the usual secret service guards and the uniformed police, the whole detective force, 600 strong, were assigned to stations along the line of march.

From each ship 250 bluejackets and sixty marines were landed to form four regiments of bluejackets and one of marines—under the command of Admiral Dewitt Coffman, brigade commander. Not a few officers and men distinguished themselves at a less peaceful landing party at Vera Cruz more than a year ago.

Guest at Luncheon
The line of march, densely packed with spectators, was along Twenty-fifth street, Fifth avenue, Fifty-seventh street and up Broadway to the embarking point at the foot of Seventy-ninth street. The head of the parade was timed to reach the reviewing stand at 10:30 o'clock. Here Admiral Fletcher and other high officers of the fleet, Acting Mayor McAnany and other local notables had seats with the President. They were to accompany him after the parade to the Biltmore Hotel where he was to be the city's guest at a luncheon and make a brief speech.

company him after the parade to the Biltmore Hotel where he was to be the city's guest at a luncheon and make a brief speech. The program called for Mr. Wilson's return to the Mayflower after the luncheon. Then the raising of the President's flag was to be the signal that the commander-in-chief of the fleet was ready to receive calls from its flag officers and captains. This ceremony completed at 3:30 o'clock, the Mayflower weighed anchor for the review. Her course was north between the battleships and the Manhattan shore. The Mayflower's escort was a diversion of destroyers followed by the dispatch boat Dolphin, carrying Secretary Daniels and by the fleet tender Yankton, the police boat patrol and the auxiliary cruiser Dixie.

Backbone of Navy
The fleet which President Wilson sees to-day for the first time in his official capacity comprises virtually the entire strength of the Atlantic naval forces and is the backbone of a navy which at the outbreak of the European war stood second only to Great Britain and Germany's. The cruiser division alone is not represented. Of the sixteen battleships, the super-dreadnaughts New York and Texas with their great 14-inch guns are rated the most powerful. The other units of the battle squadron in the order in which they were built are Wyoming (fleet flagship), Utah, Florida, Delaware, North Dakota, Michigan, South Carolina, Kansas, New Hampshire, Louisiana, Virginia, Rhode Island, Nebraska and Georgia. Sixteen destroyers, twelve submarines, three

Because of War Composer Saint Saens Spurns a Friend

MME. ELIES KUTSCHERRA & CAMILLE SAINT-SAENS

New York, May 17.—When the transatlantic liner Rochambeau had warped into her dock here four dignified men came down the gangplank. A handsomely-dressed woman rushed up, with arms extended. "Maestro," she cried, "I'm so happy to see you; so very happy." "Ah, Kutscherra, Kutscherra," cried one man, and allowed her to put her arms about him. But then suddenly he pushed her away and shouted, "No, no, no, you are a German. Away, away!" And turning to his companions, he beckoned them, and left the dock without another look at the grief-stricken woman.

Such was the greeting of Camille Saint Saens, the far-famed French composer, to Mme. Elies Kutscherra, the Wagnerian leader singer friend of royalty, and for the past fifteen years, associated with Saint Saens in professional work.

monitors, mine laying, repair, hospital, refrigerator and other auxiliary vessels compose the rest of the fleet. "Fine," "Wonderful!" "A great set of men," were some of the President's expressions as the blue line tramped past in front of the reviewing stand. Once his face became very grave, however, when the sailors from the Florida and Utah marched by holding aloft a standard on which was written "Vera Cruz, April 21-22, 1914." The Florida's mascot, "Dynamite," a goat, restored his smile.

The Mayflower's arrival in New York harbor last night instead of this morning was due to a storm off the New Jersey coast yesterday. Nearly every one in the President's party became seasick. The President showed the effects of the voyage less than other members of the party, but did not feel very well, he said. It is likely that the party will return to Washington by train.

In his room the President received a number of telegrams from Washington. He read them with interest, but nothing requiring his immediate attention. Some of the messages, it was said, outlined the reception by the press of Germany of the President's note of May 13.

English and Germans Battle in the Skies

London, May 17, 1:45 P. M.—An announcement was made at the admiralty to-day that the German dirigible which raised its flag early this morning dropping forty bombs and injuring three persons, had been pursued and apparently damaged seriously. The statement follows: "The Zeppelin that attacked Ramsgate early this morning was chased off by East Church and Westgate machines as far as the west humberlight-ship.

"When off Nieuport, Belgium, she was attacked by eight naval machines from Dunkirk. Three machines were able to attack her at close range fire. Flight Commander Bigsforth dropped four bombs when 200 feet above the airship. A large column of smoke was seen to come out of one of her compartments. "The Zeppelin then rose to a great height—11,000 feet, with her tail down, and is believed to be severely damaged. "All our machines were exposed to a heavy fire from the Zeppelin. There were no casualties."

Labor Troubles Cause 2,000 Men to Be Idle

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 17.—Two thousand employees of the three collieries of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company are idle to-day as the result of labor troubles. The Hollenback colliery in this city is tied up by a button strike and 700 men are idle. One thousand men refused to start to work in the Maxwell colliery at Ashley because of the refusal of the officials to reinstate two discharged driver boys and about 300 men are still on strike at the Station colliery here where they object to a new system of checking the time they work. The district officers of the miners' union are in session to-day trying to effect a settlement.

THIRTEEN ARRESTS

Thirteen arrests were ordered by the State Department of Labor and Industry for violation of the State women's employment law last week. This is the largest number in any single week.

HACKETT BILL IS VETOED BY GOVERNOR

State Industrial Board Is Held Competent to Adjust Any Difficulties

The State Industrial Board is held to be competent to adjust any difficulties that may arise under the women's employment law of 1913 by Governor Brumbaugh in a message sent to the Senate to-day giving his reasons for vetoing the Hackett bill to extend the maximum number of hours women may be employed in hotels, boarding houses, restaurants and similar places. The Governor discusses the bill in detail, saying in part: "This bill relates to the terms of employment of women in hotels, boarding houses and restaurants. It amends existing law by changing the week hours from 54 to 63 and the day per week from 6 to 7. x x x To lengthen the hours of labor for all female employes in the establishments named is a serious matter. It is asked for on the ground of administrative necessity. It is opposed on the ground of humane treatment of women. In the last analysis the welfare of our people is the supremely vital matter and the Industrial Board is competent under law to adjust any difficulties that are reasonably of adjustment. The members who honestly believe in the welfare of the community get no credit in this measure and the proprietors are inconvenienced because of the need for early meals. Here again a reason for adjustment will accomplish more than a reactionary law. In all such enactments it is difficult to distinguish between those who have a reasonable basis for their claims and those who really desire to serve social justice but find it difficult to do so. To the former the Commonwealth is of course give no heed. To the latter every aid should be given to the end that their proper activities may be safeguarded in connection with the welfare of these worthy members who honestly labor to live. The present administration will gladly through its industrial board and its legal department lend every aid consistent with the most humane and just treatment of the cases concerned."

Other Bills Vetted

Other bills vetted were: Horton House bill relating to safety devices on trains at soft coal mines. The Governor saying: "It seems to me a waste of time and money to attempt to do by a new law what same and sensible administration under existing law can do and do as well." Hamilton House bill authorizing second class cities to issue bonds for two years instead of five. The Governor says it would open the whole matter to litigation and confusion and that existing laws afford methods whereby cities can negotiate bonds. Patton Senate bill directing city solicitor to prepare in advance plans of all improvements when a jury is appointed to change a highway or take property for public use. The Governor says "No well governed city would refuse all necessary information to parties in interest when a change is made in any highway. When the city wishes to enter upon some great and important improvement it is manifestly unwise to limit such improvement to the plans made in advance and publicly sold to all applicants for a trifling sum. Should the city, in
