MANY HOUSEWIVES GREET MRS. VAUGHN

with the idea of a kitchenless home nor does she believe that the communal dwelling is likely to be popular with women who have at heart the interests of home and family life. Her lecture met with enthusiastic approval in Harrisburg where the women are, beyond question, good home makers and fine housekeepers.

Mrs. Vaughn Is Busy Woman
A delightful aroma of delicious foods in the process of preparation filled Fahnestock Hall at the Y. M. C. A. even before the first early comers presented themselves this afternoon. Mrs. Vaughn and her assistants had spent a very busy morning getting everything in shape for the opening session of the Telegraph Home Economics School.

"I expect a lot of company this afternoon," said Mrs. Vaughn smilingly to a Telegraph reporter, "and as every wise hostess should do to save herself a lot of unnecessary work, we are going to get everything ready beforehand and then this afternoon we can just talk and talk as long as we please. I find that women everywhere are deeply interested in easy and up-to-date housekeeping methods and when we start to discussing these topics it is not easy to stop. Of course we shall not simply talk about cooking, but shall actually cook a great many dishes each afternoon, but I am anxious that every woman who attends our classes shall have an opportunity to sample our cooking and submit our methods to the most severe test, and in order to do this, it is necessary for us to prepare a great deal of the food beforehand."

With her wholesome face, charming smile and beautiful Southern voice, Mrs. Vaughn is quite the most pleasing advocate of the Better Foods-Better Homes movement one could meet in a day's travel. She is so young looking that it is hard to believe she has a daughter studying domestic science, but she is at the same time so motherly that it is not at all surprising to hear that that which interests her more than anything else in the world is the development of young lives. Though quite jolly, with a pleasant smile and a merry greeting for everyone she meets, Mrs. Vaughn gets most dreadfully in earnest when talking about the Better Foods-Better Homes movement and its effect upon growing boys and girls.

The program for to-morrow promises to be a most interesting one. Mrs. Vaughn's subject will be "Economy" and it is safe to predict that it will be interesting from start to finish.

Mrs. Vaughn's Recipes
Eggnog Cake—Two cupfuls sugar, 1/2 cupful crisco, 6 eggs (yolks) beaten light, 1 teaspoonful vanilla, 1 cupful sweet milk, 4 cupfuls flour, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder, sifted in flour. Beat crisco in one-half of sugar, balance of sugar in eggs, combine, alternate milk and dry ingredients, fold in well-beaten eggs, whites last. Bake in layers or loaf.

Cream Icing
One-half cupful sweet whipping cream—beat into this confectioner's sugar until it is stiff paste, place bowl containing this paste over steam and stir until same melts, add 1 table-spoonful crisco, remove to table and flour with Bournett's vanilla. Beat for few seconds and pour over cake. Cocoa in desired quantity may be added.

Savory Eggs
Boil eggs hard and put into cold water until needed. Peel, cut in halves lengthwise, take out yolks and mix with parsley chopped fine, a little pepper and salt, and a little anchovy paste. Fry some croutons of bread in crisco until a nice golden color. Place on each a half shell and fill with your mixture made hot. Then place in oven a few minutes and cook.

River "Basin" Rules Discussed by Municipal League and City Planners

What regulations should be adopted by the city relative to the Susquehanna river "basin" as the stretch of water formed by the municipal dam called, were discussed this afternoon at a meeting of the Municipal League and the Planning Commission. The question of the electric light company's coal wharf, the probable establishment of other wharves and their regulation, the construction of a boathouse along the River Front and other problems growing out of a proper maintenance and jurisdiction of the new Water Front, were threshed out. Whether or not any recommendations on the subject would be made to Council had not been determined up until a late hour this afternoon.

SUBMARINE SIGHTED 40 MINUTES BEFORE LUSITANIA WAS HIT

Survivor, Who Reached New York Today, Tells of Struggling Women in Water

New York, May 24.—A vivid description of the sinking of the Lusitania, torpedoed May 7 off the Irish coast, was given here by Dr. Carl E. Foss, of Harlem, Mont., a survivor, who reached New York to-day aboard the steamer New York from Liverpool. "From the deck of the Lusitania I saw submarine, about a mile away, at 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon," Dr. Foss said. "I borrowed a pair of glasses and through them saw the submarine plainly, although I could not make out its nationality or number. It was traveling at the same speed of the steamer—we were going very slowly—and left a white wake of foam. "The Lusitania's officers must have seen the submarine at the same time, for the course of the steamer was changed. The submarine was submerged after staying on the surface about five minutes. Forty minutes later the torpedo struck. "There was some little excitement on deck, but no panic. The steamer tipped to one side. I was unable to jump overboard when I saw stewards taking life belts from a box on the deck. I went back and passed out the life belts to passengers as long as they lasted, taking one myself. Then I dropped off the rail into the water. "Soon afterward I saw lifeboat break from the davits and fall into the sea almost under the propeller blades. The blades ripped through the little boat and battered it to bits. One of the men was cut to pieces before my eyes; the water was red where the boat went down. "The boilers exploded and sent up a cloud of steam and debris all around me. I swam away as fast as I could and met a woman struggling for breath. She had a child her arms. I found an ear and gave it to her to rest on. "A short distance away I came across another woman. I steadied her as much as I could and guided her to the oar. With the women clinging to the oar, I towed them, using the oar as a tow line, to a boat. When we got there we found it was full and waterlogged. It carried a few minutes afterward. What happened to those who were in it I can only imagine. "Some time afterward I saw another woman in the water. Her strength was nearly spent. I managed to save her by assisting her to a raft on which there were eight other survivors. We were picked up and taken into Queenstown by a tug."

Kaiser Seeks to Maintain Good Opinion of Uncle Sam

Special to The Telegraph
Washington, May 24.—It is expected that the reply of Germany to the American note will be completed Tuesday. It is anticipated that in German quarters that Germany's answer to President Wilson will not be defiant nor harsh in tone, but designed to open the way for amicable discussion. It will be a long document, devoted to the question of a free and open sea for neutral commerce, and will review events connected therewith since the beginning of the war. Germany desires to maintain friendly relations with the United States because this country is the only neutral first-class power left to champion the doctrine of a free sea.

Francis Joseph Sends Note to His Soldiers

By Associated Press
London, May 24, 4.45 A. M.—A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says the Vienna Zeitung publishes the following autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph to Count Karl Stuergh: "Dear Count Stuergh: I request you to make public the attached manifesto to my troops: "Vienna, May 23. Francis Joseph to his troops: "The king of Italy has declared war on me. Perfidy, whose like history does not know, was committed by the kingdom of Italy against both allies. After an alliance of more than fifty years duration, during which it was able to increase its territorial possessions and develop itself to an unheard-of extent, it has suddenly abandoned us in our hour of danger and went over with flying colors into the camp of our enemies. "We did not menace Italy; did not curtail her authority; did not attack her honor or interests. We always responded loyally to the duties of our alliance and offered her our protection when she took the field. We have done more. When Italy directed covetous glances across our frontier, we, in order to maintain peace and our alliance relation. We resolved on great sacrifices, which, however, have not grievous our parental heart. The covetousness of Italy, which believed the moment should be used, was not to be appeased so fate must be accommodated."

ASKS FOR COPY OF RIPPER RESOLUTION

Commissioner Gorgas Starts Hub-bub of Conjecture in Municipal Circles

Request by City Commissioner W. L. Gorgas to-day for a copy of the famous Lynch "ripper" resolution providing for the retention of some and the dismissal of other incumbents in certain city departments, including the Board of Public Works, was responsible, it is said, for the circulation of the report in municipal circles that the superintendent of finance meant to make inquiry of the disposition of the board's money at to-morrow's session of Council. Rumor had it that Mr. Gorgas meant to raise the question of the amount of the board's pay roll during the past winter particularly and previous years generally in connection with the river interceptor arbitrators' report.

The Commissioner said to-day, however, that he was only obtaining a copy of the resolution "for information." The fact that the engineering expenses had totaled something like $900 to $1,000 a month during the winter, he said, had been brought to his attention, and he merely wanted to look this up.

The report of the river front interceptor arbitrators will be considered in Council to-morrow afternoon and it is expected that members of the board, the City Engineer and the City Solicitor will attend.

What disposition will be made of the curfew ordinance, city commissioners to-day declined to say definitely other than to admit that it might be amended so as to correct some errors. Commissioner Harry F. Bowman will likely offer a resolution authorizing the purchase of an automobile for his department. Commissioner M. Harvey Taylor said he will submit his horse awards to-morrow, too.
